And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 698, as follows:

An Act to prevent the incorporation of societies and associations not for profit with names styles or titles identical with or similar to the names styles or titles of State boards commissions or other activities and the use by such societies and associations already incorporated of such names styles or titles where such identity or similarity is calculated to result or has resulted in a confusion in the public mind between the recommendations and operations of such societies and associations and those of said State boards commissions or other activities

Whereas The existence in the Commonwealth of societies and associations incorporated as corporations not for profit with names styles or titles identical with or similar to those of State boards commissions or activities has led to a confusion in the public mind so that the recommendations and operations of said unofficial societies and associations are confounded with those of said official boards commissions or activities to the injury of the interests affected thereby therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever any association or society shall apply to any court of common pleas of the Commonwealth for incorporation as a corporation not for profit under a name style or title identical with or similar to that of any State board commission or activity it shall be lawful for such State board commission or activity to intervene by petition as a party to such application and if upon the hearing of said application it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that the use by such proposed corporation of the said name style or title will be calculated to lead to a confusion in the public mind between the recommendations and operations of such proposed corporation and those of said State board commission or activity the said court shall refuse to incorporate said proposed corporation under said name style or title or any similar name style or title

Section 2 Whenever any association or society shall have been heretofore or may hereafter be incorporated as a corporation not for profit with a name style or title identical with or similar to the name style or title of any State board commission or activity the use of which name style or title by said corporation has in the opinion of said State board commission or activity led to a confusion in the public mind between the recommendations and operations of said corporation and those of said State board commission or activity it shall be lawful for the said State board commission or activity to present to the court of common pleas which incorporated said corporation a petition setting out the facts as aforesaid and praying that the name style or title of such corporation shall be changed so that the same shall not be identical with or similar to that of said State board commission or activity and if upon the hearing of said petition it shall appear to said court that the use of said name style or title by said corporation has been and is calculated to lead to a confusion in the public mind between the recommendations and operations of said corporation and those of said State board commission or activity or if it shall appear to the said court that for any reason the use by said corporation of said name style or title is undesirable and not for the best interest of the public then the said court shall order and decree that the said name style or title be changed to such name style or title not identical with or similar to the name style or title of the petitioner as the court may order and direct

EVENING SESSION.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE CHARLES J. MAGEE, LATE SENATOR FROM THE FORTY-THIRD DISTRICT.

The Senate met at 8 o'clock P. M.

The ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Charles H. Kline) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by the resolution for holding the memorial services on the death of Honorable Charles J. Magee, late Senator from the Forty-third District, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis. offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we are assembled here in special session to pay our tribute of respect to the memory of our beloved friend, Senator Charles J. Magee. His vacant chair reminds us that another resplendant star has been joined to the galaxy of Pennsylvania statesmen who have finished their earthly careers.

One of the most striking characteristics of the late Senator was his buoyant life. There was no limit to his energies. The intense thoughts of his mind, and the deep feelings of his heart always found accurate expression in his manly face and in his open countenance. If he erred, it was an error of the mind, not of the heart. He was not only our colleague in the business of State legislation. he was our companion, our friend and our brother. No ties of creed or race could separate him from the interests of his fellow-man. The Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man was the goal toward which he concentrated all his energies. We all respected and admired him for his courage, his sincerity, his powerful will and unswerving loyalty.

May the memory of his broad-minded large-hearted life be a source of comfort to his distinguished brother the other members of his family and his many friends. May Thy special blessings be with all our Senators and their families.

These favors we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE CHARLES J. MAGEE, LATE SENATOR FROM THE FORTY-THIRD DISTRICT.

Mr. BUCKMAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has removed from among us on March 13, 1917, our friend and colleague, the Honorable Charles J. Magee, Senator from the Forty-third District; and

Whereas, This body desires to enter its testimony in appreciation of the sterling qualities of our late member.

Therefore, Be it Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby records its high estimate of our late associate as a citizen, a legislator and a man;

Resolved, That in the death of Senator Magee the Commonwealth has lost one of its most prominent young citizens, the Senate a faithful and efficient member and we, his associates, an honored and trustworthy friend;

Resolved, That we tender to his family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the great loss they have sustained;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the President and attested by the clerk be sent to the family of the deceased.

JAMES P. McNICHOL.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in rising to move the adoption of this resolution I do so with a heavy heart. Death has removed from our midst one of the most lovely young characters I have ever known. The late Senator Magee came into this Senate some years ago and at that time was the youngest man in this Senate. He came from a different part of the State than that from which I came and naturally as he was one of the younger members I was thrown into his company a great deal and I, like a great many of the younger members of this Senate, naturally took a great liking to him. He was devoted in his duties, faithful in his attendance in this chamber and at all times careful and considerate in his actions and in the treatment of the members of this body. He did not always vote as I did, Mr. President, but the fact that there were factional differences existing between us never made a particle of difference in our personal relations and I believe that to be true between him and every other member of the Senate. At times when factional strife would be at the high water mark I have seen him go up to other members of other factions and throwing aside the factional differences which existed engaged them in the most friendly conversation. He was one of the most active members of the Appropriations Committee, of which I have the honor to be chairman, and traveled throughout the length and breadth of this State and it was a beautiful sight to see the charity and sympathy expressed by this young man for the dependents of the state in the various institutions which we were called upon to visit. There were many characteristics in this young man's life which were most beautiful. Foremost to me especially was his character as a brother. I have never seen a more beautiful example of true brotherly love and devotion than existed between Senator Magee and his brother. They not only lived together, spent their time together and worked together, but they were friends in the truest sense of the word, and if there is a man in this chamber to-night who does not have a brother and he never had a brother he does not know the meaning of my words when I say I sympathize with all my heart with the remaining brother of this family in his bereavement. During the present session Senator Magee and myself and several other members of the Senate have been even more closely associated than we were at the previous sessions in that we occupied the same residence here in Harrisburg. This drew us together almost continuously and when the word came to us of the serious illness of our departed brother it was lake a pall upon the whole household. The Appropriations Committee was visiting in Erie when we heard of the serious illness of Senator Magee and from that time until after his death it was the constant wish and prayer of every one of us that he might be restored to health. We were, however, hoping against hope, for we know of his frail condition of health. I was told by one of his boyhood friends that he had a beautiful, happy death. In moving the adoption of this resolution, Mr. President, I do so knowing full well that this is the very least we can do at this time for our departed brother.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. President and Senators, it is a sad duty for me to be called upon to say a word to perpetuate the memory of a deceased Senator, for the most pleasing part of our service as Senators is the respect, kindness and good will that usually prevails among us.

Two years ago when I came here as a stranger and member of this Senate to serve my district and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I became acquainted with Senator Magee, now gone from our midst. I soon became acquainted with him because there was no aristocratic crust to break through. He was open to acquaintance and friendship on the dead level. I was attracted to him because I was reminded of a school boy friend a few years older than myself who enlisted in the Rebellion of '61-65 and lost his life leading his command in a gallant charge. This boy friend and soldier possessed in his make-up the gentleness of a child and the courage of a lion. So did my friend Senator Charles Magee, with his gentleness and courage, he also possessed that most valuable asset of a Real Man—integrity; for if he told a fellow Senator that he would do a thing, that settled it, the matter was done. He leaves to emulate us these splendid qualities—Integrity, Courage, Gentleness and Kindness and, let us say, like Tennyson's Brook, "Flow on, and on, forever." His youth, his splendid qualities, the prayers of his many friends could not save him in his last conflict. Charley has fallen, as we all must fall before the Great Destroyer, and so when I look upon his empty chair the flowers and draped desk, the lines in Gray's Elegy comes to me in pathetic tones "The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, and all that beauty, all that wealth ere gave, await alike the inevitable hour. The paths of human glory lead but to the grave."

Mr. VARE. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, this is certainly a very sad meeting when we come here in memorial service for the late Charles J. Magee. The first time I met Charlie Magee, as we all knew him, I had the same experience as our friend, Senator Stewart, had with him. He was easy of approach, gentlemen, in his nature, kind and willing to help every other one of the forty-nine Senators who sat here with him in this body, and above all other qualities I considered him a man in his splendid make-up, his stability and his work, and it seems to me, that of all the men I have met, both in this Senate, as well as the House, I never saw a young man frail and small in stature in every way, who had as much stability, who stood by his word as faithfully and as strong as Charlie Magee.

He was not only a splendid young Senator among Senators, but he was a splendid young man wherever he went. He used to visit my house occasionally and when he came into the house all the children would group around him, and wherever you find a friend the children warm up to and stay warmed up to that is one of the best tests of kindliness in a man's make-up. I do not know whether I can add much to what has already been said except to say that I am somewhat in the position of the late Charlie Magee's brother. I lost a brother in this Senate who had some of the good qualities which Charlie had and I certainly feel as Senator Buckman has said that it is a great pity when two brothers who thought as much of each other as these splendid boys did that they have to be separated, especially so early in life. Charlie Magee was always ready and always willing to help everybody around this hill, whether in the Senate, in the House or out of both. He always had a helping hand for everybody, for every man who needed help, and he did it with such a splendid spirit that you appreciated his help. He was a manly young man and I want to repeat that it is a great pity that he was taken from our midst practically when his life, under ordinary circumstances, seemed to be only half over.

Mr. PHIPPS. Mr. President, I am sure that I would not be responding to the promptings of my heart if I missed this opportunity to-night to add my tribute of respect to the memory of Charlie Magee. The first day I became an official member of this body I became acquainted with him, and from that day until he closed his eyes in death we were warm and devoted friends. He had not passed many milestones along the highway of life until he was compelled to lay down its burdens, its cares and its responsibilities and take that last long sleep in that Beautiful Island of Somewhere. As I knew him always in life, so I saw him in death, with that same smile on his face, unmindful alike of the stormy voyage or of the peaceful harbor or the shore of eternity. He was my real friend, as he was of many, many others for whom he had done a kind act, or given a word of cheer and comfort, and who knew and loved him. And if all his friends could but drop their flowers upon the tablets of his love and memory I am sure he would sleep on forever beneath a wilderness of roses. Among my varied experiences with men I do not believe I ever knew a young man who really and truly was more anxious to be of service to his friends than Charlie Magee. His heart was always true, his word and his promise were never broken. We have missed him in our Harrisburg homes. We have missed him in the deliberations and counsels of this distinguished body. And as we bade him a last farewell and laid him away for his last long sleep on yonder hill, we buried his faults on the sands and his memory is enshrined in every one of our hearts.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I can but inadequately express my thought at this time for two reasons: First, I have hardly words at my command; and second, the words that have already been spoken here to-night leave a somewhat choking sob in my throat. I would say to the delegation from Allegheny that Philadelphia extends her hand across this great Commonwealth to you, sir, and to you, fellow-members, in sympathy in the loss that Allegheny has sustained. Every word that has been spoken here to-night is true. He was honest, he was loyal; he treated every man in the Senate on the level. He did not bear the hypocritical smile, nor was he false enough to make you believe he was otherwise than just exactly as he was, honest and upright. I want to say to the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Burke, that one of the last things that Charlie Magee said to me—and this typifies the man—he said to me: "Gust, I want you to do one thing for me, I want you to do a little favor for Senator Burke." I will not mention what it was, but he said, "It is only fair." That was the way he expressed himself and that is the way he went all through life, and I feel to-night if in memory we could sail along with him, it would be in a bark of love and that bark would be loaded down with flowers, every one of which would denote loving sympathy, and if we would go out to-night on to the Capitol steps and could pierce beyond the starlight of night, we would see Charles J. Magee in the kingdom of Heaven in the presence of God Almighty.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. President, in uniting to-night to pay tribute to the memory of our late loved colleague, we do so with aching hearts, and a full realization of the shadow of sorrow that hangs over the Senate Chamber.

The sense of loneliness, the feeling of depression as we see the vacant chair speaks more eloquently than the words of worth of the one who has gone.

Charles J. Magee was noted for his convictions. He hewed out his own course, and no sinister influence or power could ever sway him from that course.

Because of his honesty and his independence he was loved and respected. A young man, he was keenly alive to the interests of the Commonwealth, and the welfare of its people.

His mind penetrated not the surface, but the depth of all matters of public interest. His keen penetration, his clear perception, his astute judgement and his deep wisdom. His devotion to right, and his loyalty to the masses gained him an enviable reputation, and proclaimed him a statesman of whom Pennsylvania could well be proud.

It is hard to understand at times the divine purpose in things. We can only believe that all things happen for the best, but there is one truth we do know. A fact we do understand, and that is that through the hand of Death, the people have lost a friend, and the State a brilliant and gifted son.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, heart and mind are this evening engendering a contraversion of feeling, a feeling of sadness at the occurrance that brings us here at this memorial service, and a feeling of gladness that it affords me an opportunity to express the thoughts that I have indited.

"Charles J. Magee, Allegheny County. Term expires December, 1916."

That was the brief and modest autobiography he wrote for publication in Smull's Legislative Hand Book; but his words, not of himself, spoken in this chamber, his acts relating to his duties, his sterling manliness, and his never-failing kindliness and consideration for others have engraved upon our hearts the image of one of nature's noblemen.

As the unchangeable, irrevocable circumstance which has resulted in this meeting has borne home to us the realization that we shall see and know no more the face and form we know so well, and that the voice we have heard so many times is forever still, something rises within us and forces to utterance the child's lament, "Oh! While my brother with me played would I had loved him more."

The minute of his life and passing away, which we shall write into the history of our Commonwealth, can be but a paltry postscript to what he has in reality done for his State, as a member of this Senate, and as a man.

Notwithstanding all our grief, and all the desires to eulogize welling up within us, we are forced to a realization of their futility, and must bow our heads in begrudging acknowledgement of the implacable truth of those sublime words of Sir Thomas Gray,

> "Can storied urn or animated bust
> Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
> Can Honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
> Or Flatt'ry soothe the dull cold ear of Death?"

The flowers we sent, the words we utter, the minute we make, are merely the eminations of the sorrow we feel, and but tardy recognitions of our debt to him for being as he was.

We all recognized and valued his broad knowledge, his able statesmanship, his persuasive eloquence, his characteristic manliness, and his sterling integrity; but he has left to us, and to all who knew him, a far richer heritage in memories of him as one who comforted the sick, encouraged the downhearted and put sunshine into the hearts of all with whom he came in contact by his constantly cheerful courtesy and kindliness of thought, word and deed. We may be consoled in part by those, and by the feeling that "he who goes is happier far than those he leaves behind."

In what bright portion of the universe his noble spirit now rests, and what new form it may have taken, it is not given to us to know, because we can see only as through a glass darkly, but where'er he is—or how—we who knew him well here below do know that the character of Charles J. Magee needs no transfiguration.

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. President, this is a very sad occasion for me, for the reason that I feel that in the death of Senator Magee I have lost one of my very warmest friends. From the time I came to the Senate in the session of 1915 until the time of his decease we saw a good deal of each other and I learned to love him almost like a brother. I feel that I can express my feeling best in regard to this by the following lines

> "He softly hurried out and shut the door;
> And all my soul with bitter anguish shook.
> I strive to pierce the darkness, o'er and o'er,
> 'Tis not for me to know the course he took;
> Yet biding here in grief I can but know
> That blue and kindly skies above him bend
> And whither he has journeyed I shall go.
> He was my friend.
> "One by one the Great-All-Father
> Gently lets his seasons fall,
> One by one the storm and sunshine,
> Cast their shadows over all.
> One by one we lose the hand grasp
> That so warm a welcome gave,
> One by one their voices silence
> In the stillness of the grave.
> One by one we miss the faces
> Of the forms we once cares't,
> One by one their names are written > Ceased to labor, home, at rest."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—49.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LYNCH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. McKEE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 8.41 o'clock P. M. until Wednesday morning, April 4th, 1917, at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, April 3, 1917.

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. S. G. Zerfass offered the following prayer:

Father, as the new day has come to us, we wait before Thee to get Thy blessing.

We would forget our past mistakes and sins, our past battles and struggles, our past sorrows and our regrets, therefore we ask for grace to live better lives, to honor Thee and bless the world.

We plead Thy promises and await the fulfillment of these promises, for the members of the House, the Speaker, and all of us.

We need Thy guidance and help at every step. We desire to live in the world as those who belong to heaven, carrying heaven's love in our hearts, and heaven's brightness in our faces.

Conscious of our weakness, we cast our lives with all their burdens of infinity upon Thee, and ask Thee to keep us.

Manifest Thyself in tender love to the poor, the rich, the tempted and those in sorrow's darkness. In our national affairs, may we be on Thy right side and secure Thy blessings and victory. Keep us from all evil and help us to do faithfully every duty. We ask all in the Redeemer's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Curry, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO RULE NO. 39.

Mr. ADAM C. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 12, on to-day's calendar, relative to Rule No. 39, and I ask that this resolution be acted upon immediately.

MR. RAMSEY IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the resolution as follows:

Resolved That Rule number thirty-nine of House Rules of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly be suspended indefinitely

Mr. ADAM C. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I think you all appreciate what the suspension of this rule would mean. The suspension of this rule, as I understand the rules of the House, will mean that anybody who sees fit to come into the halls of this House so far as the rules of the House are concerned, will be at liberty to do so at any and all times. Now, it has been my aim and I believe it is the aim of a large majority of the members, and I hope of every member of this House, that we conduct the affairs of this State in our legislative council becoming with the dignity of an empire of ten millions of people. I cannot understand how any member of this House who is acquainted with the facts can hold that we are not entitled to at least two hours out of every twenty-four to meet here in proper order to discuss the affairs of our State. I do not believe that there is any member in the hall of this House whose feelings have been hurt as much as have been the feelings of the gentleman from Delaware who has been implored and beseeched to grant under this rule the privilege that your Chair has of admittance of any person to the hall of this House. That I have withheld from everyone because I know if I grant that privilege to one I can only be fair by granting it to all. Now, it is the desire of this House that we conduct the affairs of this great State in a manner that when any visitors attend this legislative body they will go away and say that this is a legislative body and not that they will say that it is a pandemonium—that it is worse than Pandora's box, with a hundred people talking and laughing and whispering all the time, and spreading the news abroad throughout the whole nation that the Legislature of the great State of Pennsylvania does not size up to its great duties. Now, I cannot say too much on this subject. I feel so keenly the responsibility that is in our hands and more especially so just at this time. It is my hope and my belief that every member of this House feels on this subject as I do. I am not pleading for this rule that it shall remain one of the rules of the House because of the power it gives me; I hope that you will consider me above that, but solely because it is my hope and my wish that every member of this House whether he sit in the fartherest seat in the rear or in the nearest one in the front that he may know and hear what is done and what is going on; so that he can hear when a roll is called; so that a member will know when his name is called, where it will not be possible in the noise and confusion for some one else to vote for him and in order that the rolls may be properly kept. Under this confusion nobody can be held responsible and I hope the House will continue enforcing Rule 39, and I pledge to do my part.

Mr. ADAM C. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, it was not my intention when I made this motion to cast any insinuation on the Speaker of this House, but I think when the Speaker of this House started to enforce this rule it was his intention to keep order in this House. I think it would have appeared to the Chair and to the members of this House that the people on the side-lines were not the ones who made the noise, but it was the members themselves. If the Sepaker had seen fit to enforce this rule this motion would not have been made, but there has been discrimination made. There have been some people allowed in here while other people have been kept out. We have had men back here to lobby in the interest of certain legislation although they are not supposed to be allowed in this House, and others are not allowed in this House. There are men who are sitting back here and lobbying in the interest of certain legislation and why are they allowed in here? Is that right? I leave it to the judgment of the members of this House. I ask you to support this motion.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think most of the members realize how difficult it is with our doorkeepers here who are strangers to many of the members and are uncertain at times in regard to the men they admit, but I have talked with them and urged them to be careful, but for some reason some have gotten through. I have done and am doing all that is in my power and I hope that each and every member of this House will aid me in making it hard for anyone to get in, and for me to give this privilege to anyone. I am sure there is no one in this House that can say that I have granted this privilege in a single instance.

If anyone has gotten on the floor of this House it has been because I have been unable to prevent it.

Mr. THEODORE MORGAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say in behalf of the members of this House in the back rows that before this rule was enforced the confusion and noise was so great that it was almost impossible to hear and you could not hear a bill called, and most of us failed to be able to hear the business that was going on in the House simply because of the talk and noise and confusion that was going on back of us. I don't say a word about the fairness or unfairness. I don't think there should be any discrimination shown or that any members should have privileges to which other members are not entitled, but I think that we should be able to attend to the State's business in a proper way.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Adam C. Schaeffer and Mr. Ehrhardt, and were as follows:

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 86, entitled

An Act to repeal an act approved the ninth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirteen, entitled "An Act relating to divorce."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, this is an act to repeal the act of May 9, 1913, with reference to divorce. In order that you may all understand the provisions of the act of 1913, I will briefly, without reading that act, outline it to you. It contains two sections, it is a very short act. Under that act in the first section, it provides that where the parties are married outside of the State of Pennsylvania and the cause of divorce occurs outside of the State of Pennsylvania, the libellant has a right to come into this State and make application for divorce; and it also provides that it is not necessary for the parties to be residents of the State of Pennsylvania. They may have their domicile outside of the State. The third reason is, that the respondent, or the defendant, as you might call him or her, is not personally served. In other words, they are served by what is called publication, no actual notice having been given except as printed in some newspaper provided for such purposes. The fourth objection to this act is this, that anyone desiring to obtain divorce in the State of Pennsylvania, need not be a citizen of this State, they need only to reside here for the period of one year to acquire a residence sufficient for them to make an application for divorce. Those, gentlemen, are the four objections to this act. You need not be a citizen, you need not have been married in the State of Pennsylvania, you need not have resided here during the course of the divorce or prior to that time, and the only thing you have to do is to come into the State of Pennsylvania, acquire a residence here for one year, have your subpoena served by publication and then obtain the divorce. I will state a concrete case to you, so that you will be able to appreciate the position of the practice.

Say A and B living in Ohio, are married in Ohio, and have children there. The husband, we will say, for some reason desiring to obtain a divorce, moves into Pennsylvania, and remains here for one year. He issues a libel in divorce which is returned, "No service." A subsequent libel is served, or subpoena rather, and it is returned "no service," then comes publication. After that publication his testimony is taken and his decree of divorce may be obtained. Now as to that decree in Pennsylvania, that divorce is good, but outside of Pennsylvania it is not good. If he marries afterwards, sir, contracts a subsequent marriage and moves to the State of New York, the children of that subsequent marriage are illegitimate, and they will not inherit any of his property. The children of the first wife can come in.

Now, gentlemen, it would seem that this is almost incredible. The reason of it is this: In Haddock vs. Haddock, 201 U. S. reports, page 562, Chief Justice White has handed down an opinion that a divorce decree where there is only publication, and no service, and no citizenship in the State, has no binding effect outside of that State. Gentlemen, that is a United States Supreme Court decision, and that is the law. We have in the State of Pennsylvania, and I want to cite for your information under the Act of 1913 a number of cases, we have Christmas against Christmas, 24 District Reports, page 349. That was an action commenced in the City of Pittsburgh. The parties had been married in Virginia. The wife moved into the City of Pitsburgh and obtained a divorce and the judge in handing down the decree in the City of Pittsburgh said, This divorce is not binding outside of the State of Pennsylvania, and the children born of a subsequent marriage are illegitimate, but the court cannot help it, the Legislature has made the law. Under the Act of 1913, this woman is entitled to a divorce, and it must be granted by the courts no matter how the judges may feel on such a subject. In Clark vs. Clark, 24 District Reports, page 475, they re-affirm that decision. Now, gentlemen, that is what this act provides of 1913. These are the legal reasons that I ask every member of this House who is a member of the bar to consider. On the legal reasons alone this act should be repealed, because it is to say the least unfair. When it was passed I presume it was passed for a special purpose. It has served its purpose, and I submit to you gentlemen, as a legal proposition, it is a disgrace to the statute books of the State of Pennsylvania. But there is a higher, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, and a better reason, for the repeal of this act, and one I submit gentlemen, that must appeal to everyone in this House, and it is this; no man within the sound of my voice wants to assume the obligation of letting this statute remain upon the books of our State, if it is going to make illegitimate children out of subsequent marriages. Mr. Speaker, whether the parties are divorced knowing of the act of 1913 and the fire results that must come from it, or whether they are innocent of it is immaterial. In this case as in every other case, sir, the injury falls upon the innocent. Why, sir, it falls upon the innocent after born children, who know nothing of the circumstances, who can know nothing of the circumstances and who must suffer because of this price. I say, and I say it mildly, vicious legislation. I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, and I do not want to take up any more time of this House, I submit to you, sir, that this act, this act of 1913 is not beneficial to the citizens of our Commonwealth because we have no use for it. There are enough of divorce acts upon the statute books to give every man who desires, or woman, where there is a necessity for it, a divorce. I am in favor of divorce. I am not opposed to them, gentlemen, but we have enough acts of Assembly without having an act especially prepared for the purpose of those who live outside of the Commonwealth to come in and be benefited by that act, because there are citizens who take advantage of it, I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this act should be repealed, and I hope that the members will vote for its repeal.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, we are not here to legislate for the State of New York, or for the State of Ohio, or any other State of the United States. We are not here to legislate for the Federal Courts of the United States. We are here to legislate for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We are simply here to legislate for the benefit of the people of this Commonwealth, and the force and effect of what we do cannot go beyond the boundary lines of our State.

Unfortunately, the distinguished gentleman who sponsors this bill has not altogether correctly quoted to you from the Act of 1913, which this bill, now before you, seeks to repeal in its entirety. The Act of 1913 has given nothing new in the divorce law of Pennsylvania, and it has given no jurisdiction to the courts of this State where it has not existed at any time prior to the passage of the act. All that the Act of 1913 did was this: To provide that in cases where a man or a woman could not be found within the jurisdiction of our courts anywhere within the State, and where they could not be found in any other State of the Union so that notice might be given to them of a proceeding commenced and pending in our courts of justice, that we do the next best thing we can, and that is give them notice by publication. What does that mean? It means that when a man or woman files his or her complaint in the common pleas courts of the State and asks for a separation in the nature of an absolute divorce, that the service of the writ or subpoena or invitation to come into court, if this cannot be made directly upon the person charged, it must be returned by the sheriff N. E. I., which means "cannot be found." After two efforts by the sheriff in endeavoring to find the party charged in the libel,—two returns of N. E. I.,—then the sheriff is ordered to publish once a week for four weeks in several newspapers in the county where the suit is pending, provided for that purpose, a notice to the effect that such a suit has been commenced. After the proper lapse of time a master is appointed by the court to hear the case. This master must again in duty bound hold first of all in cases of this character what is known as a preliminary meeting. He is charged under the rules of court and under the statute laws of this Commonwealth, to make every possible honest effort to locate the man or woman charged in the complaint, it matters not whether they reside in some foreign jurisdiction or some other county of this Commonwealth, and it is clear that here whatever of evil, whatever of abuse ever creeps into the administration of our law is made possible. And I openly charge now on the floor of this House, conscious of the responsibiltiy that I may assume by doing it, that the burden of doing what is right, the burden of giving equal justice and fair play, is not upon this legislative branch of government, but upon the judges of the Pennsylvania courts. I say that the repeal of this Act of 1913 would work a great hardship upon honest and innocent people who are entitled to the equal protection of our laws. Take this case for example: You have a sister, born and raised in the State of Pennsylvania, and in the course of time she becomes acquainted with a citizen in the State of Ohio; they journey to the State of Ohio and take up their home in the state of Ohio, and after a period of a little time, something goes wrong with their marital affairs. That man whom your sister has married deserts her. She does not know where he has gone and he has left her penniless, perhaps with a brood of children around her, with no protection under the laws, and she comes back to you in the native State of Pennsylvania. She is here five years, she is here ten years, the years pass by over her head, and she becomes grey, yet under the repeal of this law we are to say to that unfortunate woman, that because she cannot find the loafer who deserted her and left her penniless, that the doors of justice of this Commonwealth are forever closed to her.

I want to say to you that the bill now before you emanates from a few men who are active in what we call the Law Association of Philadelphia. They held a meeting some months ago for the purpose of considering the act of 1913, and they had just twenty-one members present, notwithstanding they called a special meeting to consider this subject. Out of the twenty-one men present, eleven voted to recommend to this Legislature the repeal of the Act of 1913, and ten of them voted against it. Now twenty-one men, Mr. Speaker, do not by any means represent the bar of Philadelphia, numbering as it does over two thousand men. The bar of Philadelphia is almost unitedly opposed to the repeal of this act, and I state to you in all fairness that even some of the judges who have been asked to report upon this subject—I do not say all, I say just a few of them—have this to say on the subject, and I am going to read is because it is most significant to the subject before you: "There are no doubt honest cases where it would be a hardship not to have such a statute"—think of it, gentlemen—"there are no doubt honest cases where it would be a hardship not to have such a statute, but they are overwhelming outweighed."—by what? Not by what has happened, but by its possibilities for evil. These men who are so much afraid that you are going to drag down the fair name of this Commonwealth, that you are going to establish in Pennsylvania the Reno of the East, the open door to divorce, legislation and decree, forget the eternal justice of things as they are writ, that equal protection of the law which every state should hold forth to the citizenship thereof.

It may be that some man may come from the state of New York, or some woman from Ohio, simply and solely for the purpose of living one year in the State of Pennsylvania and thereby pleading a citizenship in order that he may be enabled to file a complaint in the courts, and it is the duty of the courts to pass upon questions of that sort, it is the duty of the courts to investigate this man and woman and see whether they have founded a residence in the State of Pennsylvania, or have simply come here for the purpose of establishing a residence to get a divorce. My contention, gentlemen, is this, that it never pays to pull down the whole house simply because spout leaks. It does not pay to put an injustice on the case of a deserving man simply because a crook now and then gets the benefit by reason of the lax administration of justice in our courts. There is nothing under the Act of 1913 which denies to each judge, an honest judge, a careful scrutiny into the jurisdiction of the cases before him. It is for him to investigate whether or not a man or woman standing before the bar of the court has in fact an honest citizenship in this Commonwealth.

We owe it to ourselves, we owe to the citizenship of this State, that we stand against this effort to repeal a purely wholesome law which can do no harm unless those who are charged with the administration of justice see fit to allow some one to do the harm that we are trying to legislate against.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the question before you to-day is whether the Act of 1913 should be repealed or not and I take it we are in the same position as if that bill came before us which was before the House of 1913. If that act should have been before us, if we acted on the affirmative of that bill, or we would act on the affirmative of that bill, then we should vote against this bill to-day, but if we believe the Act of 1913 is a bad piece of legislation then we ought to vote in favor of its repeal today. I am one of the number that believe that the Act of 1913 should never have been put on our statute books and therefore that the Session of 1917 should repeal it.

Now that act has been anaylzed, but it seems to me it is important for the House to know it just exactly and keep in mind what this Act of 1913 contains and, although it has been stated before, I will attempt to repeat again so that we may get clearly before our minds what the Act of 1913 is. The Act of 1913 provides that the several courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth may grant a divorce for any causes now existing by law or which may hereafter be made a cause where four things concur. Note these four: Where the parties were married without the State of Pennsylvania; second, where the cause of divorce occurred outside the State of Pennsylvania; where the parties were domiciled at the time the cause of the divorce arose outside the State of Pennsylvania; and, fourth, where the service is made by publication only. Now, that statement in itself may not seem plain and I also wish to specify a concrete case so that you may get before your minds how this act may be applied and how it is applied. A man and woman are married in the State of Wisconsin, where they live at the time. They lived there awhile as husband and wife. The husband thinks a cause of divorce has arisen and he leaves the State of Wisconsin and comes to the State of Pennsylvania. He goes into one of the interior counties, an inland county, and after residig there one year he makes an application for divorce and by service of publication a hearing is held and he gets his divorce, and he gets that dicorce, bear in mind, although the wife lived in the State of Wisconsin, never was within the State of Pennsylvania. The cause of divorce arose in the State of Wisconsin and she never had any notice of the proceedings in the Pennsylvania court because bear in mind, a notice in a paper in one of the inland counties is not going to convey a notice to the citizens of the State of Wisconsin.

Now, what is the result of such a condition as that? The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has said in two cases that the State of Pennsylvania will not recognize as good a divorce like that granted in any other State in this country; and the Supreme Court of the United States has already stated, has said that that divorce has no effect under the United States constitutional provisions providing for full faith and credit to the judgments and decree of the various states outside the State where the decree is granted, and that is for the reason that the courts did not have jurisdiction over the parties only by service by publication and the parties themselves did not reside within the State.

Now, let us look at the effect, or the consequences of this Act of 1913 in its application. That husband comes from Wisconsin to Pennsylvania and supposing he marries the second time in Pennsylvania. His marriage is legal in Pensylvania, but if he goes outside of Pennsylvania he is a bigamist and he is an adulterer. The second wife, the wife that he married in Pennsylvania, is his legal wife in Pennsylvania, but she is not his legal wife in any other State in the Union. Suppose children should come of that marriage in Pennsylvania. They are legitimate children in Pennsylvania but they are illegitimate in every other state in the Union; and it will affect their property rights as you also see. Now I am one of the number that believe that the State should recognize the marriage relation as a sacred one. I believe that there are causes for divorce which ought to be recognized, but I believe that the State of Pennsylvania should not throw down the bars, should not make a procedure which is unfair to the parties and to the State, and I believe that when the Legislature enacted that Act of 1913 they put up in the same class as Nevada and some other states which recognize easy divorces. I believe that the Act of 1913 is bad. I believe it should be repealed. Judge Evans, one of the ablest judges in Allegheny County, when this Act of 1913 was before him, was asked to declare it unconstitutional because it was against the public policy of this State. He says, "I cannot do it;" but he added this, in his opinion, speaking of the consequences, he says, "These are circumstances which it is not pleasant to contemplate by any court as probable results of its decree." And then, speaking of who is responsible for this condition of affairs, he says this: "But as I view the law at this time, the responsibility for that situation is not with this Court but with the Legislature. The Legislature has directed this Court to take jurisdiction of this case and the responsibility for that is with the Legislature."

Now, if this House thinks that divorces should be granted under conditions existing in this Act of 1913, we ought to vote against the bill that is before us but if we believe divorces should not be granted under those conditions then we ought to vote in favor of the bill.

Allow me to say one thing in reply to the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia: If this Act of 1913 is only declaratory of the law as it existed before that time there was no necessity for the Act of 1913, but if it did enlarge the jurisdiction, and Judge Evans and other judges say it did, then I say to you, that to that extent it at least went too far and it ought to be repealed.

MR. GOODWIN IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I will agree with the gentleman from Allegheny County and Mr. Reynolds from Philadelphia County, insofar as the divorce laws of Pennsylvania should be remedied, but don't concur with them in the repeal of the Act of 1913. Were this a positive law before this legislative body at this time codifying the subject of Divorce so that the members of this Legislature could vote intelligently on the proposition and know as to what would then be the law in the State of Pennsylvania I would perhaps be in favor of such a codified bill. But this is simply a repealing act. The Act of 1913 was, to come extent, a bill declaratory of existing laws. It gathered together in size and form what had been the decisions of several courts in the Commonwealth, perhaps not all of them entirely clear, as there was considerable doubt as to what was the Divorce Law of this State, and if this Act of 1913 was repealed there will be considerable doubt as to what the Divorce Law of the State of Pennsylvania exactly is. From the arguments which have been advanced on the floor of this House it would seem that the Act of 1913 is the only divorce act on our statute books which is responsible for the present situation of affairs. This is not the case. Under the acts recognized prior to 1913 the courts of New York have refused to recognize divorces granted in the State of Pennsylvania. Children of marriages have been declared to be illegitimate, and property rights have not been recognized prior to 1913. There has been argument introduced as to family rights in this State. We are here legislating for the people of Pennsylvania and not the residents of Wisconsin, Ohio, New York or any other state. Personally, I am in favor of a national uniform divorce law, but we want to understand what the Divorce Law is and until such time, until we have such a uniform Divorce Law, I am in favor of permitting the Pennsylvania law to remain as it stands at the present time.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, this is particularly a lawyers' bill and I want to put it before you in that way because I want to attempt to clarify the situation so that no dust may be thrown into your eyes. It is not whether it remains on the Statute Books or is repealed in any wise. The bill is substantive of the rights of divorces. In granting divorces it is clear that the courts of the State of Pennsylvania have opposed this Divorce Law and the Act of 1913, and this only clarifies and simplifies and makes uniform a practice as it existed prior to the passage of this act in 1913. My good friend from Philadelphia, the sponsor of this bill, knows very well that when this question came up before the Committee on Judiciary General, it was threshed out and very carefully considered and that there were a number of the members of the Law Association of Philadelphia who attended that meeting and admitted that the Act of 1913 which this bill seeks to repeal did not in any wise affect nor change any of the former acts or statutes as relating to divorce. The only thing that the Act of 1913 did do and which we should say that it certainly continues to do, by voting against this bill, is this: Prior to the Act of 1913 each county judge acted at his discretion as to whether or not certain given stated facts should be given on which divorce should be granted in that county. I remember talking in 1915 to a member of this House, who is now the Mayor of the City of Erie, Mr. Miles B. Kitts, who was author of this bill in 1913. I was told of a divorce that occurred in Erie County where the woman ran off to Toronto and she could not be served with papers in Erie County, and the judge was opposed to granting a divorce and the man had to go over to Crawford County, just thirty miles away, and get his divorce there. This statute of 1913 simply allows every county court the right to grant divorces under these facts. Up to 1913 each county court was a law to itself.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, if the repeal of the Act of 1913 makes no change in the laws, as seems to be agreed by both those who favor and oppose the passage of this repealer, then certainly we must turn to some other reason than the standing of that eminent association, the Law Association, in its favor to the repeal of this bill. The men who preceded me both for and against this bill have covered the legal phases well, but there are two other features in connection with the repeal of the Act of 1913 which should be brought to the attention of the members of this House. First, and probably foremost, by virtue of the contents of the decision of the United States Court, Haddock against Haddock, this act as it stands works a false pretense upon all the persons that make themselves parties in divorce action. For this reason, that if divorce is granted under the provisions of this Act, it has no effect in any other State in this Union except in the State in which it was granted, Pennsylvania. Does it appeal to your fairness and to your sense of justice that this great and dignified State of Pennsylvania should place itself on record among the other States of the Union as being a place where divorces may be granted under such false pretense. I say to you gentlemen the next reason why this repealer should pass to-day is because it has the effect of placing upon the outposts and boundaries of this State signs advertising or publications for divorce "good only in Pennsylvania." My friend and colleague, Mr. Beyer, has stated to you some of the effects of your system, but gentlemen that comes as statistics will show, that in the past four years since this Act has been on the Statute Books, the courts of Pennsylvania have been granting divorces to people who have never lived here, to people who are not citizens here on marriages that have never been performed here.

In other words, people have come from New York, from Jersey, from Delaware, even from Ohio and Maryland, simply for the purpose of taking advantage of our lax divorce laws. Will you men who are here representing the State of Pennsylvania, and not as my friend Mr. Beyer has said, throw the burden on the courts, and permit this to continue. I say no. I say to you gentlemen, that by your voice in this matter here to-day, you should in one accord vote down this repealer.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I want to say just one word in regard to this question. I have been on the floor once and I do not wish to consume the time of the House, but I want to make clear for the benefit of those who are not lawyers this: Under the act of 1913, we find the following language; "that the several courts of common pleas shall have jurisdiction in any action in divorce, for any cause now or hereafter allowed by law, notwithstanding the fact that the marriage of the parties and cause of divorce occurred outside of the Commonwealth." Now that is not a new thing, that is in all the prior legislation of the State. "And that both parties at the time of the occurrence of said cause domiciled outside the Commonwealth," that is not a new thing, that is in prior legislation of the State. "And that the respondent has been served with the subpoena only by publication." Now to that extent the law makes a change in the previous law, and I will tell you why. Under the law prior to the act of 1913, unless you got personal service of the papers on the party charged in the libel, you as a party to the suit, would not be allowed to testify to anything in court except to the fact of your marriage, the merits of your case had to be established by witnesses outside of yourself. This act makes it possible by publication to do what prior to the act had to be done by direct notice, it gives to the libellant, be he a man or a woman, the right to be heard on the merits of his case, whether the other party is actually served with papers or whether it is by publication

Now just this one point in conclusion. We do not make divorce, and the courts do not make divorce, the parties to a marriage contract if they live unhappily with each other, make their own separation, all that we can do is to recognize a condition as it exists, and declare whether or not the party to a contract is entitled to the relief he or she pays for, and surely if we do this thing by honorable means as we have always done, there cannot be any injury by allowing the act of 1913 to stay on the books.

Now, so far as making this State a Reno for divorces is concerned. They tell you that the act of 1913 is a disgrace to the Commonwealth, that we are granting so many divorces that it is a shocking shame to the whole United States. Now I have had the figures handed to me just a moment ago, from the courts of Philadelphia. We have a population of 1,800,000 people in the City of Philadelphia alone, and during the year of 1916, there were only 1,596 applications made for divorce. Out of those, only 482 decrees were actually granted. Does that look as if we were establishing a Reno in Philadelphia. I am sure if we have no Reno in Philadelphia, the largest city in the State you surely are not going to have a Reno in some of the smaller cities of this Commonwealth, because I take for granted that a man or a woman is less likely to establish a residence in some small city than he or she would in a larger one. I think that is a sufficient answer to this argument about the shocking shame of this divorce act of 1913.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, inadvertently in the closing statement of my talk a moment ago I asked you to vote down the repealer, I wanted to say that I would have you vote down the condition as it exists under the act of 1913 and vote "aye" on the repealer.

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, in my opinion the act of 1913 is a disgrace to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The provisions of the act of 1913 have been detailed to you, and I shall just briefly call to your attention the fact that they come under two heads. The first has to do with the competency of witneses to which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer, referred a minute ago. I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that by the act of 1913 the parties to a divorce proceeding are made competent in this case for all purpose, and therefore the competency provision of the act of 1913 is taken care of in the enlarged provision for competency in the act of 1915, so that so far as that provision of the act of 1913 is concerned the repeal will have no effect. The question that we have at issue is entirely a question as to whether we shall authorize in statutory form the service of the processes of divorce procedings by publication. I shall call your attention to the fact that the basic divorce llaw of this State was passed in 1815, and that that was amended in 1850, '54, '55, '93, and so on, and that in none of those acts is there any provision for the service of processes by publication upon a non-resident of this State, but it remained for the act of 1913 to completely let down the bars and open the doors of this State to the four corners of the world. In 1913 all divorces could be placed in three classes. The first class comprised those cases in which both parties are residents of this State. The act of 1913 did not effect this class. The second class consisted of such cases in which one of the parties had been a citizen of this State, had married, and removed from this State, where that party found it was impossible to continue in the marital relation, and moved back to this State, That class of cases will not be hindered or interfered with by the act of 1913. We have been led by some of the statements to infer that that would take place. The illustration of the case of your sister is not in point, because your sister, if she had been a citizen of Pennsylvania, married and removed to another State, and came back to Pennsylvania, would be entitled to a divorce under the act of 1913, and to repeal this act would have no effect upon her conditions. That was a step in advance, and it was done out of chivalry for the protection of our own citizens. Th third class of cases consisted of those in which neither of the parties had been a citizen of the State, and provided that the subpoena in divorce could be served by publication. Publication where? A small notice in a city paper read by none save the proof reader, or a notice in a country newspaper with a circulation not extending beyond the borders of the State.

Mr. Speaker, the boast of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence has always been that every man has his day in court. The genius of our system of jurisprudence and its greatest boast is that no man can take the property of another by judgment or decree without notice. If a man makes a contract with you, if a man owes you money, and he is without the State of Pennsylvania, you can get service upon him in one way only, and that provides service upon some one in possession of his property in this State, upon the supposition that that person will notify him of the proceedings; and yet in the most sacred contract which we have, that contract upon which the basis of our civilization depends, the sanctity of the home, we provide for a separation, or annulment, of that contract without knowledge being brought to the one party most vitally concerned in the matter. Now there are states in this Union which are not as liberal in the causes for divorce as our State. Citation has been made of them. I have a letter in my desk from New York State, in which the parties desiring a divorce, unable to get that divorce under the laws of the State of New York, and thinking they may be able to get it under the laws of this State, desire to come in here and set up a residence for one year and apply for a divorce. I know not the circumstances of the case, I know not if it is a just cause for divorce. I do not know but what the man, leaving his home-maker,—the mother of his children, —because of a temporary infatuation for some young girl, desires to come over here without his wife having knowledge of the circumstances without an opportunity to contest that divorce, and wishes to obtain the same and break off the marriage contract with her. There are some glaring inconsistencies in our law. Reference was made to the two cases in Pennsylvania, in which the courts refused to recognize the divorces granted under such circumstances, in other states. In those two cases the parties were married in this State, the respondent in each case going to Nebraska, where he obtained a divorce, his wife having no knowledge of the application. In the one case the man returned to this State and our courts refused to recognize the validity of that divorce. In the other case the man remarried without this State, he had children, and died, and our courts refused to recognize the validity of that divorce. One of these children is living to-day in this State and under the decree of our courts is illegitimate. It is true in 1913 there was some difference of opinion in the lower courts as to the jurisdiction in cases of this kind, and some ofthe courts, under a legal technicality, took jurisdiction of the cases where the respondent was without the State but many of the courts refused. This case was never appealed, the question never definitely settled. It is true that the Act of 1913 simplified that question, but I submit to you that any question is undetermined, which is determined in the wrong way. In view of the case of Haddock vs. Haddock, I doubt very much if these courts to-day would take that jurisdiction. It has been suggested there were a few cases in which there has been hardship, and the unhappy lot of such has been depicted. I suggest where there has been one case of hardship worked where a party cannot obtain a divorce, there have been many cases in which the divorce should not have been had. I believe that we should rise in our manhood and blot from the statute books of this State this attack upon the sanctity of the home, and that we should protect the innocent wife, and that innocent wife of the second marriage, and those children of the second marriage. You may consider that the question of illegitimacy makes no difference but I say to you that in walking the streets of this Commonwealth with the brand of illegitimacy upon her, whether justified or not, no matter what her character and attainments are that girl has a blot that never can be removed. The giver of the Divine Law, on Mt. Sinai, inserted the provision, "Show mercy unto thousands and thousands that love me and keep my commandments" but society on the question of legitimacy has seen fit to follow the other provision, the strict letter of the law, "visiting the iniquity of the father upon the children unto the third and fourth generation." I appeal to the present Legislature, now having the opportunity, that we may by one fell stroke blot out the iniquity of this unlimited divorce and remove the stain from the name of our fair Commonwealth.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON SECOND READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. This is the hour fixed by special order for the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 1198 (Senate Bill No. 104).

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1198 (Senate Bill No. 104), entitled

An Act fixing the salaries of the superintendent and deputy superintendent of the Department of State Police and fixing the number and salaries of the officers and the enlisted men of the State Police force.

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That on and after the approval of this act the superintendent and deputy superintendent of the Department of State Police and the officers and enlisted men of the State Police Force and their salaries shall be as follows

A Superintendent of State Police at six thousand dollars ($6,000) per annum

A Deputy Superintendent of State Police at three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) per annum

Four captains each at twenty-four hundred dollars ($2,400) per annum

Four lieutenants each at eighteen hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum

Four first sergeants each at thirteen hundred and fifty dollars ($1,350) per annum

Sixteen sergeants each at twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) per annum

Thirty-two corporals each at eleven hundred dollars ($1,100) per annum

Two hundred and seventy privates each at ten hundred and twenty dollars ($1,020) per annum

Section 2 That the officers and enlisted men of the State Police Force shall receive an increase of sixty dollars ($60) per annum during continuous service after two years and an additional increase of sixty dollars ($60) per annum during continuous service after four years Provided this section shall not apply to the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent of the Department of State Police

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 9, by striking out the word "six" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four."

Amend section 1, line 10, by striking out the figures "$6,000" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$4,000."

Amend section 1, line 11 and 12, by striking out the words "three thousand five hundred" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "two thousand eight hundred."

Amend section 1, line 12, by striking out the figures "$3,500" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$2,800."

Amend section 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out the words "twenty-four hundred" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "two thousand."

Amend section 1, page 2, line 2, by striking out the figures "$2,400" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$2,000."

Amend section 1, page 2, line 3, by striking out the word "eighteen" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "seventeen."

Amend section 1, page 2, line 3, by striking out the figures "$1,800" and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$1,700."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I trust that this bill will pass in its original form and without amendments. You cannot make a silk purse out of a cotton rag. You cannot expect to get first class men on this police force and to maintain the standard of this force up to the point of higher efficiency unless you are willing to pay salaries that are commensurate with this work.

Major Groome, the Superintendent of the State Police force, has since 1905 received an inadequate and insufficient salary of three thousand dollars a year. There is no other chief of a department in the State of Pennsylvania who has ever done so much for the State of Pennsylvania as Major Groome has done and who has received so small a salary. But Major Groome is patriotic. He has worked for the benefit of the State although he has been assured from time to time since 1905 that his salary would be increased. The members of the State Police force, under the Act of 1911, were increased thirty-three per cent. but Major Groome's salary was not increased. I lay special stress and special emphasis upon Major Groome's salary because I take it for granted that the other salaries in this bill, the salaries of the sergeants, corporals and captains, will not be changed. The captain's salary in this bill is practically the same as the captain's salary in the regular army, but there is one thing that we must consider in respect to the personnel of a State Police force, and that is the high order of talent, the high order of duty that they are called upon to perform. It cannot take an ordinary man to do this duty. An ordinary soldier that has graduated from one or two enlistments in the regular army is not competent to perform the work of the State policeman of Pennsylvania. He must not only be a soldier, he must not only have an A No. 1 character, but he must have a high order of intelligence, and he must be highly and expertly trained in detective work; and that is the reason why we should give these men what they are worth. Simply because Major Groome has received three thousand dollars a year for the past twelve years, for which salary he has made the State Police a model body, not only in the United States but in the whole world—I have seen large pictures and accounts of the State Police of Pennsylvania in the London Graphic, and I have seen commendatory accounts otherwise; and so, gentlemen of this House in coming before you and asking you to vote down these amendments I ask you to do this at a time when Pennsylvania needs an efficient police force. We cannot afford to take a chance of losing these men at a crisis like this. Where can we secure their like or get men to take their place in this crisis if they leave? We know not. We pass laws, many of them increasing the salaries, and we say nothing about it. Why, only last week we passed an act giving the county treasurers an addition to their pay in counties of less than a hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants, amounting to about one thousand dollars a year, and not a word said about it; and yet the county treasurer in counties of one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants receives a salary of anywhere from five to six thousand dollars a year. Compare Major Groome's salary, compare the other salaries with the salaries of our other departmental heads and their assistants and see how insignificant they are in comparison.

Now, gentlemen of the House, I call on you in the name of patriotism to uphold this bill in its entirety. It is not a bill to give to any man money that he has not earned. It is not an attempt to pilfer the State Treasury, but it is an effort to give to these men, who sacrifice their lives and imperil their lives in the duty of the State, who are called upon to perform services of the greatest value to the State and who at this time, when war is about to to be declared, are demanded and in their original integrity and in their original body, and I therefore ask you in the good name of the State of Pennsylvania and in the name of justice and in the name of the interests of this measure to vote down these amendments and vote for the bill.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were not agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the first section?
It was agreed to.
The title was read and agreed to as follows:

An Act fixing the salaries of the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent of the Department of State Police and fixing the number and salaries of the officers and the enlisted men of the State Police force.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this is the regular old constabulary bill that we have been having at our regular sessions for the past eight years.

For the benefit of the younger members who are here at the sessions for the first time, I wish to state, that, as the gentleman from York stated a while ago, in 1911, during that session, there was a bill introduced to increase the salaries of the policemen and officials. That particular bill also included Major Groome. The bill was defeated the first time it was considered on third reading. About a week later they moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill fell and it was reconsidered; then the bill was laid over about three weeks on the postponed calendar and we have had a taste of what we call the log rolling. It was my first experience in this Assembly as a member and in those three weeks there were enough members of the Assembly convinced to pass the increase at that time and it passed. That was in 1911. In 1913 a bill very similar to this one came before the Assembly for more increases, a larger department; that bill was defeated, came up for reconsideration, was reconsidered and a motion to postpone was defeated and the bill then came before us for final action and was again defeated. In 1915 a bill similar to this one, providing for increases and for one hundred and twenty more men instead of one hundred as this bill provides. The bill was defeated; was moved to reconsider and carried and was then moved for postponement in order to give the members time to be lined up. The postponement was defeated and the bill was then stricken from the calendar. Now, that gives you a fair history of the past activities along the line of the State Police.

I am not surprised that the friends of the State Police have put up a campaign this time such as I never witnessed before to pass the bill now before you at this session. You have noticed perhaps, all of you, the activities of the press for the past six months. You have read editorials in your home papers and in the great dailies favorable to the State Police. I shall not attempt to take up your time to describe the different articles. I merely brought along a sample or two. Here is one, for instance (holding it up) look at that. The peculiar part of the reading descriptive of the pictures in this that it says here "One of the troopers on guard in the Panther Creek Coal Regions." My friends, there have not been any State Police in Panther Creek Valley for at least five years. Carbon County has not had any for that length of time. It looks good and make a nice appearance. Shows you how gallant they look and then talks about the Indian Trail going down the mountain. Look at it. It don't look like a mountain; it looks like a street, but it makes the impression.

That is the kind of stuff they are printing and have been printing for sometime, and here is another one from the Sunday morning Philadelphia Ledger of the 28th. There is a sketch here showing a lot of workmen there who look like criminals, and one State Policeman holding the whole crowd back. There is a lot of interesting matter. Some of it is true and some is not true. If I was going to write a eulogy of the State Police I could write a better one than that. However that has been going on for six months. Papers have been distributed through this House and through the New York State Assembly and in fact through every state assembly where bills referring to state police have been introduced. There are eighty-seven testimonials here from county officials in Pennsylvania. You will find in looking over this list thirty-seven district attorneys and a number of ex-district attorneys, a few sheriffs and some ex-sheriffs; county controllers and county commissioners and ex-county commissioners and clerks of county commissioners and clerks and ex-clerks of county controllers. There is one little testimonial supposed to be from the sheriff of Carbon County. Here is what he states of the subject: "They have been of great assistance; we could hardly get along without them." Signed William S. Smathers, Sheriff; but he is not the sheriff of the county. I spoke to Mr. Hart, the Sheriff, about it and he said, "Why didn't he print what I wrote about the State Police? It seems he is very particular about his testimonials. He printed only those which suited him." This is a large State containing sixty-seven counties. This volume contains the names of clerks and ex-officials as testimonials. He could get one from every sheriff and every district attorney. That is, he could get in the entire State, favorable testimonials from the county officials. If I were to take the same pains to go over the State to get condemnation I could have shown you many sheets many times larger than this. I merely refer to this to show you the campaign that has been waged for sometime. Even I, who has been known for some years as opposing this institution, have been approached by my own citizens asking me to lay down on this constabulary contest and let it go through, and if they do that to me I have every reason to suspect that they have been doing a great deal more with others. I have a friend in Reading who is an Irishman.

A MEMBER. What's his name?

Mr. MAURER. I will give you that in private if you want it. He happens to be very rich now. We were boys together and he is a millionaire now. He came to me and he says, "Jim, I have been requested to ask you if you would not give up your antagonism to the State Police." I told him that I would not. (Producing a number of books, some in pamphlet form). Here are some books and pamphlets: (Indicating) This one was printed by the Manufacturers' Association of Pennsylvania. This one (indicating) is provided by Captain Groome. This is another one, Major Groome's Report to the Governor in 1915. In the last session we didn't have any record to the Governor. He used the report made in 1911. This is the last report for the year ending 1915. (Indicating) Here is another record, a book issued by Major Groome in answer to the book of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and here (indicating) is that book. This is the book that the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor got out and all of you were given a copy of it. I mention this to you and I should add also, in connection therewith, that this is the Manufacturers' Association book—this is the year book which extolled the virtues of the State Police at considerable length. In the meantime someone sent some people up here to solicit information on the State Police and they printed a book called "Justice to All." This is a large volume and a number of gentlemen on the other side of the House had it and I have read it, but they did not send me a copy of it. This bill sells for three dollars a copy. It is unfair and untruthful. In that book you will not find a line or a paragraph of what labor thinks about the State Police. In this book we are fair. We give both sides of the argument in this book. If you will read the speech of our Speaker, Mr. Baldwin, made two years ago and other representatives you will find that they are printed fairly and faithfully as copied from the Legislative Journal, yet these people refuse to us the same courtesy. Now as to the merits of the bill, Major Groome in his report says that the State Policemen have covered in one year six hundred and sixty-seven thousand miles; that is how much they traveled in one year. That looks big. I will admit. That looks as though they were on the job doing a lot of work, but when we look into it deeper we find out that each trooper covers just ten miles a day, and then it does not look so big. On the other hand they say here as to the amount of arrests they have made, three thousand and twenty-seven, but that boiled down is just about ten and a half arrests in a year, less than one arrest a month for each member. We find in Major Groome's Report of 1911 to the Governor that during the year ending 1909, that year they made three thousand, seven hundred and ninety-nine arrests.

Last year, the year 1915, 3,027 arrests, or 777 arrests less in 1915 than they made in 1909. Now that does not look as if they were having too much work, does it? If they could make 777 arrests more in 1909 than they made in 1915, I can't understand why they want more men. It don't look right, something does not dovetail.

They also go on to show those arrests are for real crimes that they have tabulated, but they only tabulate in reality 591. To prove in this article that it is not used as a strike-breaking institution, you will find when you look over his report more carefully he did not mention in 591 that he reports, he does not mention the 460 that were arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct, and that is usually the charge lodged against men when they are arrested in strike situation. You will find that there were 2,436 more arrests for charges that he does not stipulate. What were those that he did not stipulate? Those are the ones that are generally accused during strike situations.

Now friends and gentlemen of the House, I'm not going to tire you long, but I am going to make this fight to-day, and I am done with it. If you are going to defeat this bill, it must be defeated to-day, and not next Monday, and therefore I just ask your indulgence for a few minutes, simply because if you are going to pass this bill to-day you are going to pass it next Monday. Captain Groome or Major Groome, says that the State Police is not partial. We have conducted a hearing proving the charges I entered with Governor Tener that they were partial. In this little book the captain denies it. He says that the trial was held at Hazleton by myself and another union man. That is not true. The trial was held at the direction of Governor Tener by Captain Lumb of the Department of State Police, in the presence of other State police. It was Captain Lumb himself who conducted that trial in Hazleton, and in that trial we proved every charge we made.

He reiterates some of the charges and says we proved none of them. One of them was drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and conduct unbecoming an officer by members of the State Police. The same man that we made the charges against, one Trooper Hennig was afterwards relieved. We proved it, mark you, proved all of these charges, yet Major Groome as he styles himself, says we proved none of them. Here are the witnesses that he repudiated: Mr. Maurer was a witness; Andrew Matti, vice-president of the United Mine Workers; Neil J. Furry; W. F. Welsh, Stephen Postupak, William Fox, Gordon Harris, Abner Smith, Attorney; Lawrence Burns, all of these he said were moved out of prejudice, and their testimony should be accepted for what it is worth. A direct insult and slap against the honor and integrity of the people of Hazleton and McAdoo, among whom is the burgess of McAdoo. Another charge made by us against the State Police was that they paid strike breakers' fines when arrested. He explains that by saying that when he was arrested for using indecent language there was such a mob gathered around the policemen and the local policemen that the State policemen were afraid that the prisoner would be mobbed, and that then a citizen gave ten dollars to a State policeman and to avoid violence and disorder, the State policeman paid the fine of ten dollars. That is not true. At the hearing we proved that the Burgess himself, Burgess Fox, of McAdoo, was there and saw the offense committed. He ordered his Chief of Police to arrest the offender. He was taken to the city hall and there given a trial, and fined ten dollars and so far as disorder is concerned there was absolutely none. An hour later a State policeman came back and paid the fine. But the Major would have the people believe nothing of the kind. Gentlemen, the stenographic report of that hearing is on file with the Governor of Pennsylvania. You can get it if you doubt my word. I have a copy of that report in my office in the Commonwealth Trust Building and I will be pleased to show it to anyone coming down, or go to the Governor's Department, and ask for a copy of it, and see whether we do not prove every charge we made. We prove more than we really made, because of the twenty witnesses that came before us some of them told things that we did not know, therefore did not have them in our charge. He says there is nothing to it. Yet here I want to show you this. Here is this man Hennig relieved from the State Police, the man that we proved was intoxicated repeatedly, the man that we proved mingled among the citizens in civilian clothes and not only he, three or four other State policemen mingled with civilian clothes trying to provoke disorder, so much so, that the local police consulted council and ordered them to go about their business and not try to intimidate and provoke disorder in a serious situation. When the trolley cars first started to run, the Mayor of Hazleton ordered his police not to allow any congregation in the streets, but to disperse all crowds and the local police obeyed orders. The worse offenders were the troopers themselves in civilian clothes and this we proved by the citizen police of Hazleton, and yet the Major would deny that and say that it was not true. Here is a newspaper clipping concerning this very man Hennig when he was relieved from the force, Hennig, a former sergeant of Troop B, State Police at Wyoming has been promoted to the captaincy of the Lehigh Valley Railroad police force. They took him up, apparently just the man just the kind of fellow they wanted. Gentlemen of the House and Mr. Speaker, I want to draw your attention to something more recent. I have here a clipping from the Public Ledger of Philadelphia. An interview from Major Groome criticizing those who opposed the creation of a State Police force in the State of New York in Albany. Saying that what they said was not true and he defied anyone to say that it was. If Major is in this hall, and I think he is, I want to tell you Major I am here to answer what you said that no one could answer. I am here to tell you men that every charge in that book which we published is true. I am a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly; I have been since 1911. Do you suppose that I would lend my name to a work that was not true? No, I would soon be brought before the bar, because this is a State institution I am criticising, and I do not believe any one will accuse me of being foolish enough to accuse a department of the State without having the truth back of my charge. We had a trolley strike in Wilkes-Barre lasting over a year. The State Police were there for the greater part of that year. They were not needed the city did not want them, and they were not allowed in the city; for months and months they were kept outside of the city. A dozen of times it seemed that the strike was to be settled, when something went wrong and the strike could not be settled. Every one who had the settlement at heart did what we could, and it seemed every time we tried to settle it something would break it wrong and throw it off again. The time came when they tried to take the jitneys off the streets and force the people to ride the cars. One time the city won and one time county won, and the Superior Court rendered a decision to the effect that the jitneys were to be put back and it was one thing after another. Finally an order was issued that a certain time, on a certain night, all jitneys must get off the streets. When that night came it was also announced that the State Police were coming to town and the people went out to see how it looked with the State Police coming to town. They were out on the outskirts of the town. They wanted to see how it worked when the jitneys were not in operation, to see whether the people would ride the cars, because up to this time they would not ride them. That night, in the big park of Wilkes-Barre, the city park or square, there were hundreds of men and women and children. Everything was peaceful and in order, even a trolley car striking an automobile did not cause any excitement. People were in a holiday mood, no one was provoked, everybody was out to see what the police looked like, and to learn if the people would ride the cars. All at once up the street came a company of State Police. They passed up the main street and down a side street,—I think it is called Market street. Directly they came back, and when they came back, two went this direction, two that, and the other two rode in the centre. Then they commenced to clean out the park, and they commenced to drive the people this way and that. The people on this side ran that way and met the people on the other side. Then they would be beaten back because of those on this side. When they ran the other way they found those in the centre of the park, and so they drove them with the horses up and down the park. I went into Wilkes-Barre at once and found some of your State officials there,—and I will give you the names of them if you want them. Some men who sat in this House in 1911 said, "I voted for the State Police bill then; I believed at that time that it was a safeguard thrown around our liberties and for the proper protection of our people, but I am commencing to believe that sometimes things we hold uppermost as safeguards are the institutions that will destroy the liberties that we are trying to protect." That man's name I can give you; he is a State official,—I would not like to publish his name. If you doubt it I will tell you his name and you can question him. I went among the people of Wilkes-Barre and asked them for testimonials and they gave them to me. I have here many of them. I shall not read them all. I will give you the names of a few of them. The first is a traveling man, G. J. Collins, of Norwood, Massachusetts; Joseph B. Walsh, of Boston; M. J. McLaughlin, county commissioner of Luzerne County. You men of that district all know him up there. See McLaughlin and ask him whether what is printed in this book is true, and he will tell you that every word of it is true; and he will tell you more because we made it small and as short as possible. Then we have Benjamin Burgunder, one of your merchants in Wilkes-Barre, 58 East Market street, also John C. Evans, of 91 Coal street, and John Kobiensky, of 3 Dexter street, Lee Park.

This man came in town to do business, and when finished was going home and got caught in the park, and they told him to get out. He just got in and did not know what happened. He said, "Yes, yes, I will go." When he ran to go to the other side he met the other side coming this way and they went to beat him back. He dodged his head to one side and they hit him on the shoulder and he could not work for several weeks. He had not committed any offense, he had not done anything wrong. Then we have Joseph Trotter and W. J. Kromelbera, John Hughes, John Hilliard and several others whose names I can furnish. And again we have the case of a man who came in town with his wife, to go to a banquet. They were caught in it and they were pushed in against a building. He shoved his wife to one side, but he was caught. A blow on his head started blood flowing, and it ruined his suit. They took him to the hospital and fixed him up. Gentlemen, it was nothing but good luck that his wife was not caught in the same way. The county commissioner tells the story that when he came out of the Savoy he saw a trooper on his horse and that this trooper rode at such speed that when his horse struck the cement pavement it slid something like forty feet before he could stop, right into the mouth of the lobby of the theatre, and then he pulled out his big stick and began beating right and left and commenced swearing and cursing and calling the men vile names. They were struck and pulled and shoved around like a dog, and why? What had they done? They were absolutely as innocent as you and I are to-day. I will tell you what they did. They were going to shove the jitneys off the streets, beat up the people, and break the spirit of the people, and compel them to ride the cars whether they wanted to or not. That is the old trick, that is the way they have worked ever since the state police was created. That is why I am against it, its being used for that purpose. If it was to apprehend criminals, protect our forests, farms and rivers, the lives of the people, I would be the last man to say a word against them, but I am sick and tired of having the friends of the constabulary say that those of us,—and they refer here to me—they say that a good citizen and a law-abiding citizen does not have to be afraid of them. I want to tell you, Major Groome, and the rest of you, that I come from an old Pennsylvania family, and not myself nor any of my ancestry within a hundred years ever served time or was brought before the bar of justice for breaking any of the laws of the Commonwealth, and when you charge me of being afraid of the police power because of my character, I ask you, Major Groome, and those who dare question my character, whether you can show as good a record as I have shown. Gentlemen of the House, this bill if it passes means that you are going to have one hundred more troopers, that is what it means. It means you are going to raise the salaries. This department now costs you three hundred and fifty-seven thousand dollars a year, that is what it costs you now. If this bill goes through, it means that it will cost you five hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars a year, over two hundred thousand dollars more. You say you need more revenue. There was a resolution passed here to lend the state for two million dollars. You need money. I have heard, and no doubt you members have heard from the bankers, brokers, insurance and coal people, begging us not to measure or this one, that this tax bill will work a hardship if it is passed, and that that tax bill will work a hardship if passed, begging us to vote against this bill or that bill, and yet here is a bill that will drain this treasury of ours of over two hundred thousand dollars.

It will work a hardship if that tax bill passes or this tax bill passes and they are begging us to vote against all revenue producers. Yet here is a bill that will drain this treasury of ours over two hundred thousand dollars more a year than before. I ask you, do we need it? I say no; we do not need this departmental increase. I know of some of you are saying, these are trying times, and we may need them; war may break out. The Adjutant General asked the Appropriations Committee for three million dollars the other day to give us the protection that he says we need. We passed a bill the other week giving the farmers the protection they need, giving any township, any municipality, the right to go to court and have its own policemen appointed and put on salary, so you farmers have a law now, if you feel you need a policeman with all the powers of the State Police you have the law now, only these policemen will be used in your township; that is all. We are safeguarded, all these different avenues. I am as anxious for law and order and the protection of life and property as anyone can be but I do say that this Department of Police is invariably used in the interests of the employing class to the detriment of the employed class. Take them out of that situation. We are not, as some say, unlawful when strike situations take place. Here is the trouble: In strike situations we now know enough to know that with the best order the stronger we are; and the other side knows that the first outbreak of disorder weakens us. We have no control over the State Police. They can come in and provoke and engender disorder and they have done it and we proved they done it. They may show you in a book after a bit that the unions asked for the State Police. That has happened once or twice, but the book don't tell you that we got them. No, they tell you that we asked for them.

They speak about Old Forge at Scranton where the State Police went in and arrested the I. W. W. Yes, they did. They went into a meeting hall where two hundred and sixty-four men were in session. They broke in the doors and arrested the two hundred and sixty-four men; then they went and put them on hay wagons and automobiles and every other kind of vehicles and got them up to Scranton and had their pictures taken and put it in the newspapers. What a gallant raid that was. These murderous anarchists were carroled and put behind prison bars. The time came for trial. What were the charges? What was the result? The Sheriff could not produce any charges and the State Police could not produce any charges and the two hundred and sixty-four men, for the want of evidence, were discharged. To speak of the case of Old Forge where dynamiting was done—that is true. They were not strikers. Every time something like that happens, there is the striker. There are lots of dynamite explosions, but they are not always caused by laboring man and the man who dynamited that shanty at Old Forge and was arrested was not arrested by the State Police but the Sheriff.

I spoke in Wilkes-Barre on the Fourth of July last. This book over there now called "Justice to All" says that when I spoke there the State Police were brought in by the picnic committee and they guarded me while I spoke. Now the fact of the matter is that four State Policemen came to the park and the Secretary of the Picnic Committee asked what they wanted. They said, "We were told to come here." "By whom?" "By our superior." The Secretary said, "I suppose you are wanted at the baseball grounds, not here;" and they went away and that is all that there was to it; yet the story got out and you would have the people believe that we wanted them. I have a letter here from the State Policeman himself repudiating it. Here it is; here is what the State Policeman says.. "Pennsylvania State Police, Troop B., Wyoming, Luzerne County, July 13, 1916.

"To Whom It May Concern:

"This is to certify that Mr. Thomas Milligan of Wilke-Barre, Pa. did not request the presence of or did not invite members of the Pennsylvania State Police at a picnic of the Allied Trades Council held at Riverside Borough Park on July 4th, 1916 and that no members of the State Police were on duty at this Park on this date.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) L. S. Pritchard, Captain,
State Police, Commanding Troop B."

Yet that book will tell you that they were there and that I had police protection that day and was allowed to make my speech unmolested.

To show you another little instance, before I close, here is Gallagher vs. Maley. In Wilkes-Barre after they made this raid on the citizens, indignation ran high. This man Maley, Ex-Coroner of Luzerne County, was on his way to City Hall, being summoned there by the Mayor for some purpose or other. He was on his way there and he met Gallagher, a State Policeman, and he said, "Gallagher, if your old father would know what your conduct has been in this strike, he would turn himself in his grave; he would be ashamed to own you as a son." That is what Maley said to State Policeman Gallagher.

Gallagher had four sticks with him and he went somewhere and dropped three of them and as poor old Maley was walking away he knocked him on the head, knocking him down, and they sent for Dr. Walter to fix up his head and then this man Gallagher went to the magistrate and had a warrant issued for Maley's arrest and had him fined ten dollars for disorderly conduct, or for resisting an officer. It was appealed to the court and one of the grand juryman sits right in this Hall today, a member of this House who helped, and could not else but to do so, to bring out a bill against Gallagher. This grand juryman is here now and will verify that what I am telling you is true. Are we going to let this thing go and get larger and larger? I trust and I hope that we have had enough of this. If you don't pass this bill, if you won't repeal this Constabulary Bill, is keeps it just as it is. A strong appeal has been made for Major Groome and a claim has been made that he is working too cheap. If his work was of any account, I would say that is all right. Here is a report of Major Groome's testimony before the Federal Industrial Relations Commission. About a year ago Major Groome and myself and others were summoned to Washington to appear before the Walsh Industrial Commission and here are some of the things Major Grome said when he was asked these questions by Mr. Walsh, the Chairman.

By the Chairman:

Question: Are you connected with the Pennsylvania State Police and if so, what is your position?

Mr. Groome:

Answer: Superintendent.

Question: Have you any professional business aside from that?

Answer: I am a member of the firm of Groome and Company, Philadelphia, Importers and Wine Merchants.

Question: Have you taken any interest in that firm for the past four or five years?

Answer: I have been unable to take active interest in that firm on account of my police duties.

Question: Is that a corporation or a partnership?

Answer: A partnership.

Question: Are you engaged in mercantile business.

Answer: Yes sir.

Question: In manufacturing?

Answer: No sir.

Question: Were you present at the strike in Erie.

Answer: No, sir. I only take command when the entire force or squad is out. When one troop or portion of troop is out the commanding officer of that troop is with them; when all are out then I take command as the Senior Officer, but I don't interfere with them in their rank.

Mr. Speaker, so you see Major Groome is giving his time to the wine and liquor business. It may surprise some of you to know that while I have been in this Capitol now for eight years and closer perhaps than any other man in this House, because I am here year in and year out for the extra two years after each session hardly a week that I am not up here and in all this time I have never met Major Groome here once. If I did I never noticed him. It does not look to me as if this man was worth any more than what he gets for his service, three thousand dollars, because it is the assistant superintendent Lumb that is doing the work. This man is all right; Mr. Lumb is a fine fellow, and I presume Mr. Groome is, and I don't fight them as individuals, but I am talking as my duty as a representative here and from that standpoint only and I will say that Lumb is on the job; he is a hard worker, that I want to say for him, but Mr. Groome is only a figurehead, and any one from Philadelphia who knows anything about Major Groome will tell you that and yet he wants his salary doubled. I could tell you until midnight why this institution should not be increased and then I would not finish. I have made a study of the State Police and I know what I am talking about. I am not going to talk any longer and I am going to close my remarks with a motion. The other day I spoke with a very high official and here is what he said, "Maurer, here is the big danger with all our State Departments; they are growing and they are growing beyond our revenue. Every State Department head comes into this Legislature every session and he wants so many thousand dollars more and so many officers more and here the State Police Department wants a great many more, and an increase in salaries. The Chairman of our Appropriation Committee, Mr. Woodward, will have to dig in somewhere to find over a hundred thousand dollars more to supply to this institution. They say that they cannot furnish all the demands made on them and that they need more police. We don't need them in Reading. We have got police and detectives and we take care of our county. We had them before and when we did have them we had more highway robbery than at any other time, with the State Police there, and since they are gone we have had no highway robberies of any account since. I ask you, Major Groome, what business have you to say to the State Department that you want to use them in a moving picture display, and who gave you a right to use the State Department to pose for a moving picture; showing the Chamber of Commerce and have miners getting so much money and they didn't know what to do with it and they gambled with it and then the State Police come in and raided them. And there are men on the floor of this House who will verify that. My advice would be to tell you to get on the job and look after your own business and perhaps you will have more State Police than you know what to do with. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, when my constituents were generous enough to send me to this House, there were two or three things that I resolved in my mind. One of those was that if this House were urging the consideration of any measure unless I believed it deep down in my heart to be right I should not be in favor of it. Another one was that I would care for every other man on the floor of this House and show him the same measure of courtesy and consideration that I would wish and hope to get from him. There are different qualities of mind and of heart. I had heard a great deal about the distinguished gentleman from Berks, particularly with reference to his attitude on the question of the State Police. I was very much interested in the early days of this session in looking over the various measures introduced by him in this House in the past and I found that most of them had a human touch. Many of them were five or ten years ahead of their time, nevertheless many of them were measures which it will be well to seriously consider in the days to come. I was deeply hoping that when this measure came up on the floor of this House that the gentleman from Berks would be found urging it earnestly and truthfully and deeply and that it would almost be a matter of religion with the gentleman from Berks.

I did not believe that the gentleman from Berks would oppose the increase in the state police force, but gentlemen of this House, the gentleman from Berks occupies a far higher function than any individual citizen sitting in this House. He represents in some respect the great cause of labor. I saw the tremendous benefit that the great cause of labor would receive when this measure came up that I thought labor would be ranged firmly on the side of it. You and I know as thoughtful men, that there is no greater question in this world to-day than the relative rights of labor and capital. I believe firmly in organized labor, but gentlemen of the House you and I will tread the path with labor just so far as labor keeps step with justice, but when labor clasps hands with violence, then you and I reluctantly must leave her. And the greatest friend of capital is simply justice. I will tread the path with capital just so far as capital recognizes the just rights of the laboring men, and seeks to preserve them, but when capital clasps hands with oppression and seeks to grind down a man then I say to capital "I can go no further with you." Now with regard to this State Police force I should hate to feel, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, that the time has come when appreciation for work well done was to be blotted out from our code of conduct. I should hate to feel that the "well done, good and faithful servant" was no longer to be heard within the boundaries of this Commonwealth. Let us consider these State Police and try to accord them a fair hearing and a full measure of justice. Away back in 1902, we had the Anthracite Coal Strike, one of the most regretable events that ever took place in any civilized community. It was grievous that the miners themselves lost perhaps $25,000,000 in wages; the operators lost no less than $46,000,000 in decreased production, the great transportation companies of the State lost $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 in freight and transportation receipts, and the State of Pennsylvania in order to preserve order within its boundaries spent within a few dollars of a million dollars, and the laboring men in their effort to hold out, depleted their reserve by something like $1,800,000. And what happened at that time, with regard to the maintaining of order? We had in the old days the coal and iron police. The situation was so deplorable that few men now-a-days can conceive that it ever existed. The situation was this. The State, in order to preserve order, had commissioned men as deputy sheriffs and as constables who worked in behalf of the vested interests, and what was the result? Why every time a laboring man popped up his head, the State having nothing at all to say, having sold its authority, they were abused and ridden down, treated shamefully, and it was not surprising that there came about a demand that something different should be had. The Anthracite Coal Commission, who considered this question at great length, decided and recommended that the State should itself assume the responsibilities of keeping law and order in its boundaries. From that there sprang up this body of men known as the State Police. Now, Captain John C. Groome, of the City of Philadelphia was commissioned to organize that force. He refused at first when Governor Pennypacker asked him to do it, because he felt that he did not have the time and could not give up the interests of his business. But Major Groome had a peculiar qualification. He had been captain of the First City Troop, one of the finest troops of men organized under any flag, or any banner, men of a troop who since the days of the Revolution had distinguished themselves in honorable military service. I want to say this right now, because it is only fair to say it, that I have no permission from John C. Groome to speak on this question. I only met him once and I would scarcely know him if he walked in upon the floor of this House at this moment, but I feel that whether his name is Groome or Brown or Smith, if he has achieved anything which has sent the reputation of the State of Pennsylvania broadcast over the country and the world, I want to secure him a fair measure of justice and give him his honest due. Is this State Police an efficient force? I think it is. Gentlemen of this House, to-day there are eleven other states considering a state police measure modeled upon the system of the Pennsylvania State Police. We have the testimony of men, eminent men, high in national and State circles, everyone of them knowing these State Police, everyone saying it is a model of efficiency. Gentlemen, it commends itself to me for one particular reason, and I want to call your attention to it, and it is this: When this body was formed politics took wing. No man who was recommended to this force by a politician got any consideration and to-day one of the quickest things to cause a dismissal from this force is the fact that a man trying to secure some favor in that force because of some particular political friend back of him. It may sound like the millenium to say that but it is true.

With regard to the merits of this particular provision to-day, if Groome to-morrow should lose his four captains because someone else offered them more money, where in the world could you replace men with training such as theirs? It would take no less than two years to re-place those men and the State of Pennsylvania would suffer. I want to pay a tribute right here gentlemen of this House to the personal bravery of those men. I am proud to know that I live in a Commonwealth that has the services of such men as the State Constabulary, or State Police, if you please. They are men who not only commend a large measure of personal bravery, but men who commend discretion. I ask any man on the floor of this House if it does not take brains of the keenest character, and discretion of the finest quality, to know how long you should sit upon your horse with a howling mob of two or three thousand people around you, to know how long he shall be a target for bricks, and clubs, and stones, and yet withhold the gun, withhold the overt acts, until the proper moment. I tell you it requires discretion of the highest order to know when to shoot and when not to shoot under such circumstances. I recall one case that happened at a little town called Pricedale out near Monessen. A poor little girl of eight years of age was sent out in the evening to bring home the cows, and failed to return. Her poor body was found under some bushes. The local authorities gave up, could not find the criminal; they were unable to apprehend the monster who had committed that attrocious crime, and turned it over to the State Police. A trooper was assigned to the case and kept on the trail, kept on the trail because he had heard that a certain negro had lived in the community, a hod-carrier. He was always looking and hoping that some day he would come across that hod-carrier. A few months later a telephone operator, going to her home, was set upon and assaulted by a negro. The only thing that she could remember was that she had left the print of her teeth on the man's finger. The trooper got on the job, and followed the trail over three counties, looking for a man with a bandaged finger. He got into the town of Belle Vernon, where he heard that such a man had been seen. He learned there that such a man had been seen in Charleroi, and he went into that town of Charleroi. He went on some contract work and found a darky working there who had a bandaged finger. He said, "Let me see that finger." The darky showed him his finger, but denied any connection with the crime. The trooper went around behind the corner and watched that man, and he saw the colored man look at his finger, and finally drop his hod and run away. He chased him and put his hand on his shoulder within two hundred and fifty feet of the place and said, "What are you running away for?" The result was that the colored man was lodged in jail. The people of the town of Belle Vernon were so incensed that they demanded the blood of that darky. They surged around the street car when the trooper was taking him away. The trooper faced that angry body of citizens and said, "Gentlemen, I represent the law; you men are my friends; you must desist in the attempt to have the blood of this man." The man was tried in an orderly way and sentenced to the penitentiary. Then there was another case of a man, a lunatic, in the asylum at Danville. He escaped at 6 o'clock at night, on a dark winter's night. Word came about it and two troopers were sent to the work. They realized that in a country of that character women would be working at their household tasks. They followed that man down all night long through the snow, a blinding, smothering snow, until 6 o'clock in the marning. At 6 o'clock in the morning, in a little wood, they saw two feet projecting from a hollow log. They went up to it and the lunatic heard them, and he jumped to his feet and climbed into a tall tree. Ryan and Carlson were the tropers on the job, and Ryan said, "I am going up the tree," although Carlson asked for the work. In the swaying branches of that tree the lunatic and the State trooper fought it out, until finally Ryan yelled down to Carlson, "I am coming down." He dove head first for the man and the lunatic and the trooper crashed to the earth. Fortunately they were not hurt, and the lunatic was restored to the authorities at Danville. These men are engaged all of the time in breaking up the Black Hand, putting out forest fires, catching horse thieves, and in a thousand and one ways, doing that which makes the State of Pennsylvania a credit in the eyes of all its citizens. Let us see if they are fair, or are the brutes that they have been called. Take the case in Allen, a little town in Jefferson County. A sergeant and fifteen men were asked by the sheriff to come there and face two thousand rioters. Lumb went with his men. The only well of water there was on the company's grounds, and the mine superintendent said, "We do not want these miners coming here using this well." Lumb said, "Let us see, is there any other well?" And they found there was none. He said, "Those men are going to use that well." The mine superintendent demurred, but Lumb insisted. A day or two later the mine company tried to evict tenants from their buildings, and wanted Lumb and his men to assist. Lumb said, "No, we won't help you in that sort of work, we came here to do our duty, not only to the mine operators, but to these poor men as well," and they got a square deal from him. I believe firmly in my heart that in every instance the poor man, the rich man, or whoever he may be, gets a square deal from these State Police. Now take up the question of the character of these men. What is the best evidence of their character?—the testimonials that go out from one end of the State to the other in their favor. Go to any department in this capitol, to the men who head the departments, and every one of them speaks with unqualified approval of the character of these men. Every department head will say to you, "I do not know what I would do without the State Police." Let us go down into some of the counties where disorder occured—let us listen to the comments of Sheriffs Buss of Luzerne and Phillips of Lackawanna. Listen to the families of John Prussi, who was set upon by four Industrial Workers of the World because he would not join in disorder, and his face slashed and cut. Then consider the question of Old Forge, and the sixteen troopers who went down there. Last spring in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties, the condition of the United Mine Workers was so bad with respect to these men and their families being set upon by the I. W. W. that life was almost unlivable. Little breaker boys on their way to work were fired upon. The families of these miners did not know at what moment they might be set upon by these vicious fellows who had no conception of law and order. What was the result? The State Police came in and restored order, and the biggest boosters in the world to-day for them are the miners and their families in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties. Now my friend from Berks has referred to the Fourth of July picnic at which he spoke. The United Mine Workers were desirous of having a successful meeting, and called upon the eloquent speakers that would charm, and they called up the State Superintendent of police and asked that some of the troopers be sent there. Captain Pritcher and four men came there. The day was beautiful, the event was successful, and my good friend from Berks was able to let his eloquence float out in the air, to the joy of everybody, because I think of the presence of the State Police. I think everybody will agree with me that this body of men is efficient. Let us go to the question of salary. I tell you I have a sense of personal disgrace, of personal shame, that there should be any objection to these salaries, considering the efficiency of this force, and considering the fact that Captain Groome, in 1911, rather than allow the bill proposed to increase the salary of the men to be cast aside, said, "Keep my salary at three thousand dollars, I won't ask to have it raised." He did that rather than have the bill defeated. It is a good thing this man has been possessed of independent means.. If I had been in his place I would have laid down my badge of authority long and said, "You can get another superintendent of police, for you do not value nor can you recognize merit when you see it, and I would have been busy somewhere else. Admiral Dewey, after his memorable victory at Manila on his way home stopped at Gibraltar, and a dinner was given in his honor by the British officers. One of the English admirals said, "Admiral Dewey, we all feel that we should congratulate you upon your glorious victory at Manila, but it was too bad that so many fine Spanish sailors had to be killed." Admiral Dewey shrugged his shoulders and said, "Yes, but you can't make an omelet without breaking eggs." Now I say you cannot get results unless you are willing to pay the price. If I thought this bill would be defeated, I would rather go down into my own clothes and have my taxes increased from time to time in order that the State of Pennsylvania might pay the proper wages to this efficient branch of the government.

Mr. Speaker, you and I may be here now and somewhere else tomorrow. Political factions change. They come and go, rise and die. Associations and federations of men spring up and pass away; but the dignity and the good name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are with us always and I say to every man upon the floor of this House that it is our duty here and now today to see that the State Police of Pennsylvania are by our vote to-day put in that position which every honest voice, I think, in the state or nation as well, would accord to these efficient and brave public men.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, in view of the fact that this bill is now on second reading and that in all probability a further opportunity will be had to have further argument upon it, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Albee, Arthur, Bennett, Beyer, Bovee, Theodore, Campbell, Curry, Fretz, Gransback, Hecht, Heffernan, Heyburn, Lafferty, McCaig, McCurdy, McNichol,Mervine, Pickering, Reitzel, Rininger, Scott, Charles A. Shaffer, Lee Smith, Stern, Swartz, West, Woodward, and others.

The SPEAKER. The motion has been seconded by more than the number of members required under rules. The question is,

Shall the main question now be put?

The question was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives, numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 608.

An Act authorizing Harry C. Swift of Everett, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, to bring suit against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the court of common pleas of Bedford County.

with the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Strike out the word "Dauphin" in the last line of the title and insert the word "Bedford" in lieu thereof.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1917. No. 33.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, April 4, 1917.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for the classical and powerful message sent out to the people of the United States by our great President. We thank Thee for that broad distinction made between the people and the form of government by which they are ruled, and we pray that throughout our entire country there may be a spirit of kindness, consideration and toleration for those who have the mixed feelings of opposition to their form of government and still have the ties of affection that naturally arises when they remember their younger days. We thank Thee that the message given out by our President has united our American people from shore to shore, and that we are ready, having seen the issue clearly, to stand with him to the very finish with all that we possess. Guide us in all the complications yet to come in the development of this awful struggle. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session when, on motion of Mr. KLINE, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 173, on final passage, entitled

An Act to repeal an act, entitled "An Act to give additional protection to wild birds and animals and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; prohibiting the hunting for or capture or killing of such wild birds or animals or game by unnaturalized foreign-born residents; forbidding the ownership or possession of dogs by any unnaturalized foreign-born resident within the Commonwealth and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions," approved the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws six hundred and forty-four).

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 683, as follows:

An Act regulating public stables in which horses afflicted with any contagious disease are kept; prohibiting the owners from permitting horses afflicted with any contagious disease to drinking from public watering troughs and providing penalties.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever any horse or horses kept in public stables shall be found to be afflicted with any contagious disease the owner or keeper of such stable shall post a notice to that effect in a conspicuous place on the outside of the stable

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to put or cause to be put any horse or horses in any public stable afflicted with any contagious disease

Section 3 It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to permit any horse afflicted with any contagious disease to drink from any public watering troughs

Section 4 Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a penalty of ten dollars

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I would like to know what emergency this act provides for that we have not already laws on the statute books to meet, and whether it requires any expenditure of money for the purpose of enforcing the act.

Mr. TOMKPINS. Mr. President, this is an act drawn by the attorney for the Cambria County Pomona Grangers. This organization has a membership of over fifteen hundred in Cambria County alone. A number of their members have experienced difficulty by their horses getting diseases at public watering troughs and at public stables, and this act compels the people of the livery stables to post notices to the effect that they have sick horses in the stable and state the disease. The maximum fine is only ten dollars and as the bill is drawn the person owning the sick animal must wilfully violate the act. The farmers of Cambria County feel that the act will be a benefit to a good many horse traders traveling the road in the summer, who, as a rule, do not have a very choice lot of horses. We understand the act will also be endorsed by the Pennsylvania State Grange.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 588, entitled

An Act to amend section fourteen of an act approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred fifteen, entitled "An Act providing for the creation and administration of a State fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto; declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors and providing penalties for the violation thereof."

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, before the Senate takes a vote on this bill I would like the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator McNichol, to explain the purpose of the bill.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, this bill is for the purpose of correcting a condition which was found to exist in the placing of the funds of the State Insurance Department into the hands of a company located on the other side of the water that is neither assessed nor taxed and does not pay a dollar for doing business in the State of Pennsylvania; and this act merely corrects this condition so that there shall be some consideration shown to companies now doing business in the State and paying taxes for doing that business. It is a bill, I think, that has merit to it because if we open the door and permit companies to do business in the State of Pennsylvania without paying the necessary license as required by law we will be met in a few years from now with bills asking for permission for companies outside of this State to do business without paying taxes and I think it is best to take time by the forelock and correct that condition, because the people who are paying the taxes and furnishing the revenues of this great State should at least have some measure of protection.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if it isn't true that all insurance companies of Philadelphia or Pennsylvania refused to take this very insurance business that this bill relates to from the insurance fund.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, only when the Insurance Fund Commission made the rate of insurance by the private concerns so exorbitantly high to protect the State Insurance Fund did they refuse to take this insurance, as I have been informed.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, the manager of the State Insurance Fund informed me recently that at the time Lloyds was brought in to protect this insurance that the State did not care to hold that all other insurance companies in Pennsylvania refused to take it. They had a combination among themselves and would not relieve the State of this part of the insurance that the State Fund wanted to be relieved of, therefore they had to do the next best thing and take whoever would do it. He also informed me that if we passed this Act it will cost the State for the same amount of insurance next year $38,000, even if we get the State insurance companies to take it. So if the Senators vote for this bill they vote with their eyes open. Lloyds runs the risk that the State does not care to carry $38,000 cheaper than any company in the State of Pennsylvania would insure it for, provided these companies would take it at all. Up to now they have refused to take any of it.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, of course individuals as well as corporations can get a considerably large reduction in premium rates if they are dealing with a company that does not have any obligations to pay to the State of Pennsylvania. I can go out and have my own insurance with a foreign corporation, if I would be permitted to do so by the State of Pennsylvania, but if we are exacting a revenue for the purpose of operating the departments of this government and exacting a toll from these companies, why should we permit them to be deprived of participation in business in this State simply because it is going to increase expenditure of say $38,000 as Senator Vare says—I am not just at this time decided to admit that it is true—but there must be a measure of increase, because, as I said before, if we are going to exact a revenue from these companies we have got the right to give them an opportunity to dispose of and take our business and make a reasonable commission as compared with people on the other side who are under no obligation. If an accident relating to this fund takes place there is no right of action in the courts of the United States. We have got to send our attorneys to the other side to defend that action and take whatever judgment is meted out to us. It is only a reasonable, fair bill, without any purpose of crippling any person and without any malice to it, but it is a first class business proposition, that we have a right to be fair to the people we are exacting taxation from, as we are asking them to be fair in their dealings with us.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, would it not be getting nearer to the point and nearer to the correction of this evil, if there is any, to pass a law making all companies that do insure in this State pay taxes, rather than put the State in a position whereby they have got to depend on companies that up to this time have absolutely refused to take this insurance in any way. Suppose you pass the act and the insurance companies of Pennsylvania refuse to take the insurance, then the State has to carry that insurance risk that they do not care to carry, that is the only difference. I think Senator McNichol is right insofar as companies that pay taxes in Pennsylvania ought to have their rights. They ought to be protected, but this is not the way to protest them, by keeping other companies out, rather let other companies come in and charge them the same fees, the same tax, that you charge the companies already in. I have no interest in Lloyds or anybody else. Nobody spoke to me about this except the manager of the Insurance Fund. He said if you pass this bill and it becomes a law, then the State has to pay at least $38,000 more than they are paying now for the same amount of insurance. That is not the only thing. He is not sure that Pennsylvania insurance companies want this insurance, because up to now they have refused to take it at any price. Any Senator that votes for this does so with his eyes open. So far as I am concerned, I cannot see it.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask that this bill go over in its order for the purpose of giving the Senators an opportunity of enlightening themselves on the merits of the bill, but before that motion is put I would like to call Senator Vare's attention to the fact that no company is permitted to do business in the State of Pennsylvania without paying a tax, in compliance with the laws of the State, but here we have an exhibition of a department of the State permitting a violation of the law upon the flimsy pretext of saving a few thousand dollars.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to correct that last statement. The State Insurance Fund, of which Charlie Johnson was one, tried in every way to get insurance in this State, and the companies absolutely refused to take it. They did not go get Lloyds because they were going to save money, they only wanted to get these insurance companies to take the risk the State did not care to carry, the most dangerous of all risks, and that is why they got Lloyds. They needed insurance companies to take the risk that the State insurance companies did not care to take. Nobody around here has any interest in Lloyds. I do not want that impression to get out.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I did not mean to create that impression. Whether it was Charlie Johnson or Boise Penrose who was Insurance Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania, I think this bill has merit, and the people of Pennsylvania have a right to the protection of this legislation.

The PRESIDENT. The only motion in order would be a motion to postpone as the bill has been read and has been debated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. JENKINS. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 619, on third reading, entitled

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Great God, cause us to appreciate this beautiful day and notice nature's work to growing life, beauty and fragrance.

Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling-place in all generations. Even from everlasting to everlasting, Thou art God. We desire to make Thee our heart's home. The mountains shall depart and the hills shall be removed, but our souls are immortal and are sure of undisturbed rest with Thee where there shall be a suitable home and a refuge of love forever.

Protect us from this world's enmities and draw us closer together. Deepen our home affections and make our home life sweeter.

Teach us patience in our natural relations, helping us to find the best things in each other, and give one to the other the best things of love in our hearts, being ever tender and affectionate so that our hearts and lips shall overflow with whatsoever things are lovely.

Forgive us all our sins and comfort us in our sorrows. Give us now Thy benediction to enable us to be ever giving out the good things of divine love and to appreciate Thee as the God of nature and eternity. Amen.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The SPEAKER. The Chair received the following telegram, which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk then read the telegram as follows:

Hazleton, Pa., April 3, 1917.

Hon. Richard J. Baldwin, Speaker,
House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pa.

The National Security League, Hazleton Branch, endorses compulsory universal military and naval service under exclusive Federal control to meet the present national crisis and as a permanent national policy we respectfully urge immediate action by the State of Pennsylvania recommending appropriate action by Congress.

(Signed) JOHN H. BIGELOW, President.

Also the following:

Pennsylvania Street Railway Association,
Harrisburg, Pa., March 30, 1917.

Hon. Richard J. Baldwin, Speaker,
House of Representatives of Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

The Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Street Railway Association at a meeting in Philadelphia, March 29th, adopted the following resolution and directed me to transmit a copy to you.

Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Street Railway Association in session this day tender to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the offer of service of the Association, in the present national crisis, in such capacity and manner as may be deemed necessary and expedient by the proper authorities for the welfare of the State and Nation.

HENRY M. STINE, Secretary. THOMAS A. WRIGHT, President.

The SPEAKER. The Chair asks that the same be noted and printed in to-day's Journal.

INVITATION TO PATRIOTIC BANQUET OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE SOCIETY.

The SPEAKER. I have an invitation here which I will ask the Clerk to read.

The Clerk then read the invitation as follows:

The Pennsylvania State Society, an organization made up of officers of the State Government, members of the Judiciary and members of the House and Senate of Pennsylvania past and present, will hold a patriotic banquet at the Chestnut Street Auditorium, in the City of Harrisburg, on the evening of Tuesday, April 10th.

Among the speakers at the banquet will be former Governor Willis, of Ohio; Honorable Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, and the Honorable Emerson Collins, Deputy Attorney General.

It is the desire of those who have charge of this affair that inasmuch as the Legislature is now in session, it shall be an expression of Pennsylvania's willingness to do more than its share in helping uphold and maintain the governmental integrity of the United States and the glory of the Stars and Stripes. All members of the House of Representatives are eligible to attend this banquet. The price per plate is $2.50, and tickets can be secured at the Lieutenant Governor's office or from the members of the dinner committee, of which committee John Price Jackson, Commissioner of Labor and Industry, is Chairman.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1917. No. 34.

SENATE.

MONDAY, April 9, 1917.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer.

Almighty God, we thank Thee that out of the darkness that has been spread over the world by this terrible war we are beginning to realize that "there is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them as we may." The clear-cut message of the President of the United States, presented as a slogan around which this great country is to rally, is bringing our people to the great standard that has made tyranny tremble and will be one of the cleanest, purest and noblest flags that will be united in this great world struggle to secure the democratic rights and purposes of humanity. We ask Thee to bless this great nation in all of its preparations and in all that it may do. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SALUS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. WASBERS asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lycoming, Mr. Sones.

Mr. STEWART asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Cambria Mr. Tompkins, on account of illness.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 126.

He also laid before the Senate communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, filed with the Chief Clerk during the interim, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 5, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 126, entitled "An Act for the relief of indigent war veterans and their families and imposing certain powers and duties upon poor authorities organizations composed of war veterans and the officers thereof."

This act purports to be for the "relief of indigent war veterans and their families." In fact it is a measure to take from the properly constituted authorities, the Overseers of the Poor, their duties and powers with respect to this wholly worthy class of citizens and imposing these powers and duties upon committees of organizations of war veterans chosen by themselves. It is, therefore, not a measure for the relief of any one but a transferring of powers from legally constituted officials to committees of voluntary organizations not coterminous with the field of service involved. This is bad legislation.

Moreover it violates definitely Art. III, section 20 of the Constitution which section prohibits the General Assembly from delegating to any special commission, private corporation, or association any power to make, supervise or interfere with any municipal improvement, money, property or effects.

It is now the duty of the Overseers of the Poor to perform all the duties specified in this bill and they should perform this service adequately and well.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILL NO. 33.

He also returned to the Senate Senate Bill No. 33, entitled

An Act to amend article six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and nine), entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws, general special or local, or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by adding thereto sections six hundred and thirty-five to six hundred and forty both inclusive.

with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

SENATE BILL NO. 112 RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives, returning to the Senate Senate Bill No. 112, entitled

An Act authorizing Charles S. Grubb, a resident of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, to bring suit against and to recover from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania either in law or equity in the court of common pleas of Dauphin County any sum or sums of money legally or justly due him for personal injuries received while employed by the State Highway Department through alleged negligence on the part of the Commonwealth.

with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to,

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, April 9, 1917.

The House met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Reverend Harry Nelson Bassler of Harrisburg offered the following prayer:

Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth or that Thou hadst formed the earth and the world even from everlasting to everlasting. Thou art God. Thou turnest men to destruction and seest the return of the children of men for a thousand years and in Thy sight are but as yesterday and as a watch in the night. In Thy presence we assemble before God and ask Thy blessing and Thy benediction to rest upon us. We feel the responsibility of this hour and we would make no mistakes. Do Thou, therefore, guide us in thought and in word and in deed by the light of Thy countenance, so that in all of our deliberations Thy kingdom may come and Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. May we abide with Thee and dwell together in a world without end. Amen.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor, being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 23, 1917.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 1, entitled "An Act making an appropriation to the State Highway Department and providing for the construction and improvement of part of a certain State highway located in the County of Armstrong."

This Bill is wholly unnecessary and against public policy. The construction of this road under like conditions as prevail under the so-called "State-aid Act" has already been made possible by the approval of Senate Bill No. 23 of this session. Public policy demands that the funds of the Commonwealth for highway construction and improvement shall be expended impartially and equitably. This can only be accomplished in the interest of the whole people by granting funds to the Department concerned and giving such Department as the law now does, the right to place funds where they will do the largest good.

This bill, moreover, is so manifestly unconstitutional that its approval would only lead to the defeat of the purpose it seeks to attain.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the veto of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, on account of the lengthy veto and the fact that it was vetoed twice, I move that the question, together with the bill, be laid upon the table.

Mr. MARVIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1198 (Senate Bill No. 104), entitled

An Act fixing the salaries of the superintendent and deputy superintendent of the Department of State Police and fixing the number and salaries of the officers and the enlisted men of the State Police force.

MR. WHITAKER IN THE CHAIR.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House I feel that it is unnecessary to make extensive remarks on this bill. It has been very thoroughly discussed during the second reading of the same, but at the same time I feel that something should be said, because I feel that there is not a bill that has been considered by this Legislature during this entire session that is of such manifest importance to the State of Pennsylvania as the State Police Bill that we are now considering is to the State at the present time. Under the Act of 1905 the purpose of the State Police was to preserve peace and prevent crime. It is needless for me to tell you that the State Police have very efficiently done what they have been organized to accomplish. It has been said on the floor of this House that organized labor is opposed to this measure. I believe that I can safely say that there are some members of organized labor who are opposed to this bill, but the organized labor, being composed of men of common sense, of good judgment, of knowledge of affairs, know and realize the importance of the State Police to the protection of their own lives and of their property. I have in my possession here a whole sheaf of letters written by miners, members of mining unions, who have called upon the State Police for protection. I have one here signed by Local Union No. 265 of DuPont, Pa. I have here a short letter to Mr. Buss, by one of the United Mine Workers of America, he says, "I approve of increasing the number of State Police, as they protect life and property," signed by A. Hilbert. I have another one here from M. J. Grady, Miner, 21 Giddings street, Pittston, Pa. He says "according to newspaper information, I see there is a movement to increase the State Police force. I believe the present force is inadequate to successfully cope with such "undesirables" as the I. W. W. and such other birds of passage of similar character, and in order to avoid a recurence of recent atrocities, I, as a citizen taxpayer of Pennsylvania say use all honorable means to secure the passage of the bill."

There are a great many letters that I might read that would require a half hour to get through with, but I will not tire the House with them. I will say this, that Sheriff Buss said in my own presence that he believes that if it were not for the State Police, the I. W. W. would eat up the miners. We all know that the Miners' Organization, that Labor Organizations have appealed repeatedly for protection against the lawlessness of the I. W. W. But, Mr. Speaker, aside from that, I feel that there is no time in the history of this country when we could more urgently, more determinately, with better faith, with better courage, ask for an increase of the State Police force than at the present time.

We are now engaged in a great war, at the very beginning of a war, and I feel that we should have the protection of a great police force that is able to lay a protecting hand upon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its hour of greatest need.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, there has been much said here in the past few days with regard to the Mine Workers' Association. I am not going to take up much of the time of the House, I am not going into a lengthy discussion of this subject. I know it is very hard to change the minds of some men when they have become set. It reminds me, my friends, of a gentleman one time who you could not make believe that anything was right. He even said the Scripture was wrong; he even said the Creator was wrong, that when he made this earth he didn't make it right; that if he had made it right he would not have had a great big tree with little bits of nuts on it, or a little vine with great pumpkins on it. One day the man fell asleep in under the tree and one of the nuts came down and hit him on the nose, and he said, "Thank God, it was not a pumpkin." I am not going to throw any pumpkins at you here. The gentleman from York said that the Mine workers' organization asked for the protection of the State Police. I happened to have charge at that time of the miners and of the situation in Old Forge, where this rioting was, and I have here some articles that have been written in the press, and I want to say to you, my friends, that with all of the bravery of the State Police, I can show to you that there must have been some reason for these outbreaks. It is all right to be brave, but when you find miners going home from their two weeks' work with thirty-two cents of pay, it takes a great deal of bravery to walk into a home with eight little children. No wonder sometimes they riot. I do not want this House to believe that I am in favor of the I. W. W. I am utterly opposed to that organization, and if you will follow the press you will see that our organization, the United Mine Workers of America, did all in its power to do away with that organization. Our organization believes in law and order, and does everything in its power to see that our men conduct themselves in an orderly way. I have here a few of the due bills of a little place called Greenwood, where there were riots—and my friends, if they had kept their contracts with the organization that they made them with, this organization would not have been allowed to go in there and there would not have been any truoble. We have miner 481 who got out fourteen and a half cars and whose earnings were thirty-six dollars and seventy-six cents. The deductions were twenty-five dollars and eighty-three cents, his net earnings being ten dollars and forty-three cents; miner 461 got out twenty cars, his earnings were forty-four dollars and forty-five cents, the deductions nineteen dollars and ninety-one cents, the net earnings fourteen dollars and fifty-four cents. I could go on that way for a long time, but, my friends, that was the real reason for the disturbance. I went down there, President Dempsey and myself of that district, and we challenged Joe Helter, the anarchist in charge of the I. W. W., and we challenged him to debate, won their men to the United Mine Workers, and settled it without the sheriff, police or any one else, increased these men's wages, and everything has been going along peacefully ever since. It is not a question to-night, my freinds, whether the State constabulary is a good thing or a bad thing. That is not the question before this House, or whether the United Mine Workers need them or not. If that is so, I would ask of you, who is Katherine Mayo? What was she paid for printing this book, and who paid her?—"The tables are turned at last." My friends, the tables have never been turned in our organization. We have never had a single bit of trouble, and have known the importance of carrying on our contracts in an orderly way. I am going to get away from that, that does not enter into this question. The question we must face here this evening is whether it is right or not to increase the salary and the number of the State constabulary at this time. I say to you honestly that I do not believe that the superintendent—and I believe that he is a good man—should be increased from three thousand to six thousand, as Mr. Spangler says, to show our patriotism. Some of us will be called upon to show our patriotism, and we won't have our salaries increased to go and show it either. In 1898, I, with a lot of other mining boys, left for the Philippine Islands. It wasn't the raising of the salary we went there for, we went there because we were willing to fight for the flag. You will find the boys in that region and all over this State ready to come to the colors at the time that they are needed, and they don't need to be increased in salary. They tell us that our boys will be taken away and we will need the State Police. Supposing you give them the increase in number, I want to tell you that it won't be enough of men to guard the few bridges from here to Scranton. It would take ten thousand State Police to guard all the industries and bridges of this State. I want to tell you my friends that this State at this time cannot afford to go to that expense. Now I have nothing much further to say to you on this question. It is not the question of the United Mine Workers, it is a question whether we should give a man as much salary as a brigadier-general in the United States Army receives. A brigadier-general—and I have followed some of the best of them, Grant and Funston (that is Fred Grant)—and they only get six thousand dollars, and you want to tell our people that you should increase the salary of the superintendent of the State Police, who only has two hundred and some men under him, to six thousand dollars. It is ridiculous to think of it, and my friends, I shall to-night vote against this measure.

Mr. CHARLES SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in the few moments that are allotted to one to speak I want to say briefly that I am in favor of this excellent bill that is before us to-night. Most of the men on the force were selected from applications that have come in from those who were soldiers in the army and the selections were made therefrom in order that the efficiency of the Department would prove satisfactory to our people. On Tuesday last this bill was explained. It has been covered thoroughly by the gentlemen on both sides, but let me add this one point: Protection of home and industry is one essential thing that we want. This organization is an asset to the State of Pennsylvania. They are men who are fearless in the performance of their duty and in the maintenance of order in this Commonwealth of ours. There is no body of men in any organization that compares to them. To-day we are confronted with war. We believe that the National Guard may be called to the frontier or the water-front. We need the increase of these men for the protection of our munition plants and other industries. I believe that we ought to have double the number that is asked for in this bill. We have knowledge of a number of instances in which crime has been ferreted out by these men. What has this force done? Illustrations might be given upon one point and another, but I feel that I should relate to you one instance that comes from a gentleman from Schuylikll County who is the District Attorney and who made this statement: "The State Police have been of great assistance to the District Attorney's office in almost every county in the State of Pennsylvania." They have helped to secured convictions in many cases and I might mention but two. In one case they located in the wilds of Minnesota a man who had fled there from here who was charged with the murder of his wife. The man was brought back, tried and convicted of murder in the first degree. In another case they followed men through many states and after six months or more three men were brought back and tried and convicted of murder in the second degree and are serving in the penitentiary in this State.

Gentlemen of the House, it is very essential to know that we have good men who are fearless, who will go throughout this country of ours and ferret out the crime that has taken place in our State and succeed in obtaining convictions. In the several thousands of arrests that have been made it is reported that nearly eighty-five per cent. of those arrested were convicted and sent to prison. Gentlemen, I hope that you will support this bill. As you and I have seen, many articles have apeared throughout the press of the State in support of this bill and therefore I trust that every member present will give his support to this bill providing for the addition of one hundred more men, for it is believed by all that we will require them for our protection.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in speaking in favor of this bill I will say in the premises that I don't believe that there is any man in the House of whom it can be said that his mind is not subject to change if the consideration of this bill and the necessities of the hour require it. I am reminded that one time the great Parnell of Ireland, was arguing a case before the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland and that Lord Chief Justice during the hearing of the argument turned to Parnell and said: "Mr. Parnell, there is not any use of you proceeding further on that point; it is simply going in one ear and out the other." Parnell replied at once: "I know it, Lord; there is nothing between the ears to stop it." I am satisfied that there is not a man in this House that lacks brains to consider any bill that is presented for our consideration. It has been said to-night that the State Constabulary has shown bravery. I am going to say to you gentlemen that if you will consider, from personal contact with these men, their records, they are not men that are chosen by haphazard that are chosen with regard to their political affiliation, and as to that if they were connected with politics it would immediately result in the discharge of any man on that force; and furthermore if any man comes with a political recommendation he is immediately refused. Therefore we have an organization patterned on the type of the greatest organization in the world namely, the British Constabulary. They are free and clear of all political affiliation and do their duty with only one thought in mind and that is their duty; and our constabulary is so well known that, as you heard at another time, eleven states have patterned their constabulary on the same plan.

Gentlemen, in considering this bill, I have been extremely surprised to receive from two labor organizations letters asking me to vote against the bill. I have always noticed in the public prints and I have heard it testified to in court that organized labor is in favor of law and order. If, therefore, organized labor takes the position of being in favor of law and of order why should it oppose that which assists in the maintaining of law and order?

One more thought: You will find by an examination of the records of this case that in coming before the courts or before commissions that organized labor has always taken the stand that it is not their men that cause the rackets, it is not their men that cause the riots; and in that I believe they are correct. We found in the City of Philadelphia some years ago, when we had a terrific trolley strike, that the trolley men did not cause the trouble; it was the great mob, and the sympathizers and the "do-nothings" or the "won't-works" that hung around the places where crowds congregated. They threw bricks through the cars they broke the windows and hurt the passengers and mashed up property generally. Gentleman of the House the State Constabulary breaks up these crowds that don't belong to organized labor that go beyond the limits of law and reason in what they consider their rights. They are not in favor of law; they believe in license; they don't know the meaning, the real meaning of the term liberty as it is used in the United States. Therefore, any organization that keeps down mob law and that says to union men, "go ahead and do your duty and we will do ours" is one that should be maintained.

The learned gentleman from Lackawanna referred to-night to the contracts existing between the Miners' Union ad the operators of the mines. I am going to say to you that if the operators of the mines had a contract with the Miners' Union and the operators failed to maintain the terms of that contract there is a place provided for by the Constitution of the State and by the Constitution of the Unied States where those wrongs can be righted—I refer to the courts; and the Constitution provides that the courts shall be open at all times. Therefore, if it is true—and I do not doubt it—that the contract existed between the Miners' Union and the mine operators and that contract was breached, it was the duty of the miners to go into court and by the conscience of the chancellor seek redress of their grievances.

Reference has been made to the enormous salary proposed for the Superintendent of the State Constabulary. It has been stated that his salary is equivalent to that of a Brigadier General in the United States Army. To that I must enter a demurrer for this reason: A Brigadier General in the United States Army receives $6,000.00 a year, and what else? The learned gentleman from Lackawanna has not told you what else he receives.

The salary which Major Groome will receive if this bill is passed is equivalent to that of a Major in the United States Army. I am going to say to you men that if you will take the trouble to analyze this matter from a military standpoint, you will find that the duties of the Superintendent compared with the duties of a Major in the United States Army, that the Superintendent of our State Police has far more work to do and a much greater territory to cover than a Major in the United States Army. A Major in the Army has nearly the whole year to devote to peaceful pursuits, of looking after men who will need to be drilled. The Superintendent of State Police has to drill his men not merely as soldiers, but he has to drill them also as police, and not merely as police but also as detectives. Their record has been referred to and it has been shown that 820 arrests out of every one thousand served time. That record is not exceeded by any police record in the State of Pennsylvania. Gentlemen, Major Groome has a record for efficiency that cannot be gainsaid and as a Superintendent of the State Police his work is unquestioned. In the Spanish War he was a Captain and if you will follow his record you will know that as Captain of that old body known as the First City Troop of Philadelphia, established in the City of Philadelphia beginning in 1774, he drew his sabre and mounted his horse and went off down in Cuba where some of his men, who were classmates of mine, laid down their lives. He has been ready to do his duty and he has done his duty in the past and is willing to serve his country at this time and it is necessary that we should have such men in this Commonwealth at this time when this war is within our borders. We have a lesson in England. After England had entered into the trials of war there were troubles at home and they required the return of some of their trained men to take care of the difficulties that were then in existence within their borders. With that as a litle guiding star we should not except that our population would do otherwise and we should see to it to do everything that we can to see that peace is maintained and that this bill should pass.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who has just spoken has said that the salary of Major Groome should be as much as that of a Major in the Regular Army. If you will read last Tuesday's Legislative Journal you will see where Mr. Maurer, the member from Berks, in this House, read a report of where Major Groome was before a commission, giving testimony before the Industrial Commission at Washington, and when asked by Mr. Walsh, "Were you present at the strike in Erie?" and Major Groome's answer was, "No, sir. I only take command when the entire force or squad is out. When one troop or portion of troop is out the commanding officer of that troops is with them; when all are out then I take command as a senior officer but I don't interfere with them in their rank."

So, he is not in actual service all the time as the gentleman states, and, as I understand by what Brother Maurer says, the only time they have been together in a good many years was when they posed for moving pictures.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, when we cast our vote for this bill we are privileged to vote for a body of men who in efficiency have no equal in the United States of America, considering their numbers. Their efficiency is so marked that there is not a state in the Union to-day who is not casting longing eyes to Pennsylvania and who don't contemplate the organization of a similar body. The Lieutenant-Governor of this State told me this morning that on the trip that was taken with the Liberty Bell to San Francisco, that party passed through more than a majority of the States of the Union and that there was not a single exception of any Governor who did not ask him for his opinion upon the efficiency of this body of men in our State and the advisibility of appointing a similar body in their state. He told me that the Governor of Colorado said to him, "If we in Colorado had a body of men like that who were as efficient in maintaining law and order as that small body of men is over in Pennsylvania; if we had such a body in our mining camps, we should double the population of Colorado in five years." What are these men remarkable for? Efficiency. What is their duty? To maintain law and order and ferret out crime. Is there anything wrong about that? Have you ever heard of a single instance since they were organized within the bounds of this State, where they did not succeed in maintaining law and order? Just this evening, as I was in conversation with Sheriff Buss of Luzerne County, he told me that during September, October and November of last year, at a time when the I. W. W. were out on a strike and when they refused to work with the United Mine Workers to maintain order in the mines that he was hopelessly incapable, with the many assistants that he had called to his side, to maintain order. He told me that conditions became such that hundreds of citizens asked to be sworn in as deputies for the simple purpose of being permitted to carry weapons of defense to protect their own families. At this time when our National Guard is out ,these men are, at this very minute, at this very time, training this National Guard to be as efficient as they themselves are in this work. At this time when they are locally needed and when we have about 270 men to look after the safety and the law and order of this State, I ask you gentlemen to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I think that some of the remarks made on law and order here should be answered. That is all I rise to do. It has been said about the I. W. W., in regard to which I wish to say something; also as to what the Sheriff of Luzerne County said.

I have here a copy of the newspaper reports of that Sheriff's conduct, where he failed to bring in a single indictment against any of the men that were arrested. He was scathingly rebuked by the District Attorney for his part in that fracas. Now there has been much more said about the law and order side, just as if those of us who oppose this constabulary bill were opposed to law and order. That is not so, gentlemen, for this debate last Tuesday shows and after the debate of last Tuesday and of the last six years on this floor, and very many of you who spoke about law and order are old members and men who are not present here for the first time, have heard addresses by the dozen on this subject. I do not believe any of you will agree or admit that any of us who oppose the Constabulary have condoned anything else but law and order. We oppose this Department because it does not maintain law and order, but provokes disorder in a strike situation. We have proven it. I spoke about an hour and fifteen minutes last Tuesday and I showed you that that is what happened, but it seems like the gentleman on the other side said, "it goes in one and out of the other." You gentlemen seem to pay no attention There is an old saying, "convince a man against his will, and he remaineth of the same opinion still." I have always believed that a Legislative body was open to conviction, it seems that it is not so with all of us. I am willing to be convinced on any subject. Now, we have shown you people the situation at Scranton, at Wilkes-Barre, and at Hazelton. I could have taken you to wherever there was a strike situation. I am going to be frank with you again, these men come in and they provoke disorder by being partial in their conduct. That is what causes disorder. Now, we only want them to maintain law and order, and that is all. If you are going to keep on patting them on the back, why they are going to keep on doing in the future what they have done in the past. I do not want that. A great deal has been said about the fact that we need them for patriotic purposes. I have a letter here which I received from the Chamber of Commerce of Philadelphia, and they use the war as an excuse. They say here that which is very striking: "Owing to the state of war now existing between the United States and Germany, this would seem to be an opportune time to increase the force of the State Police." They take advantage of our unfortunate condition to increase the State Police. For the amount of money you are going to spend for one hundred extra State policemen you could get six hundred soldiers, and they will be more efficient, perhaps, than those one hundred policemen. Now, if it is protection you want, why not spend that $200,000 extra on six hundred soldiers, then you are talking about efficiency, that is more like it. I just came in from Toledo this morning, from Toledo clean in here I saw soldiers at the bridges that we passed over, guarding the bridges. I saw them on my way home last week, and wherever I go I see soldiers, along the railroads, guarding the important bridges. Those soldiers are getting sixteen dollars a month; our State troopers get $80 and you want to give them $90. You are having pets in this thing. Talk about protecting our munition plants. How much protection do you think 100 men or 200 men can give a great munition plant? You are not going to get very far with 200 nor with 100 men. Now, I merely refer to that, gentlemen, merely to show you that the argument that "now we are at war we need them," is not a fair argument. Let use not be so unpatriotic as to try to pass a bill in the guise of patriotism. I do not believe in that kind of patriotism, if I want to do a thing I will do it just for what it is worth, and not try to make it appear that in these great trying times we must pass the State Police Bill. My friend ——

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, as soon as I am through.

The gentleman from York mentioned the Labor Unions that favored this bill. The gentleman mentioned two distinct organizations. I would be very much obliged if the gentleman would give me the names of the organizations. I do not ask him to do it in public if he does not see fit, but I will be thankful if he hands them to me afterwards. The gentleman from York mentioned the names of some Union men, I do not question that at all. Of course there are some Union men that do not understand. We have Union men that never were in a strike. We have what we call "card" union men. Some of them pay dues, and that is about all they amount to. Those poor fellows do not understand what the struggle for existence is. My dear friend from York held up a few letters to show that union men favored the Constabulary. I can bring you in 400,000 names, if need be, who are opposed to the State Constabulary. I have the honor to represent the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, representing nearly 500,000 men and women of this State. Do you think I could take this position if it was not in strict accord with the instructions they gave me on this question? Certainly not. The gentlemen speaks about the other States casting their eyes on Pennsylvania. I do not question that. A man who lives in comfort and ease, with a fixed income, never in any struggle for bread, he cannot understand the labor question. You live for a whole summer on less than $1.00 a week and feed a family on it, and then get your head cracked and thrown into prison, and your family put out of their home, you go through a battle like that, and you will commence to understand the struggle of labor. In great mining industries, when there is a strike, those houses belong to the company. You have an eviction law in this State. In some counties they can evict in five days. You have trespass laws, and they can arrest for trespassing. The roadways in those mining towns are private owned streets, the churches stand on private owned streets, the postoffice on private owned streets, and when you have a strike situation, and the father of the family is arrested when he is on the street for trespassing, they throw him into prison, in order to cow him and break the spirit of the man or woman. And then, if it does not do that, they get together and have a discussion of their grievances and then the State Constabulary rides in and "disperses" them as they say. Gentlemen, I do not like to talk about this, but I am forced to. I say you people who have lived in comfort all your lives and have never struggled as we have, simply cannot understand. I know you cannot understand.

You may think you can, but you don't. You have never been in a strike. Don't say we should never have strikes, that is the last resort we have. No one ever fought strikes harder than I did, against them, and the last man in a union to vote for it. I fought bitterly for weeks and weeks against calling a strike; I did not want a strike, but when there is no other way we must call a strike, and when we do, our strength lies in keeping other men from taking the jobs, and we try to do that. They bring in strikebreakers. The strikebreakers are armed; they bring in gunmen, and they are armed; they use the coal and iron police, and they are armed; they bring the State Police, and they are armed, everybody is armed except the striker, who is a citizen and a taxpayer. The men they bring in are not citizens and taxpayers, but they are allowed to go armed. It is perfectfully lawful for a strikebreaker or a gunman imported by the company to be armed, but it is unlawful for a striker. But gentlemen, we do not carry arms and don't want to. We never did; we don't want to fight, but we do not want to be murdered or clubbed and beaten. You talk about having done away with the coal and iron police. We never got away from them. When you passed the constabulary law you promised the people of Pennsylvania that you were going to repeal the private detective laws, but you have to-day all of the old laws you had before the passage of the State Police law. You did not repeal a single one, they are still here and you still use them. Let us be fair about it, let us not try to swing this bill through under the guise of patriotism. I will measure my patriotism with any man in this House, State or Nation. I find my experience has been that those who talk the loudest and talk about being the bravest and always wanting a fight, when something starts, we find that gentleman under the table, and we find the man who did not want to fight is generally a good fighter. Let us take this bill for what it is worth. It means this: That the State Constabulary as you now have it costs you four hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year. If this bill is defeated, you still have them and that expense because it won't repeal the law. You will still have the State Police, you will still have what you have now, but if it passes then you are going to have an expense of over two hundred thousand dollars a year more. You are going to have the beginning of that which you to-night passed a resolution eulogizing Russia for getting rid of. I fear for my country. I tell you my friends, the states have asked for and look with respect upon the constabulary. You are driving toward militarism, and I warn you. You have the State Police here, in New York, and in Ohio, and you will finally have them in every state in the Union, and you will get where Russia has just gotten away from—that under which Russia has been suffering for centuries, the Russian Cossack. Here I tell you what you are getting into under the guise of patriotism. I warn you now to watch Washington. To-day the first bill of the draft laws was offered, and they are going to draft a million men for their army. It is their intention to have close to a million men in the trenches of Europe in a year. Now by the time this war is over we will find ourselves loaded down by a military machine. Germany, after the Franco-Prussian war said, "We must build an army greater than France," and she built that army, and this miserable mess you now see in Europe is the result of trying to have the biggest army in the world.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to be out of order in regard to the rules of this Assembly, but I do not wish to sit here and listen to anything derogatory to our national policies.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks will continue.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, if a great truth is too much for the gentleman to listen to, I certainly will have no objection if he will withdraw until I am through. I am within my rights on this floor to warn the people of a danger to my country when I see it. They want to go to Europe and give them democracy, but they deny it to me here in the legislative halls of Pennsylvania. My friends, what I fear is this, the "Prussianization" of this country, the building of a powerful machine that has meant so much to Europe and under which Europe has suffered so much. I do not want to see it so. This republic has thrived for a century or more without such a machine. This military machine of the State Constabulary is the beginning, and it is growing larger, and larger, and larger so that I fear for the future for those who control the military machine, control the people and you know it. Let us not fool ourselves. The working class of Pennsylvania, the salt of the State, is appealing to you not to give Pennsylvania any more of this constabulary. It is up to you; use your own judgment, vote as you think right, and we will have to abide by the results.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to call into question the sincerity of purpose of the honorable gentleman from Berks, or of the gentleman from Lackawanna, in speaking contrary to the bill which now lies before you, but I take it for granted that honest labor is at no time opposed to law and order. I take it for granted that the guilty always flee "when no man pursueth." I take it for granted that there are men who would find it to their advantage if the entire police system of our great cities and of this State was abolished, and they probably would rejoice if they could be convinced of the fact that the day had come when law no longer governed and when every man was free to do as he pleased for himself. If there is anything wrong with the State Police, if at times mistakes have been made, there is a remedy for the abuse of judgment and for the wrong that has been done. No man would think for a moment of abolishing the entire police system of the City of Philadelphia, from which I come, simply for the reason that now and then some police officer oversteps the line of discretion and does that which in reason and justice he ought not to do, but I am convinced that the objection to this bill is not because of the increase in salary, because I have heard it repeatedly pointed out in several sessions that have passed by ever since these police have come into existence. It is undoubtedly true that by reason of some strife here and there between lawless people and the State Police that some would rather have this institution altogether abolished, but to my mind it is a decidedly big improvement in the condition of affairs as they existed before this State Police was called into existence. I remember back at the time of the anthracite strike—not the last one, but the one preceding it by a good many years before—when the entire National Guard of your State was sent to Homestead, with what disastrous strike they met there and came in contact with honest labor in many instances, because of bad judgment sometimes on both sides of the House; and more serious was the fact that these mine owners and operators were permitted to hire their own police, the mining police as they were called. In the event of any strike they would send to large cities like Philadelphia and New York and they would hire all the thugs and all the loafers that they could find that hadn't any honest labor to perform and they would get these men to come into your State her to watch the mines; and, surely, it was not the character of men to place on guard; and the result was that we had turmoil and strife and bloodshed here at home in the good old State of Pennsylvania. But with the advent of these State Police, almost single-handed, two and three at a time have been able to quell riots and subdue hundreds up against constituted authority. I take it for granted that when the mine operator or his superintendent or his police violates the law that they ought to be punished, and I say with equal truth that when the police force violates the law they ought to be punished. But there is a great deal more in the existence of this institution than the mere suppression of occasional strikes in this State of ours. It means the stability of law and order; it means the detection of crime which for years has gone unpunished because of the lack of a proper detective system in this State to find those guilty of the crime and bring them to justice; and at this time, when we are under the very clouds of war which are hanging over our nation and threatening the welfare of our State, when it is possible at any time for any little insurrection to come here and there in some foreign settlement in this State, when bridges may be blown up and buildings torpedoed and blown to pieces, when human life may be taken, I say this is the time above all times when two hundred and fifty loyal men should be held in their positions to do their duty and stand faithful by the State of Pennsylvania and its citizenship. It is not because of any hostility to labor. I voted for more labor bills in this session and in the last session than perhaps any other man in this House and I have always been a friend to honest labor, but I will say this to labor; if you challenge my sincerity in this vote and the sincerity of other men who believe in law and order at this time, then we have come to the parting of the ways and you cannot depend upon my support or the support of any other man who wants to be loyal to his State and to his Nation. Two hundred and fifty men against millions in this great Commonwealth will never Russianize the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania nor ever capture the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall. Two hundred and fifty men will never steal the liberties of loyal Pennsylvanian sons, and whenever the time comes that the police system of this State is to arise in proportion and degree to what we have witnessed in foreign nations then is the time to speak, but not now. This is not the time to ignore present conditions; this is not the time for disorder and disturbance. This is the time for peace and orderly discussion of protective measures for your welfare and the welfare of every law-abiding citizen in this Commonwealth.

Why, gentlemen, I remember some years ago in the City of Philadelphia we had one of the greatest trolley strikes that ever took place within my own recollection. Thousands and thousands of men were out on the streets and thousands more were there to sympathize with those who had gone out on the strike. Why, you sent your militia to Philadelphia to preserve law and order and I seen men standing on the street and tearing the very guns from the arms of the soldiers that were standing there to preserve law and order. But when these stately men came riding through the streets of Philadelphia those who came to make light and to scorn left with respect and envy at loyal obedience to righteousness and justice which these men displayed. Why, the very boys upon the street were glad to hold the reins of the horses while the guardsmen would go out to perform some little duty. They were not welcome, not at all; but after they had been there a day or two and had shown by their manly bearings that they were there to preserve order and mete out justice between all people, regardless of who and what they were, then the hats were raisd of all loyal people and the strike soon was over. The most remarkable thing about the entrance of the police in Philadelphia at that particular time was the fact that not one of them fired a single shot in the preservation of order at that time, and if I say nothing more in defense of the police system than this, I am satisfied. When two or three men, often-times one man, can handle hundreds of men by their orderly appearance and patience and good judgment and bring order out of chaos, you have a system that you may be proud of. When the time comes that their arm must be unjustly raised against labor I will say. "so far you can go but no further;" but as long as I believe they are here to do what is right towards labor, with as much regard for them as for capital, it does not lie in the mouth of others to find any fault with this great system of State Police.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, no doubt a number of men within my hearing who are members of this House and others who are visitors in the House at this time will be surprised when I take the floor and state that I am in favor of this bill. In the year 1909 I had the honor of representing the district that I now represent and then took the floor and done everything within my power to have the State Police Bill repealed. I failed. In the year 1910 and the year 1911 I was appointed county detective for the County of Luzerne and there had the pleasure of working side by side with the State troopers and, allow me to say, gentlemen, I became converted to the cause of the State Policemen and their good work. I come from, without a doubt, the strongest union district that there is in Pennsylvania. I come from a town that can proudly say that in the two collieries practically every man who goes down into the bowels of the earth and who works on the outside belongs to Locals No. 1138 and 1159, United Mine Workers of America.

Up until the year of 1914 I was treasurer of the Kingston Coal Company Keg Fund, an organization that had twenty-seven hundred members and every member that belonged to the Keg Fund had to be a union man. Now, there is a broad statement, but there are gentlemen and people here that can bear me out. It was the custom every year for this Keg Fund to run their annual picnic and I myself was authorized by that Keg Fund, up until the year 1915, to see if we could not get the troopers to come to our picnic. To the gentleman from Berks, I refer to the Kingston Coal Company Keg Fund as late as the year 1915, naming one of the organizations.

We have in the anthracite region a day that we look back to and dread when we think of it—Black Friday—the tenth of September, 1897, when the Sheriff of Luzerne County with a body of men entrained and went down to the lowert part of Luzerne County to a little town called Lattimer, and there, becoming exicited at the gathering of people, someone gave the word to fire; and what was the result? Gentlemen, twenty-one men were killed outright and scores of others were injured. From what? From the lack of training in efficiency. I could go on all night and relate to you incidents, but I do this, gentlemen, and have taken the floor at this time to state to you that I feel keenly the position of the different heads of organizations and I know how they feel on this subject. Some feel that the majority of the rank and file should turn around and support this measure or any measure of this kind. I want to say this: That I personally have interviewed in my own district, in my own town, scores of United Mine Workers, and if necessary I will mention the names of those who said to me, "Dick, if I was in your place I would support the State Police Bill." It is not a mater with me at this time of patriotism; it is a matter, as I look at it, of duty. Gentlemen, I am forced to make this statement after hearing some of the remarks that have been made by gentlemen on this floor. Last week the gentleman from Berks mentioned the case about a man in Luzerne County where a trooper by the name of Gallagher atacked an ex-coroner by the name of Meily, and also stated that there was a member of this House who was a member of the grand jury and that that man was indicted, but the gentleman from Berks did not tell you that the jury who tried the case found a verdict of guilty and sentenced Mr. Meily to pay two-thirds of the costs and the State Trooper one-third of the costs. These are the conditions. I know, I dare say at this present time, anywheres from fifty to one hundred men of the State Troop for whom, at least the great majority of them, I can only speak in words of praise. There might be some among them that might cause someone to say that they are no good but that you can find in any body of men. I have taken up considerable of your time, gentlemen, and I am going to ask you, from Luzerne County, which I represent, to support this bill.

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker, I come here from a county in the interior of the State. We do not have a large percentage of union labor in our county, but we have some. I came here two years ago and voted against the Constabulary Bill. I was opposed to increasing the State Constabulary and to an increase in their salaries. At this present time I am still opposed, personally, to the increase of the salaries. However, I came here two years ago when our country was at peace, at a time when we were assembled under a flag of peace. But at the present time war clouds have gathered all around us, and we see our young men from the interior part of the State, as well as from other sections, enlisting in the National Army. Just this evening as I was taking my dinner I saw three splendid young men from my county come in and sit down at the table just in front of me to take their dinners. I said to them, "Boys, how does it come that you are here?" They said, "We have enlisted in the United States Army." I said, "What for?" They said, "To go wherever the Government of the United States needs us." Gentlemen of this House, our young men are being taken out of the interior of the State and out of other parts of the State to go out of the State and to serve in the United States Army. Yes, probably, under the will of God, to go across the briny deep to defend the principles for which our forefathers fought in 1776 in order that we might have an independent government. Our young men are being taken away from our homes in order that the principles of right and justice may live throughout the world; and now, since our young men are enlisting, and since our armies are being moved out of our own State, I believe that it is the duty of every man in this House to support this measure that will protect our homes, to support a measure that will guard us in this State when we have sent our soldiers out of the State. I know very well now what I am going to catch from certain sections in my county for voting in favor of this bill, but I am going to vote for it fearlessly, believing that I am doing right; that I am vtoing to protect my home and the homes of those in my county. I hope and trust that this bill will carry with a big majority, although I am opposed to the increase of salary.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

REASONS FOR VOTE ON SENATE BILL NO. 104.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker,

First: Owing to the state of war now existing between the United States and Germany, this would seem to be an opportune time to increase the force of the State Police.

Second: I have not received any protests from my constituents against this measure, but, on the other hand have received both letters and telegrams asking me to vote for this bill.

I did vote for amendment against the increase of salary for Superintendent Groome to $6,000, believing it to be excessive.

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, being an American citizen first and holding my country's needs to be paramount to everything else, I feel at this time compelled to vote yes on the above mentioned bill on account of a state of war existing between this country and Germany. The United States having control of our State Militia and also on account of our State being composed of all nationalities, and the vast interests of the State of Pennsylvania being imperiled by plots of some foreign power it behooves us as Americans first last and all the time to protect and save our industries from ruin, to have our local and State Police force increased to such an extent to obsolutely protect them from all harm so therefore I feel it my duty at this trying time of my country's need to vote "yes" on Senate Bill No. 104, House Bill No. 1198.

Mr. McCURDY. Mr. Speaker, having voted in the affirmative on Senate Bill No. 104, do so under protest against increase of salary but believe this Commnowealth is in need of police protection to preserve law and order.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution of the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 9, 1917.

Expressing the Sympathy, Friendship and Goodwill of this State to Russia in her substitution of Democracy for Autocracy.

Whereas, The people of Russia have taken the government of that country into their own hands and have substituted a Democracy for an Autocracy; and

Whereas, We wish to rejoice with Russia, the oft-proved friend of this country, that she has ranged herself on the side of enlightened freedom and liberty which have been paid for by the lives of thousands of her bravest and best; Therefore, be it

Resolved, If the Senate concur, That this General Assembly expressing the sentiments of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of her sister states, rejoices with Russia that she has made her dream of Democracy come true and bespeaks for her the aid and encouragement of the liberty-loving people of our nation; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by His Excellency the Governor under the seal of the Commonwealth to the President of the Duma of Russia.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to and (at 11.45 P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1917. No. 35.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, April 10, 1917.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for this beautiful morning, for the preservation of our lives and for the spirit of brotherhood spreading abroad among out fellow-men. We thank Thee for all the blessings with which we are endowed and we pray that whatever obligations may come to us and whatever opportunities may be opened we may immediately address ourselves to them with the thought that we will be commended by Thee and that we will help our fellow-men. We ask Thy blessing upon this great Commonwealth and may it respond magnificently as it has always done to the unusual needs of our country. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the receding session, when, on motion of Mr. SALUS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION REQUIRING THE STATE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION TO LAY BEFORE THE SENATE OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA A REPORT MADE BY ITS SOLICITOR.

Mr. EYRE offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Whereas, The Economy and Efficiency Commission created by a concurrent resolution, entitled "A concurrent resolution providing for the continuance of the investigation into the number, character, duties, and compensation of persons in the employ of the State Government, and the methods for disbursing and accounting for State funds, and the preparation and tabulation of data and statistics of comparative costs in the departments, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State Government, and directing the co-operation of the various State departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, board of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State," approved the seventeenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, has filed a report with the General Assembly embodying certain recommendations in the interest of economy and efficiency in the management of the affairs of the State Government; and

Whereas, In the interest of public policy and for their guidance and enlightenment, the members of the Senate feel that they should have before them all possible information concerning the investigations of the Economy and Efficiency Commission;

Now, therefore, Be it Resolved, That the members of the Economy and Efficiency Commission be and are hereby directed to send to the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania not later than Tuesday, April tenth, the full report submitted to them by their solicitors who conducted their investigations and based his recommendations upon his intimate knowledge of the management of public affairs obtained thereby.

RESOLUTION URGING THE CITIZENS ENGAGED IN AGRICULTURE IN THIS COMMONWEALTH TO USE EVERY WISE EFFORT TO STIMULATE THE PRODUCTION OF FOOD SUPPLIES UPON THEIR FARMS.

Mr. R. E. SMITH offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, April 10, 1917.

Whereas, The United States of America being now involved in the mightiest armed conflict of the world's history, and one which calls for the efficient marshaling of the resources of the nation and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, In view of the starving multitudes in Belgium and parts of France and in view of the present shortage of food stuffs throughout this country and the world, it is of the utmost importance that the production of the same be increased to the greatest possible extent in order to meet the requirements of the nation and its allies engaged in this struggle for free government; therefore

Be it resolved (if the House concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania that those of our citizens engaged in agriculture in this Commonwealth be hereby urged to use every wise effort to stimulate the production of food supplies upon their farms, and the General Assembly does hereby appeal to the agriculturalists of this Commonwealth to accept the responsibility for producing, so far as possible, greater food resources as an imperative and a patriotic duty, the fulfillment of which is of vital importance to the welfare of our people and to the effective prosecution of the war.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to proper committee, be dispensed with, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO COMPLETION OF THE TRANS-PENNSYLVANIA THOROUGHFARES.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to lie over one day, be dispensed with, in order that the Senate may now proceed to the consideration of resolution of the House of Representatives No. 12, reported from the Committee on Public Roads and Highways this morning, as follows:

Whereas, An effort is being made throughout the United States of America to amply prepare this country against any contingency which may arise and defend it against the invasion of any foe, therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That it is the sense of this body that one of the first steps toward the protection of this Commonwealth and the rendering of aid to the Federal Government will be the completion of those trans-Pennsylvania thoroughfares which are part of the transcontinental systems connecting the eastern and western coasts the construction of which would aid materially in the transportation of troops and munitions of war if the occasion of such transportation arose.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

PRAYER.

The Rev. T. T. Mutchler, of Philadelphia, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the privilege of living at this time with the opportunities that are before us and the responsibilities that rest upon us. May each one of us be conscious that we are not only living but that we must give an account for what we do while amid this life.

Direct us by Thy counsel and may we do the things that will meet Thy approval as well as our own.

We ask Thy blessing upon the President of this United States and all associated with him; direct them that they shall act wisely and well. May Thy blessing rest upon the Speaker of this House and all associated in this legislative body.

Lead us by Thy counsel; guide us by Thy word; direct us in what we shall do by Thy spirit; and, when we shall finish this little life below, gather us at home in the celestial city.

This, with all else we need, we ask for Jesus sake. Amen.

NAYS—2.

Rininger, Wood,

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. STERN called up House Bill No. 659, File Folio 1797, from page 9 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 659, entitled

An Act imposing a State license tax upon all automatic or slot vending or weighing or other slot machines or devices imposing certain powers and duties upon the Auditor General prescribing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act providing for the confiscation of certain machines and making an appropriation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I request the sponsor of this bill to explain its provisions.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I am glad to be asked for an explanation of this bill. I will give it briefly: This bill provides an annual tax of one dollar on all slot machines that take in pennies and coins of that denomination; an annual tax of two dollars on all machines that take in over a penny up to five cents, and five dollars that take in over or from five cents up. The idea is that there are thousands of machines automatically vending merchandise, or giving service of some description, all through the State of Pennsylvania that belong to individuals and corporations most of whom are not paying any taxes, or many of them, to the State of Pennsylvania. Some of them do, but when they have these machines they pay no man, they pay no wages and the machine is put there, to do, automatically, that which a living human being would be compelled to do, so that a machine takes the place of a person. This bill is a revenue raiser and after being in discussion with the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee I am told that we have not yet sufficient revenues raised for the State whereby the appropriation of the State can be properly taken care of.

This bill, as I am told, and nobody can get any definite figures on it, will yield the State somewhere between three and five million dollars annually. The tax is a very nominal tax, is a graded tax, depending upon the amount of money that these machines take in. As an illustration let me say that this bill was prompted by reason of the fact that several weeks ago I went down to the Pennsylvania Railroad station, and was washing my hands. I was compelled to pay five cents to get soap and a towel. I then found that the machines were owned by somebody in New York State. They were vending merchandise here without paying any wages, without paying any men, and they were getting a profit, and therefore I thought that it would be a good idea to tax these people, making the tax nominal. It is not intended to put them out of business, because we only want tax for revenue. It is a revenue raiser, and therefore I hope the gentlemen of the House will pass the bill.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if this act would in any wise legalize illegal gambling slot machines which are now in use throughout the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, the bill specifically excludes any illegal machines.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, in what section?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know the section at this time.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, it says "or any other devise operated."

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, section seven, I am told.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I listened attentively to the explanation of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern. As a revenue raiser, I have no doubt that this act applies to the persons to whom Mr. Stern intends it to apply. If this act provided for a taxation on the corporations leasing the machines and not the individual, I would not oppose it. It would then be a tax raiser, imposing a tax upon persons qualified, Mr. Speaker, to pay it, but if you will look at the second section of this act you will find that there the lessee of the slot machines will be compelled to pay this tax. Now, you and I know that throughout the State of Pennsylvania, in small cigar stores, in candy stores located in our various neighborhoods, are slot machines where chewing-gum, candy and various other things are ejected from a machine for which persons for a penny, two pennies or what not, obtain cakes and various other things to eat. Now, gentlemen, all of these machines are leased, with very few exceptions, and you will find that the revenue from this so-called revenue raiser must come from those men and women who keep candy stores and little shops from which they make a living, and as an accommodation to the children and the people of their neighborhood. I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, that this would be harsh upon those poor people. I ask the gentleman now if he will withdraw consideration of this act in order that you may go among your neighbors and find out whether or not what I am saying is true. If it is true, then you will defeat this act; if it is not true, you can let it pass, but you will find upon investigation that this is not a revenue raiser in the true sense of the word, because a revenue raiser which raises revenue from the poor people who have enough expenses to pay without being taxed for material of this kind, is not a revenue raiser which the State of Pennsylvania wants. I submit to you, gentlemen, that this is an unfair measure and should be defeated by you.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it seems there is a feature with reference to this bill which has not yet been brought out. In this bill, a tax will be imposed upon all automatic gas meters used by many of the small homes of the City of Philadelphia, where twenty-five cents is put in at a time. This proposed measure would effect thousands of meters of the large cities, and furthermore, all the automatic telephone machines in public places for long distance calls would lose by this taxation at the rate of five dollars a year. Now, I have no particular interest in any corporation or corporations, but it does seem to me that this Legislature ought to consider whether or not it is fair to these great public service corporations to have a charge of five dollars taxed on them, on each of the machines which they place in public places and in small homes, for the convenience and benefit of the householder and the use of the public. I think it is a very questionable measure, as to whether or not this taxation is not unjust to the people. It seems to me that the benefits that may accrue by reason of the revenue or otherwise from this bill are very largely outweighed by the consideration which I have just indicated.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—2.

Campbell, J. O., Hoffman.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1099 (Senate Bill No. 355), entitled

An Act to amend section fifteen and part of section twenty-one of an act approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, entitled "An Act to provide for the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, by creating the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation of the Department of Labor and Industry; providing for the establishment of a Workmen's Compensation Board to have charge of such Bureau; authorizing the division of the Commonwealth into Workmen's Compensation districts and the appointment of Workmen's Compensation Referees; defining the powers and duties of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry, the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, the Workmen's Compensation Board, the Workmen's Compensation Referees and the factory inspectors of the Department of Labor and Industry in enforcing the said act and fixing the salaries of the members of the Workmen's Compensation Board, the Workmen's Compensation Referees and certain of their employes and assistants."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I move you that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill to increase the salary of the Workmen's Compensation Referees. In 1915, when they fixed the salary of the Compensation Referee, it was simply a haphazard guess as to what that salary ought to be. They had no idea as to the volume of business and the time required in the duties which were connected with the appointment of the Workmens' Compensation Referee. Hundreds of cases, miles of traveling, requiring the most careful kind of labor, requiring the closest application to duty, is required by the men who have been appointed to this office. Now they are trying to make just exactly what seems to be an adequate salary; that is all. The men who have had anything to do at all with the Workmen's Compensation Referee business will tell you that the volume of business and the duties which are called for simply are registered in this bill as an adequate salary for these men.

Now, this House has had no misgivings on any general salary raising. Why do you stop at this particular time and try to stop a salary raiser of that department of the State government work which has done more and which means more to the men and women in Pennsylvania than any other measure which has been produced for your consideration? Why would you put the bill back? Why would you recommit it? What is the matter with the bill? Is it recommitted because it is not fair? It increases the salary from $2,500 to $5,000, and this is a fair proposition. Two thousand five hundred dollars is inadequate.

As I said, they give up all their time on this proposition and it requires hard work. In the rank and file of jobs which we have increased on this floor many of them have been jobs in name only, attaching with them a certain responsibility. This bill not only attaches a great responsibility but it requires hard work and long hours, day and night. There are only five men in the whole State to take up these claims. surely there can be no partisanship in this measure. Why would you want to have the bill recommitted? Gentlemen of the House, let us answer to this proposition; let us have a roll call and let us consider this bill now; let us see whether or not we believe in, whether or not we are consistent in the general salary raising and especially on a good proposition, the best you have had in all the salary raising. Why, if you vote down this bill you will never have any good grounds again, in all the sessions of the Legislature that meet, for the increasing of a salary.

I ask you to vote down this motion and go on record for this bill.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of the motion to recommit this bill is that the members of this House who are interested in this proposition might better understand it. Last week there was a proposiiton among a good many members of this House that this increase of salary was too great and we attempted at that time to have those interested in the increase consider an amendment. They failed to want to go into that proposition. To-day we are asking this House not to defeat this increase of salary but to place this bill back in the Judiciary General Committee that we might better understand it; that if there is a chance to increase these mens' pay we may—perhaps, not to what it is now proposed.

Let me say that all the talk of increasing salaries and being consistent is not the best way to handle these propositions. You must look at each of them as an individual proposition. I might possibly say that perhaps some of the members who want this increase may vote against other increases. The proposition to recommit this bill, gentlemen, is that it might have a better understanding among some of the members, that we might know just exactly who and what and how many of these men there are. It is not the purpose of the members who are back of this recommitment to kill this proposition and we don't want to go on record against it. We want to give it a chance and we are going to ask you to recommit it for that purpose.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware presents an argument in order to further look into the matter. Why, the bill has been introduced for weeks; it has been on your calendar for three successive days and longer due to the fact that we have not covered all the third reading calendar bills. If you don't understand it now you will never understand it. Is it not fair? Is it not true? Why would you put it back to the commitee? Why, you have had weeks of time on this proposition. According to that argument of the gentleman from Delaware the bills presented in this House must go along through and then be recommitted to the committee and then be on your calendar for three more successive days, and if that is the fact, then let us move that every one of them on this calendar and every other calendar be recommitted back to the committees so that we can start today to do what we ought to have done at the time when this bill was presented. Is that fair argument?

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add my testimony as a man in the witness box this morning as to some of the features of this bill. I know in one of these cases of the referees of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau in the City of Philadelphia, where one referee has had no less than two hundred and five cases to consider, and when you contemplate what one of these referees is required to do, that he has to take the work home at night and write out his opinions, it may be assumed that he is very hard at work all the time in making up his records as they are important records that sometimes must go up to an appellate court. In many cases the awards are taken out of the hands of one person and put into the hands of another, and I believe, honestly, that this position in the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, the position of referee, requires at least a five thousand dollar man. It is not a picayune proposition. I think the gentleman from Schuylkill is quite right in asking that this House pass on the merits of this question at this time.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I don't wish to be understood as being unfriendly to this bill, as a general proposition, but I think the members of this House are entirely familiar with it, and the reason why I think this bill should be recommitted is in order that we may amend it and make that salary a little bit lower. As the bill stands I will have to vote against it, but if it is amended to make it thirty-five hundred dollars or four thousand dollars, which I think is a very substantial and reasonable increase in salary for these gentlemen, then I shall support it. I would ask the gentlemen of this House to recommit this bill, not in order that we may further understand it but in order that we may have it amended so that it will not be in a position that will compel us to vote against it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Palmer and Mr. Milner, and were as follows:

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Palmer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Palmer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that there are five referees?

Mr. PALMER. If you did, it is wrong; it should be ten.

Mr. MILLIRON. Thank you.

Mr. PALMER. You are welcome.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that this is only an increase of the referees' salary, or does it include the salaries of the clerks.

Mr. PALMER. The clerks' salaries also.

Mr. MILLIRON. That makes it clear.

Mr. PALMER. That makes you for the bill?

Mr. MILLIRON. Yes, sir.

Mr. PALMER. Right you are.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The Speaker announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 112

An Act authorizing Charles S. Grubb a resident of Dauphin county Pennsylvania to bring suit or suits against and to recover from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania either in law or equity in the court of common pleas of Dauphin County any sum or sums of money legally or justly due him for personal injuries received while employed by the State Highway Department through alleged negligence on the part of the Commonwealth.

Senate Bill No. 104

An Act fixing the salaries of the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent of the Department of State Police and fixing the number and salaries of the officers and the enlisted men of the State Police force.

Senate Bill No. 87

An Act authorizing Theodore Davis and Nellie May Davis his wife residents of Washington Township County of Erie to bring suits in the Court of Comon Pleas of Erie County against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Senate Bill No. 33

An Act to amend article six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and nine) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by adding thereto sections six hundred and thirty-five to six hundred and forty both inclusive.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER in the presence of the House signed the same.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate.

Resolved (if the House of Representative concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly that during this unsettled condition resulting from the state of war with the government of Germany, the State Capitol building should be efficiently guarded and protected, and to that end it directs the Department of State Police to detail a sufficient number of State Constabulary to properly and efficiently guard and protect the Capitol building.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows, viz:

In the House of Representative, April 10, 1917.

Whereas, The Imperial German Government has committed repeated acts of war against the Government and the people of the United States of American; and

Whereas, The Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled have formally declared that a State of war between the United States and the Imperial German Government exists; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That in order to carry on war against the Imperial German Government and to bring the conflict to a successful termination all the resources of the State of Pennsylvania are hereby pledged by this Legislature.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives.

Whereas, An effort is being made throughout the United States of America to amply prepare this country against any contingency which may arise and defend it against the invasion of any foe therefore

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania That it is the sense of this body that one of the first steps toward the protection of this Commonwealth and the rendering of aid to the Federal Government will be the completion of those trans-Pennsylvania thoroughfares which are part of the transcontinental systems connecting the eastern and western coasts the construction of which would aid materially in the transportation of troops and munitions and war if the occasion for such transportation arose

RESOLUTION RECOMMENDING THE CHANGING OF THE NAMES OF INSANE ASYLUMS.

Mr. McNICHOL offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, April 11, 1917.

Whereas, Many persons committed to insane or feeble-minded institutions are being cured of their diseases and are being returned to their homes and families; and

Whereas, Many persons so discharged from such institutions are often conscious of the fact that their neighbors and friends are aware that they were inmates of such insane or feeble-minded institutions; and

Whereas, In order to remove at least in some degree this conscious feeling of such persons, and to bring this Commonwealth in line with the modern thought as well as the idea of medical science, the names of such institutions should be changed; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly that the names of all State and semi-State and private institutions for insane and feeble-minded be changed by striking from such names the words, "insane, lunatics, feeble-minded" and similar words, which will materially aid in removing the possibility of having that stigma cast upon inmates thereof; and be it further

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the trustees, or directors of all insane and feeble-minded institutions be urged to take the proper steps to have the names of their respective institutions changed to conform with the ideas conveyed and objects desired to be accomplished by this resolution by naming them by amendment of the present laws or otherwise as "Institutions or Hospitals for the Treatment of Mental Diseases," or other appropriate names.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to lie over one day, be dispensed with in order to consider the resolution at this time.

Mr. LYNCH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER, from the Committee on Judiciary Special, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 831, entitled

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, viz:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 11, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: There is pending before your honorable bodies an act to appropriate two millions of dollars ($2,000,000.) as an emergency fund to be expended upon warrant of the Governor, duly audited by the Auditor General of the Commonwealth.

The reasons for the introduction of this act are as follows: Your Executive, impressed by the serious situation now confronting this Commonwealth and Nation, called upon above two hundred leading citizens to perform the unselfish and patriotic duty of becoming a Committee of Public Safety for Pennsylvania. These gentlemen in open conference selected an Executive Committee of twelve, who with their President were given certain powers and duties of great moment to the safety of the people of Pennsylvania.

This Executive Committee, together with the other officers of the General Committee, unanimously approved the act now before you and urged its prompt passage. The form in which this act is drawn corresponds with the precedents set by the Assemblies of this Commonwealth since 1861, which precedents are as follows:

The Legislature, April 12, 1861, passed "An Act for the better organization of the militia of the Commonwealth." This act appropriated five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) and provided that its expenditure should be "under the direction and by the advice and consent of the Governor, and no bill shall be paid without being endorsed by him."

The Legislature, May 15, 1861, passed "An Act to create a loan to provide for the arming of the State." Section one authorized the Governor and State Treasurer to borrow a sum not exceeding three million dollars ($3,000,000.) and Section 11 provides that these funds shall be drawn from "the State Treasury from time to time upon the warrant of the Governor." Section 13 of the same act further provided that twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) be appropriated for the compensation of men required by the Governor to serve the State or National government. This sum likewise was payable upon the warrant of the Governor.

The Legislature, May 4, 1864, passed an act to create a loan and provided for arming the State, in Section 4, of which the Governor is authorized to draw on his warrant from the State Treasury a sum not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000.).

In the year 1902 when the National Guard was called out by the Governor to suppress industrial disturbances in the anthracite coal district, the Governor drew from time to time as his warrant book shows, large sums of money which were honored by the State Treasurer and the money used to suppress the disturbance. There was no appropriation for the purpose but the authority for the Governor's action was based upon Section 40 of the Act of April 28, 1899, which provides that compensation for the National Guard when in actual service shall be provided upon warrants drawn by the Governor upon the Treasurer of the Commonwealth. This was done and the accounts duly audited by the Auditor General.

The Act of May 5, 1911, appropriated a million dollars ($1,000,000) as an emergency fund, to be paid upon the warrant drawn by the Governor upon the State Treasurer.

The Act of June 13, 1907, provides that there shall be placed at the disposal of the Governor and to be expended under orders of the Governor, the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000), for which the Governor is authorized to draw his warrant directly upon the State Treasurer.

The Act of May 11, 1909, provides substantially the same method for the expenditure of a similar sum of money.

The Act of May 5, 1911, provides that warrants shall be drawn by the Governor upon the State Treasurer for the purpose of repelling invasion, etc., in this Commonwealth.

The Act of June 13, 1911, provides substantially the same form of appropriation upon the order of the Governor, who shall draw on his warrant upon the State Treasurer the sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) for the purposes incident to the suppression of insurrection, riot, etc., in Pennsylvania.

The Act of June 25, 1913, likewise provides by placing at the disposal of the Governor of the Commonwealth the sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500.000) a method of suppressing insurrection, repelling invasion, etc., in this Commonwealth and authorize the Governor to draw warrant directly upon the State Treasurer in the expenditure of this fund.

These precedents, continuing through the years, clearly demonstrate the fact that the Legislature has always adhered to the implied purpose of the Constitution by placing these emergency funds from time to time at the disposal of the Governor. In the Constitution, the Governor is not only given supreme executive authority but he is likewise designated and authorized to be the Commander-in-Chief of the army and the navy of the Commonwealth.

In addition to the precedents and methods above indicated, I beg to advise you that in West Virginia, where the Governor is Commander-in-Chief under the military code of that State, appropriations are made to the military authorities upon the warrant of the Governor and subject to his approval.

In the State of Iowa, an appropriation of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) has just been made for military defense purposes and payment in such cases is made upon the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Illinois, a million of dollars ($1,000,000) has been appropriated in the present emergency to be expended by the Adjutant General upon the approval of the Governor, which is the customary method in that State of making similar appropriations.

In the State of Rhode Island, an appropriation of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) has been made for the common defense in the present war, to be expended by the Governor upon proper vouchers approved by him alone.

In the State of New Hampshire, an appropriation of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) is pending in the Assembly, which sum is to be expended by the Governor, upon his warrant.

In the State of Indiana, one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) has been appropriated for the use of the Adjutant General, subject to the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Michigan, a Bill is pending authorizing the Governor and State Treasurer to borrow and bond the State for the purpose of being prepared for all calls of a military nature made by the National Government, the money to be expended upon the certification of the Governor that the amount stated is needed for the purposes specified.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has set aside one million of dollars ($1,000,000) to be expended under the direction of the Governor as Commander-in-Chief, in defraying the miltiary and other expenses in the present emergency.

The State of Maine has appropriated a million dollars ($1,000,000) for war purposes, the same to be expended under the executive direction of the Governor. In this State, as in Massachusetts, there is a council provided, whose approval the Governor receives in all matters of executive action.

In the State of Connecticut, a military and industrial census has been taken, the expense of which was provided to be paid by the Controller upon orders by the Governor.

In the State of New York, a series of legislative enactments, making appropriations, have been approved by the Governor, all of which provided that a fund of one million dollars ($1,000,000) is set aside to be expended when the Governor shall certify the necessity for its use and shall draw warrant upon the Treasurer, upon the approval of the Adjutant General and the audit of the Comptroller.

In the State of New Jersey, one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) has been set aside to be disbursed by the Quarter Master General upon the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Vermont, one million of dollars ($1,000,000) has been set aside to be expended by the Governor as Captain General and Commander-in-Chief, as provided in their Constitution.

These acts of the several states and the precedents established in our own Commonwealth anply justify the action of the Executive Committee of Public Safety for this Commonwealth in asking for the approval of the emergency fund of two million dollars ($2,000,000) to be appropriated in the manner now pending before your honorable bodies.

I beg to advise you further that it is the judgment of your Executive, acting as Commander-in-Chief, in harmony with what information he has been able to receive from the National government that it will be incumbent upon us in view of the inadequacy of current revenue to authorize the creation of a bonded indebtedness as provided by the Constitution of the Commonwealth, for the purpose of repelling invasions, suppressing insurrections and defending the State in war. The amount of this bonded indebtedness I am unable at this present moment to indicate, but when that bill is presented to your Honorable bodies for consideration, as now drawn, it will provide that the monies collected from the sale of bonds or certificates of loan, which your bodies may hereafter authorize, shall be disbursed by the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer in such manner as they may jointly determine, the money to be paid by the State Treasurer upon warrant signed by the Governor.

Under these circumstances in order that there shall be no further delay in placing Pennsylvania solidly and patriotically in line with the National Government in defense of our national honor and in protection of our people and industries, I hereby express my willingness, if in your judgment you so consider it wise, to have a similar board, made up of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer, all of whom are State-wide elective officers, to act as a disbursing body as provided in the proposed loan bill. The other serviving State wide elective officers, namely, the Auditor General, is not included in this list for the very important and necessary reason that it is incompatible with good public administration to have any official expend money and subsequently audit his own expenditures. The law places upon the Auditor General the important and necessary obligation of auditing all expenditures made under these or other acts of Assembly in which money is appropriated for any purpose whatever, and for that reason it is not deemed wise that he should be included in the Board which will expend the money but that he shall be left free to be the auditor of the expenditures of the other officials herein indicated.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the message, in the shape of a lecture to the General Assembly, be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JENKINS. Mr. President, I seriously object to the rapid disposal of this measure in the form proposed. It seems to me that the time is ripe for such word from the executive. The country in which we live has declared war upon the greatest military power on earth. We have taken steps that are not mere child's play. That country holds the forces of this country in contempt. It has utter disregard of our military ability. It is incumbent upon us that we prepare for the events that the future may bring. It is true that Pennsylvania has not declared war, but the Nation in which Pennsylvania is a good part has made that declaration. Pennsylvania, in all the wars of the country, has borne its brunt. What she is able to do and has done may be illustrated by the number of deaths in the Civil War. Of the forty-five regiments of the army of the North that lost most men, six came from New York, six from Massachusetts and eleven came from Pennsylvania. In every war of the United States of America Pennsylvania has led and pointed the way. The country at large from the Atlantic to the Pacific is looking to see what Pennsylvania will do. In 1861, our men were at the front among the first, sharing that glory with the men from Massachusetts. In 1898, in the Spanish-American war, this State was the first to fill its quota of troops asked for by the President, and to-day its fellow citizens are looking to the action in Pennsylvania. Other states are acting promptly, as we have heard. This is a question that will not admit of delay. It is a question that vitally affects the interests of the Commonwealth. Any postponement by the General Assembly upon this action to appropriate money to the use of the executive is contrary to the best interests of the Commonwealth. Any delay will defeat the wishes of our fellow-citizens. Why should there be any paralysis of the movement in defense of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Certainly the voters, the people at large, do not want any delay or any postponement of this vital question. We are here to represent them. Why this postponement? Why this delay? Why should there be a paralysis of action here at the State's intellectual center, here in her official mentality. Why should the Legislature hesitate when the people at large want action? I think we will be unjust to the Commonwealth. We will be unjust to our duty as legislative representatives unless we act promptly, unless we put the Commonwealth in line for defense. I am no new convert of this idea of the Commonwealth being prepared for martial action. Two years ago, nearly, on the tenth day of May, 1915, three days after the sinking of the Lusitania, and at the time that vessel went down, she carried men, women and children from my district, I presented in this distinguished body resolutions calling upon the President of the United States to put the army and navy and coast defense in the highest state of efficiency, and I believed we should continue in that line of action; that that was the proper thing. Since then events have so shaped themselves that the duty is more incumbent upon us than ever to prepare for that war which is thrust upon us. Let us beware of the curse that lies upon the ungirthed loin and the unlighted lamp. Let us put ourselves in an attitude for immediate and proper action. Let Pennsylvania show the way. And for these reasons I object to this proposed peremptory method of disposing of this matter.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would thoroughly agree with my colleague from Philadelphia if this Senate were a full Senate or if the members were in their seats. I would be side by side with the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jenkins, for immediate action, but inasmuch as many of the Senators have gone home and it will only be a few days till next Monday night or Tuesday when by written request we will ask the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee to call a meeting of that Committee to consider this matter in accordance with the message of the Governor. I do not agree with the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre. It was my purpose to make a motion the same as he did to refer this message to the Committee on Appropriations, so that the message as well as the bill itself could be considered at one and the same time. I do not agree, however, that this message is a lecture to this Senate. It is just an explanation of precedents, what has gone on in the past and what is going on at present. There is not a syllable in that message that is a lecture to the Senate and I do not think it fair for him to use that kind of language when it is not correct and is not true. I would like the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jenkins, if he will, to withdraw his objection and let the matter go over until next Monday night or Tuesday morning, when we will thrash this matter out, not only in the Committee on Appropriations, but on the floor of the Senate, and see whether the people of Pennsylvania as represented by the fortynine Senators—unfortunately one of them has passed away—just to see whether we want prompt action and sane and reasonable action, or whether we want to bring some more petty politics into this great war. I do not take my hat off to any man when patriotism is at stake. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jenkins, has told you that he is no new convert to the cause of patriotism. My brother for the last fifteen months on the floor of Congress has voted with the Democratic President every time a measure came along to back up the Democratic President, and I feel proud he had the courage to go there first, very largely alone from a Republican standpoint, but later on he has had lots of company. I rode horseback at the head of five thousand Republicans last week headed by four of the pictures of the President of the United States, at the head of a Republican parade, and was proud to do so, because I thought I was doing a patriotic duty to the United States and for my country; and for that reason I am going to stand here and work and vote in accordance with the way my brother has acted in Congress and the way we act in Philadelphia, in line with those patriotic demonstrations and I want to repeat, I hope the Senator from Philadelphia will withdraw his objection and let this matter go over until next Tuesday morning, when by request we will ask the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee to call a meeting of that committee.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I cannot allow to go unanswered an implied implication on my patriotism and willingness to place Pennsylvania in the forefront of the States of the Union. I was ready last Monday night a week and I am ready now to vote for the expenditure of two million dollars by Pennsylvania or two hundred million if necessary to defend this country under a proper commission, constituted properly, for the expenditure of the same. I must say that I am somewhat surprised at my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Vare, imputing this language, when this matter went over, as I understand it, more than a week ago at his own request. The committee of which you, Mr. President, have the honor to be chairman, was ready to act more than a week ago upon this proposition and I think it very ill-becoming, therefore, coming from that source, to impugn the motives of those who have been honest in their purpose to get the best results that can be obtainable from the State of Pennsylvania in the defense of this nation. I want to say to you, Mr. President and the gentlemen of the Senate, that my motives were entirely in accord with prompt action. It is to the Appropriations Committee that the bill has been referred. The bill is now lying in the Appropriations Committee and I can conceive of no better place for this message to be lodged thin in the hands of that committee, for them to give mature judgment to the contents thereof. And I want o say in conclusion that I am not willing to play second fiddle to the Senator from Germantown, Mr. Jenkins, or to the Senator whose brother has been voting with the Democrats, as he says, down in Washington for the past fifteen months, so far as my loyalty to the State and Nation are concerned, and I am willing to join with my Democratic friends on the other side in anything that is for the best interest of this country.

Never until within the last few weeks have I been in accord with a Democratic President at Washington, but today I am in absolute and entire accord with him and will go as far, if not farther, than either of the distinguished Senators from Philadelphia in defense of my State and Nation.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to explain—although I do not think it is necessary to the gentlemen sitting in their seats here—that I did not in any part of my talk refer to the Senator as not being patriotic. That is crowded in for a purpose. What I did refer to was that there is not a syllable, a word or a line in that message that would justify him or any Senator in saying that the Governor had given any of us a lecture. That is number one. The other thing is I did not complain about it going to the Appropriations Committee because, as a matter of fact, it had been agreed by several of the gentlemen sitting around here that that was the proper place for it to go. In fact, I was going to offer a motion, as I said before, so there is no excuse for the complaint of the Senator from Chester on that. The third thing is, I did not question any condition in reference to the Senator from Chester that he has been talking so much about, excepting one line, and that is where he said the Senate got a lecture, so all the rest of his talk is for a purpose and has no connection whatever with what I said when I was on my feet before.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I do not feel that there is one Senator in this body that has any better claim to patriotism than another. This bill was introduced in the Senate last Monday night a week ago. There are only two ways in which money can be expended by the Commonwealth, and that is by a joint resolution or by a bill. The regular procedure is that the bill must be referred to a committee, reported out, and read at length on three separate days, considered and agreed to, and whatever difference of opinion there may be as to what was to be the makeup of the commission that shall spend the money or supervise the expenditure of the money under the bill which has been introduced, the proper place for its consideration, and the only place that I see that the message sent in by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, would be at this time referred, is to the Committee on Appropriations. The bill is under consideration in the Appropriations Committee and as I understand that committee adjourned about a week ago with the understanding that when certain information was obtained that committee would be called for further consideration of the bill which was then before it, and it seems to me, without any statement, on the one side or the other, any claim of patriotism on the one side or the other, that this is a question for the Senate of Pennsylvania which is made up of men who stand for their country and for their flag, and do not have to be reminded of their patriotism. But the only place to which the message can be referred is to the Committee on Appropriations, in order that the members of that committee can consider it when they come to take up the consideration of the bill, as to what form it shall be returned to this body.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I did not intend to say anything at this time but we might as well look this question squarely in the face. I take a different view from some of the other Senators and I do question the patriotic feeling and the loyalty of any man who at this time has the hardihood to say that the Commander-in-Chief of the army of Pennsylvania is trying to lecture any man, and if he is trying to lecture and he has a cause to lecture it is his bounden duty so to do. He is our Chief, he is our Commander in this the hour of the Commonwealth's need and any man who questions his right, be he Senator or be he laborer, has not the right nor the privilege to stand beneath the Stars and Stripes and say "My patriotism cannot be questioned." I say, is he a fit person to use the word "patriotism" in an hour such as this? And we might as well at this time understand where we are and what is going on. A lot of measley, un-American men at this moment are trying to place this great Governor in a position that he may be looked upon by Governors of other States as not being a man big enough, honorable enough and of calibre enough to fight our battles. Measley, lowly, degrading and disgusting political methods cannot be brought into this bill. We must face our eight million people and face them now with the knowledge that we must answer to them for whatever we might do, and our delay is not for the purpose of seeing what best might be done. When you compare the two, one with the other, politics and patriotism, degrading and lowly politics with patriotism, we owe to ourselves and this citizenship a duty, and that duty is to perform that which the President of the United States has requested of every citizen, to do his fullest and his best toward readjusting and reconstructing the conditions that now exist, and I say to you men here, one and all, let us get together. let us forget that there are any political differences in Pennsylvania; let us remember that our Governor is the Commander-in-Chief of the army of this Commonwealth and that he is the right man at this time to take charge of the money requested and that at an early date by this bill that money will be appropriated. I know when the time comes that there isn't a man on this floor who will have the hardihood to do other than he requests in this manly message, and I know it will be done and I hope the members of this Senate will make up their minds at this moment that the only thing for us to do and to do now is to have the Committee on Appropriations report the bill at its earliest possible convenience.

Mr. JENKINS. Mr. President and members of the Senate, in view of what has been brought out by the discussion, I am not averse to having this message referred to the Appropriations Committee. I do still continue to take exception, however, to the language of the gentleman from Chester in styling this highly necessary message as a lecture, otherwise I am entirely satisfied with the proposed disposition of it. The gentleman from Chester has very manfully and very properly said he was averse to playing second fiddle to any member of the Legislature in the matter of patriotism. I did not for one minute assail his patriotism. I am sure the legislative orchestra, like a real orchestra, will play all sorts of instruments and that those will play in unison and produce music to which we will keep step with the music of the Union, but unfortunately our fellow-countrymen must be reminded that we are not about to play upon the instruments referred to by the Senator from Chester. Alas, we are not to play fiddles and pipes as in time of peace. The music we are to approach and approach with preparation is the drum beat, and it is the drum beat of warfare that we are to meet and to meet promptly and without delay, courageously and without fear, but we cannot win battles by resolutions, by speeches and by rhetoric. We have to prepare to fight.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would just like to take this opportunity to correct Senator Eyre's statement about me asking that this be postponed. Senator Crow asked that the bill be postponed, you will remember, as you are chairman of the committee, and I acquiesced in it to give the Governor an opportunity to ascertain what would be expected of this State by the United States.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I am not going to question the patriotism of any member of this Senate because I believe they are all as patriotic citizens of the state and nation as I am, and therefore I think the remarks on that subject have been uncalled for from both sides, but in the communication received from His Excellency, the Governor, in the past week there have been a large measure of differences adjusted. If the question as referred to by the Governor in his communication, citing the fifteen or twenty odd states of the Union that are doing things in regard to the present crisis—Pennsylvania has been doing just such things for the last, practically, fifteen or twenty years. There is no emergency, so far as the finances are concerned in paying for bills that are necessary at the present time, because there is a balance in the State Treasury of $375,000; there is in the general appropriation bill $500,000 to meet just such emergencies as are arising now, but the matter in regard to the appropriations that are to be called upon by His Excellency, the Governor, and other officers of the state asking that this legislature shall appropriate, has been a matter of difference as to just what channel that appropriation shall go through. It was first asked that two million dollars be appropriated directly to the Governor and there have been conferences and talks upon that matter with the idea upon the part of both sides to adjust the differences to a satisfactory conclusion, and the result of those talks has been that there has been, upon the part of the Governor, a loosening up of his position originally, which now comprises instead of the Governor, the State Treasurer, the Lieutenant Governor and himself, but the members of this Senate and the House have duties to perform here for which they are responsible to the whole people of the State of Pennsylvania. If it was a matter of two million dollars I do not think there would be a question of doubt upon the part of this Senate that this money would have been appropriated ten days ago, but we are to be called upon in the very near future not only for a loan of seven million dollars, but those of us who are reading the papers to-day throughout the country know that the United States Government is to embark now upon a loaning proposition of upward of seven billion dollars. The method of that accounting, so far as the different states in the Union are concerned, or Pennsylvania, will in the future be called upon to pay her pro rata share of her fifteen per cent., which will involve, in the matter of dollars and cents, so far as this state is concerned, of upwards of three hundred and fifty million dollars. It behooves every member of this Senate to sit down and carefully take away with him the thought as to whether there shall be a regularly constituted channel through which this money shall pass, and in which the members of both the House and Senate have confidence in the integrity and ability, not of one individual, because he does not possess all of the absolute sincerity of purpose and holiness that is in this Commonwealth, but a board, existing as it does in every state of this Union, in which there shall be upon appropriation by this legislative body, a regularly constituted body to see that that money is spent upon the recommendation of the Governor or any other public spirited citizen who has an idea that is worth considering, that this chamber cannot be charged with delaying the handing to the Governor or any other official the proper instrument or financial weapon to carry out successfully whatever part Pennsylvania might play in this great conflict; and I think if we take home with us a modified idea of the financial obligations that we have got to assume here in possibly the next three or four months, that the members of this Senate will come back here next week and act jointly and be satisfied that the Governor has the money and that the legislative body has legislated in the interest of the whole people by having the proper channel through which that money will pass, subject, as I have said before, to any orders that the Governor might think in his own judgment would be the proper channel through which they would pass. Therefore I think that the question of this financial proposition should be given serious consideration, absolutely divorced from any political feeling.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I will not consume further time of the Senate excepting to say, in reply to the distinguished Senator from the First District, that if I am not mistaken he seconded the motion for the postponement of further consideration of the resolution a week ago last Monday night, after conference with Senator Crow. So far as the criticism from the distinguished Senator, the representative of the Fifth Ward of the City of Philadelphia, is concerned, I am not going to reply to that. I will allow the Senate and the people at large to judge of our respective patriotism, but I do want to say that I have not been impelled by any factional political organization in the State of Pennsylvania or elsewhere in the governing of my action or vote in this Senate. I came to this Senate as a representative of the Nineteenth Senatorial District. I represent nobody but the people in that district, to whom I am answerable. I did not come here as a Vare or a Brumbaugh adherent, nor did I come here as a Penrose or a McNichol adherent, I came here to do that which I honestly believed that the majority of the people of the Nineteenth Senatorial District would have me do and to them I am answerable and am willing to answer for any acts of mine in this body.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read bills in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. VARE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 844, entitled

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday evening, April 16, 1917, at nine o'clock P. M.

Mr. SASSAMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 1.33 o'clock P. M. until Monday evening, April 16, 1917, at nine o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, April 11, 1917.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

O God, our help in ages past, our hope for years to come, we thank Thee that we are alive at the opening of this session, and we pray that each of the Representatives of this House may dedicate to Thee, not only to-day but every day, the very best and noblest and truest within himself. Bless, we pray Thee, the Representatives who are at their homes under illness; may their illness be brief, and may they be speedily restored to return to their seats. Bless him who sits by the side of his loved ones, where seemingly the shadows are thickening, and comfort him in his anxious waiting.

We stand appalled as a State in the face of the great calamity that has befallen our sister county and our sister city and community. O God, Father of tenderness and love, Christ who wept at the grave of Lazarus, Holy Spirit, the world's comforter, come into the darkened homes from which so many beautiful young lives have gone, and bring cheer and comfort to the stricken ones. Bless the homes where the loved ones are lingering upon beds of pain; bless the means that are applied for the restoration, and may they be brought to a state of health. Help us, O Lord, to realize the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, as ask in Jesus name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk then proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Scott, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 6, by striking out "violation" and inserting in lien thereof "violations."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation for the purposes of a hearing.

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say a word on that motion. This bill was introduced by me and is known as the drugless therapeutic bill. It was up before the House in 1915, and this session, before it was introduced, I had a talk with nearly every physician in the House, and the Public Health and Sanitation Committee had a hearing and the State Medical Licensure Board and people from all over the State attended the hearing. It was agreed that the bill should come out and come up to third reading when it would be made a special order. The members of this House who are physicians and who are violently opposed to this bill have agreed that it should be given a fair and square hearing on the floor of the House, and the motion to recommit this bill for the purpose of giving it a hearing is a surreptitious desire to do something that is not square, and I ask the House to vote down the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1253, as follows:

A Joint Resolution petitioning the government of the United States and the Secretary of War to rescind or modify the order of the Department of War requiring the raising of certain bridges over the Allegheny River

Whereas The Department of War of the United States Government has taken action requiring the City of Pittsburgh to elevate certain bridges over the Allegheny River about four feet and

Whereas Within the last two years the City of Pittsburgh has at a large expense to the city and abutting property owners graded and raised from one to three and one-half feet the grades of fifth seventh eighth ninth Federal Duquesne Way Penn Avenue and other streets to conform with the present grade of these bridges and

Whereas The enforcement of the order of the Department of War would entail a cost and loss to the City of Pittsburgh and to its merchants of a sum of not less than fifty million dollars and

Whereas Said bridges do not at present interfere with the traffic on said river and boats can be built small enough and of sufficient power to handle all traffic on said river and which can safely pass beneath said bridges therefore

Section 1 Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does hereby petition the Government of the United States and the Secretary of War to take such action as may be just in the premises tending to rescind this order of the Secretary of War or to modify the same in such manner as to prevent the saddling of this enormous cost on the City of Pittsburgh and its citizens

Section 2 The Secretary of the Commonwealth is hereby instructed to forward copies of this resolution to the President of the United States to the Senate of the United States to the House of Representatives of the United States and to the Secretary of War

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1253, File Folio 1939, be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. JACK. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, the sponsor of this bill is not present in the House, having been called home on account of illness, and I believe that in courtesy to the gentleman from Allegheny the gentleman from Armstrong should withdraw the motion to strike the bill from the calendar until such time as the sponsor of the bill is here to defend it. I hope the gentleman will do that.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I have been reliably informed that the gentleman from Allegheny, the sponsor of this bill, is not likely to be here again this session. Now, if that is the fact, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McCaig, wishes to assume the sponsorship of this bill and call it up, I do not believe that I am showing any discourtesy. If the bill had not been called up at all, it would have been an entirely different question. I want to say in support of my motion that we have been fighting along the Allegheny river for years in order to have the government improve it. The Secretary of War, Mr. Baker, has ordered the bridges raised on the Allegheny river in order to loosen the appropriation which has been made for the improvement of the Allegheny river. We have voted here within the last few days on a resolution asking the State Highway Department to improve the trunk lines and main roads of this State so that we can have easy transportation for the soldiers and supplies in case of war. The Secretary of War has seen fit for the same purpose to ask that the bridges on the Allegheny river, all those bridges which are too low to allow transportation, to be raised for the same purpose. It is a question of whether we are going to be consistent or not, or hamper the War Department in improving possibly the only outlet they will have for the transportation of supplies and men into Pittsburgh from the headquarters of the Allegheny river, providing anything should happen which will require that. I do not want to show any discourtesy to any member of this House, and if the gentleman from Allegheny who has called up this bill is not going to assume the sponsorship of the bill, then I will be glad to withdraw my motion.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not correctly informed when he makes the statement that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sullivan, will not be here during the balance of the session. He was called home last night and will be here on Monday night.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, taking the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny to be as truthful as I know all his statements to have been in the past, I will withdraw my motion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1241, entitled

An Act requiring the courts of quarter sessions to file their reasons for revoking or refusing to renew existing liquor licenses requiring compensation to be paid the holder of the license or owner of the premises upon the revocation or refusal thereof in certain cases by the county and vesting in the court of common pleas jurisdiction in such cases

The first, second, third and fourth sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the courts of quarter sessions of this Commonwealth shall upon the revocation or refusal to renew any liquor licenses previously granted by such court file of record with the order revoking or refusing such license the reasons for such action If the reasons of the court show that the license was revoked or refused for any cause other than a violation of any law of this Commonwealth relating to the sale of liquor or if the license revoked or refused was of a place conducted or under the control or charge of a tenant or lessee and the owner or lessor of the premises was not a party to such violation nor had any knowledge or reasonable cause to have knowledge thereof the holder of such license or the owner of the premises as the case may be shall be compensated and reimbursed by the county upon the basis and in the manner hereinafter prescribed

Section 2 The holder of the revoked or refused license or the owner of the premises shall within sixty days after the revocation or refusal file with the prothonotary of the court of common pleas of the county an application for compensation under the provisions of this act Such application shall be accompanied by an inventory under oath of the fixtures and personal property which in the cases of breweries distilleries and wholesale establishments shall include all machinery apparatus and appliances used in connection with the business for which said license shall have been granted and which were in the possession of the licensee or lessee on the date of the revocation or refusal of such license Whether the applicant for compensation under this act is the holder of the license or the owner of the premises regard shall be had in all cases to his legal interest in the premises or trade fixtures and other personal property used in connection with the business so licensed also for the unexpired portion of the license and the effect such revocation or refusal will have on the value of real estate The amount of compensation to be paid by the county shall be determined after a hearing upon said application by the court of common pleas wtihin six (6) months from the date of filing said application The said court of common pleas shall appoint three (3) disinterested persons to appraise the real estate good will and personal property used in connection with the business for which said license shall have been granted who shall verify the inventory filed by the applicant and appraise the property scheduled therein and who shall within fifteen (15) days from the date of their appointment file a sworn appraisement of the real estate good will and personal property with the prothonotary Hearings upon said application shall be had as in other cases in accordance with the rules of court as may be adopted to carry out the provisions of this act

Any applicant for compensation hereunder who may feel aggrieved at the compensation awarded him may appeal therefrom to the Superior or Supreme Court Such appeal shall be taken and prosecuted in the same manner and form and with the same effect as is provided in other cases of appeal to the Superior or Supreme Courts respectively

Section 3 Exclusive jurisdiction is hereby vested in the courts of common pleas in the several counties of this Commonwealth to determine the amount of compensation upon the basis herein designated and which the county shall pay the holder of any liquor license or owner of the premises as aforesaid under and subject to such rules of court as may be adopted to carry out the provisions hereof

Section 4 The holder of the license shall be entitled to receive from the county a sum equal to the invoice prices of merchandise in stock and in his possession on the date of the termination of the license and in case the licensee shall be the owner of the premises or if not then the owner thereof shall be entitled to receive a sum representing the difference in value of the real estate occupied by said licensee or lessee and used in connection with the business for which said license shall have been granted together with the good will and trade fixtures which in the cases of breweries distilleries and wholesale establishments shall include all machinery apparatus and appliances and other personal property appertaining to and located upon the licensed premises or used in connection with the business for which said license shall have been granted immediately before the termination of the license and the value of said real estate trade fixtures and other personal property immediately after the termination of said license

The title was read as follows:

An Act requiring the courts of quarter sessions to file their reasons for revoking or refusing to renew existing liquor licenses requiring compensation to be paid the holder of the license or owner of the premises upon the revocation or refusal thereof in certain cases by the county and vesting in the court of common pleas jurisdiction in such cases

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. URICH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 774, entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for the oppointment of a Committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives to investigate the operation of the certain laws in cities of the first class

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That a committee consisting of three members of the House of Representatives one of whom shall be a member of the minority party to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and three members of the Senate one of whom shall be of the minority party to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate be and the same is hereby constituted and which is authorized and empowered to investigate the operation of laws relating to the civil service in cities of the first class and of laws relating to political activity by and the soliciting of political contributions from or by officers and employes of cities of the first class The said committee shall have power to select its own chairman and appoint legal counsel and such officers and employes as may be needed to enable it properly to perform its duties as aforesaid The said committee shall also have power to issue subpoenas signed by its chairman to administer oaths and affirmations and to require the attendance of persons and the production of such books and papers as in its judgment will assist it in its aforesaid investigation
The said committee shall report to the Senate not later than May fifteen one thousand nine hundred and seventeen its findings together with its recommendations as to the advisability of amending the existing laws in order to secure a better and more efficient civil service and the advisability of adopting legislation extending civil service regulations to officers and employes of the State and of cities and counties of the State not now within the scope of existing laws

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?
Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.
The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.
The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 1, line 8, by inserting "a member" after "shall be."
Amend section 1, page 1, line 10, by striking out "which" and inserting in lieu thereof "said committee."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the section as amended?
It was agreed to.
The title was read as follows:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives to investigate the operation of the certain laws in cities of the first class.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the title?
Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.
The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.
The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title page 1, line 3, by striking out "the" before "certain."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the title as amended?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?
Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I do hope that the gentlemen of the House will give these bills an opportunity to be properly heard in a reasonable discussion on the floor of this House. I take this opportunity of making the statement to this House of something that occurred last Monday evening, highly disgusting and unbecoming to the dignity and honor of a body of this character. A similar bill to the one now before you was on the calendar for second reading. Within ten minutes before that bill was called up I was asked by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, to agree that a special order for the bill to be heard and discussed be made for next Monday night at 9.30. I cheerfully acquiesced in the request, and made a memorandum on the calendar to that effect. When the bill was called up it was met with the same reception that this bill is meeting with now. I do not care what you do with this bill, but I do think it is only fair to the people of Philadelphia who are behind the measure, that the sponsor of the bill should have a fair opportunity on third reading of arguing the proposition. If you do not agree with it, you can vote against it. It is unbecoming and not in keeping with dignity to take this snap judgment and try to pull something over by brute force or mob spirit. That does not appeal to reason and is, I say, unbecoming to a legislative body. I hope you will vote to pass this bill on second reading.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I regret that Mr. Beyer has been led to the length in his statement of criticising me, to accuse me of unfair methods. Now I submit the record to the older members of this House that I have during the four terms that I have been a member, and I defy any man on the floor of this House to say that I ever misled him or entered into an agreement with him, so far as I was personally concerned, that I did not keep; and when the gentleman from Philadelphia said that this bill was being met with brute force and mob force, he is trying to appeal to your prejudice and not your reason. Legislative procedure provides that it is within the province of this body to either accept a bill on second reading, or dispense with it by failure to agree to it. The men from Philadelphia County recognize that this is nothing more less than an attempt on the part of men posing in the guise of reformers, who do not want this legislation any more than we do, to try to place themselves in a position where, under false colors, they can go back and say, "We wanted this legislation, but the other end of the factional side of Philadelphia did not want it." This bill is not introduced in good faith, and whether I be subjected to criticism or not, as will be represented by Mr. Beyer, as standing in the way of good legislation, I have the courage to stand here to-day and face it. You men from the different parts of the State are asked to vote for legislation for Philadelphia County that you would not stand for in your own county for a moment; and if we want to dispose of this bill on second reading, we are doing nothing more or less than exercising our legislative prerogative, not brute force or mob force, but acting in a way that we are allowed to do by the legal procedure of this body. My intention of rising was to resent the unfair statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, and I hope that the action on the floor of this body will be that of not agreeing to the bill on second reading. Now, gentlemen, my friend is going to appeal to you again. He is going to rise, surrounded by all his dignity, and all his evidence of fair play. Why, gentlemen, you know and I know. Use your own judgment, and if it comes to a question regarding a promise made, take it from a man who is on the level and not a man masquerading in the disguise.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I want the gentleman to state to the House whether it is not a fact that he came to me within ten minutes before the vote was taken on the bill and asked me to make it a special order.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I went to the gentleman and asked his intentions as to the bill. I prefaced my remarks to him by saying, "Are you on the level in this legislation?" He said, "I am not particularly interested. I do not care what is done with it." I said, "What are you going to do?" He said, "I am going to make it a special order on third reading for Monday night." I said, "So far as I am personally concerned, that is all right." I came back here and told my friends, and they said, "We won't stand for it." He said to me that he was not honestly interested in this legislation, at least gave me that impression.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, allow himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he did not yell the loudest against the bill after he left my desk.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I voted against it, yes, sir.

Mr. BEYER. Notwithstanding your promise to me.

Mr. McNICHOL. No, sir; I resent your statement that I made you a promise.

Mr. BEYER. Isn't it a fact that I have here your agreement relative to the putting of two similar bills on the calendar?

Mr. McNICHOL. No, sir.

Mr. BEYER. Were you not a party to the agreement between Mr. Cox and myself?

Mr. McNICHOL. No, sir; I was not, and Mr. Cox does not say that I was.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I think that I have a right to reply when my motives are called into question. These bills are bills which have been prepared by what is known as the Charter Revision Committee in Philadelphia. They are a class of people that perhaps my good friend from Philadelphia does not hold in the highest esteem because they advocate certain reforms in politics that do not meet with his approval. You and I may differ in regard to how far we should regulate the elections of public officials, but there is one thing I do hope, and that is that we will always agree to be honest with each other. The gentleman has admitted that he was at my desk and made the proposition, or at least agreed to it, that it should be made a special order on Monday night, and, to say the least, it is manifestly unfair, without a word to the sponsor of the bill, to bring this sort of a thing before the House.

I would not be guilty of it; and I do not think there is a man here in this House that thinks I would. I have tried to deal as fairly with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, as I have with every other member of this House. I have never allowed personalities to enter into this proposition of legisaltion on the floor of this chamber. Every bill that comes here is featured by some organization or other. They are entitled to have respectful attention, and that is all I ask. It may be that with some bills that I have here I may have some differences myself, but they are entitled to a sponsor from their own city to present the bills and bring them before you, no matter what your own opinion is, and it is only in the interest of fair play that I ask you to pass this bill on second reading in order that we may make a special order for its consideration on third reading at some future time.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this is another bill that refers to factional politics in Philadelphia. Almost half of the time that has been spent here during this session has been taken up in venting the factional politics of Philadelphia, and so long as you members from the country join in with the differences that exist in Philadelphia, where they ought to fight out their different factional matters, so long as you join in with them, the session of this Assembly will be kept on hearing the effects of factional politics in Philadelphia. Why not to-day put your seal of disapproval on bills like this and similar bills that will come out? If you don't to-day put your seal of disapproval and pass the legislation like this that is only brought out for the purpose of venting the factional feeling between the two parties in the City of Philadelphia, if you do that, then this House can get down to business again and transact the work for which we are here, if we can, and continue that; but if we cannot, let us fix a date for final adjournment and get down to work and stop this business of washing the dirty linen of Philadelphia politics.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Beyer and Mr. Jefferson W. Smith, and were as follows:

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 919.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 919, File Folio 1713, entitled

An Act relating to and regulating the operation of motor vehicles and vehicles propelled by or trailing after motor vehicles on the public highways and the storing of the same requiring the registration of the same and the licensing of all operators other than registered owners thereof providing fees methods and qualifications for all registrations or licenses and the disposition of such fees prohibiting tampering with motor vehicles by unauthorized persons prohibiting the enactment of any law or ordinance by any city borough incorporated town township or county requiring any taxes, registration or license other than herein provided or the regulation of motor vehicles providing procedure and penalties for any violations thereof and the disposition of the fines collected for said violations and regulating the service of process and proceedings in actions for damages arising from the use of any motor vehicle.

on first page of to-day's calendar, Bills on Second Reading, passed second reading.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, there was an amendment read and put in there that was not my amendment to that bill, and I desire to move to strike out in section 15, page 16, line 27, after the word "device" the words "also with a signal device whereby at night when a motor-vehicle is approaching and is within one hundred feet of a street or road intersection, the intention to turn to right or left shall be indicated by changing color of the lights on the motor vehicle to such colors as the State Highway Commissioner shall prescribe."

On the question recurring,

Will the House reconsider the vote by which this bill passed on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to strike out the amendment just read by the Clerk.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, this amendment offered to this section was sent to the desk at the same time that Mr. Mearkle's amendments went to the desk. Mr. Mearkle had a copy of the amendment handed to him some days ago and is familiar and was then with the wording of the amendment. It was given to him at his suggestion so that he could take it back home and take the matter up with the originators of the bill. This amendment simply provides for the protection of the automobile traffic in the streets of the cities and towns and on the highways of the State. The objection to it, as Mr. Mearkle will tell you, is the fact that the automobile club or federation of this State feel that it is a patent device, and he will also tell you that it may cause some automobile owners in general a liability to damage. I want to explain the amendment: It simply provides that light shall be attached to a car as a signal light in order that where a number of machines are following one another along the road at night there is danger of accident. Statistics prove that seventy-five per cent. of the accidents occurring among machines happen at night. This little attachment could be arranged or placed on any machine at the expense of not much over a dollar. You can put on this little light which is a simple device and control it electrically or by your steering wheel and you can have the attachment put on yourself as there is no patent about it. Any person can use this device. I believe it will be the cause of reducing accidents and death which is now growing every day, to a considerable amount. The thing provides that at night you must signal to the man in the rear when you are about to turn off the road or off the street. You men have no doubt traveled along the road coming home some evenings from a gathering where there were from fifteen to twenty machines trailing along going at twenty-five miles an hour, and suddenly someone in the middle turns down the road or street without giving any signal and there is likely to be an accident. In the day time the custom is to extend the right arm as a signal to the car in the rear which tells the man who follows him that he is going to turn and enables him to check his speed. This little light would be a signal at night to the man in the rear who would slow up and if you have not this light very often in traveling through this State or on such occasions when a number of automobiles follow each other traveling at night, the result is a jamming of machines together because the man in front could not give this signal and there is likely to be a smashup all along this line. As to the damage end of it, there is never a collision between two machines or a smashup but that there is a lawsuit. I hope the amendment will go through. I think you men will stand for it. There is no objection to it only by the federation. It is safe to say that in making up this bill as rapidly as they have they have prepared it in their own interest rather than for the interest of the public.

THE SPEAKER (MR. R. J. BALDWIN) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is very certain that he never recognized anybody in connection with amendments to this bill but the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle. If there were any other amendments inserted it was an oversight on the part of the clerk and an oversight on the part of the Chair at the time, and certainly I think, under the circumstances, Mr. Geary ought not to object to having the record corrected. If there is any doubt about the matter the proper course to take would be to wait until we get the official data from the stenographers. I think they will fully verify the statement of the Chair. The Chair never knew of an amendment offered by Mr. Geary, and if it was offered it was an entire oversight by the Clerk. This is not intended as a reflection on Mr. Geary. I know that the House wants to do what is right in the matter, and I think, under the circumstances, that if both the gentlemen will decide for the present to defer the matter until the record appears it will be found that the Chair is correct.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I may add that at the time when I sent up the amendments the Clerk had all the amendments and they were read in order, and while they were going through regularly in their order I did not want to step up and make any noise or any excitement and request that they should be put in specially.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman must recognize that he is in error in sending amendments to the desk without being recognized by the Chair.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, that is true.

The SPEAKER. Would the gentleman from Allegheny be satisfied to withdraw his motion? The Chair will rule, with the consent of the House, that the amendments offered by Mr. Geary in which the Chair decided that they were adopted, the Chair withdraws his decision in regard to these amendments. Therefore, the question is, Will the House agree to take up the amendments offered by Mr. Geary in their order?

The Clerk will read the first section to which the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geary, desires to offer amendments.

The fifth section was read as follows:

Section 5 The fee for the registration of a motor cycle shall be three dollars The fee for the registration of other motor vehicles equipped with pneumatic tires except as is provided for in the dealers class when registration is issued prior to July of any year shall be five dollars for each motor vehicle of less than twenty horse power Ten dollars for each motor vehicle of twenty and less than thirty-five horse power fifteen dollars for each motor vehicle of thirty-five and less than fifty horse power twenty dollars for each motor vehicle of fifty horse power or more The fee for the registration of motor vehicles equipped with solid tires shall be five dollars for each motor vehicle of less than four thousand pounds gross maximum weight of load and vehicle ten dollars for each motor vehicle of four thousand pounds and less than five thousand pounds gross maximum weight of load and vehicle fifteen dollars for each motor vehicle of five thousand and less than ten thousand pounds gross maximum weight of load and vehicle twenty dollars for each motor vehicle of ten thousand and less than fifteen thousand pounds gross maximum weight of load and vehicle twenty-five dollars for each motor vehicle of fifteen thousand and not more than twenty-four thousand pounds gross maximum weight of load and vehicle The fees for registration of vehicles trailing after or propelled by motor vehicles shall be one dollar for each such vehicle of less than two thousand pounds gross maximum weight of vehicle and load combined three dollars for each such vehicle of more than two thousand (2,000) and less than ten thousand (10,000) pounds gross maximum weight of vehicle and load combined and five dollars for each such vehicle of more than ten thousand (10,000) pounds and less than twenty-four thousand pounds gross maximum weight of vehicle and load combined

The fee shall be ten dollars for each certificate and pair of number tags issued to persons registered in the dealers class except for dealers in motor cycles for whom the fee shall be five dollars

The fees for registration when issued on or after July first shall be one-half those required above

No fee shall be charged for the registration of motor ambulances motor fire apparatus motor patrol wagons and motor cycles used by police officers owned and used by any city county incorporated town borough township duly authorized volunteer fire department hospital humane society or anti-cruelty society nor for any motor vehicle owned by the State of Pennsylvania or the United States but all such vehicles shall be registered and shall display number tags as provided for in case of privately owned vehicles All registrations shall expire December thirty-first of the year issued

The term pneumatic tires as used in this section shall be construed to mean any tire containing air at greater pressure than the surrounding atmosphere and all other tires shall be considered as solid tires

On the question.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 5, page 7, line 19, by adding after the word "motor" the "vehicles motor."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, this amendment to section five, page seven, line nineteen, adding the word "motor," this particular amendment means this: that all public officials of the county and city are exempted from paying a State license for their automobiles. Now, we went into this matter with a great many of our friends, and I would say for the information of the members of this House, that I have given this matter considerable attention, not only been working on it a few days, a few weeks, a few months, but a few years, and I take this opportunity to challenge the gentleman from Allegheny County when he states that this bill was prepared and suggested largely in the interest of the motor vehicle drivers. That is positively not true. This bill was drawn distinctively in the interest of the public, and of the people. Now, in going over this we had up the proposition of exempting county and city officials from paying a State license. It was agreed to leave the act just as it is to-day. Under the Motor Vehicle Act of 1913, the fire department, public ambulances, and all public vehicles used for public purposes were exempt from paying a State license, but we could not see why the mayor of a city, or the councils of the city, or the county commisisoners of the county, to whom we pay large salaries and furnish them with automobiles, should not pay a motor vehicle license. That is the reason that we object to this particular section. Now as the next section has not been read, I will wait for it.

Mr. GEARY. The purpose of this amendment is not as my colleague states. The purpose is simply to exempt machines that are now used by the city officials and county officials in a public manner. Take in the county, the road department, the road superintendent, the inspectors, are compelled to use and do use a great many machines in the City of Pittsburgh. The police use motorcycles and patrols and many other motor vehicles. Now, then, in traveling over their own streets, their own roads, it is just a matter of taxation which amounts to thousands and thousands of dollars that could be saved to the public in the county and in the city, and that is the purpose of this amendment. It is worded in that manner, as the bill also states that ambulances of hospitals and other vehicles along that line shall be exempt, this simply takes in motor vehicles used officially by the city and county officials. I might say that in the City of Pittsburgh every machine with the exception of that used by the mayor is lettered in great big, large letters, "Owned by the City of Pittsburgh," to do away with any joy riding or any private riding by the owners of those machines. I hope this amendment will pass.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be re-referred to the Committee on Public Roads.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I move that the motion to recommit be laid on the table.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared that the ayes appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, and ninety gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and sixty-seven in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative,

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the next section to which the gentlemen from Allegheny desires to offer amendments.

The fifteenth section was read as follows:

Section 15 Every motor vehicle shall be provided when in use with good and sufficient brakes and with a horn bell or other signal device and where such vehicle is so constructed or so covered as to prevent the driver or operator thereof from having a sufficient view of the traffic following it shall be equipped with some device that will show the operator the road to the rear

Every motor vehicle whether standing or in motion upon any public highway shall from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise and whenever it is impossible to see clearly for a distance of two hundred (200) feet show at least two white or blue or amber colored lights on the front of such vehicle provided however that motor cycles to which no side car is atached need display only one such light

Every motor vehicle including motor cycles shall also display one red light visible from the rear but if a trailer or trailers is atached to such motor vehicle a red light shall be displayed on such trailer or on the last trailer if there be more than one and the registration tag on the rear of every motor vehicle and trailer or last trailer if more than one shall be clearly illuminated from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise

Whenever there is no sufficient light within the limits of the highway to clearly reveal persons vehicles or substantial objects within the limit of one hundred and fifty (150) feet the front lights on every motor vehicle shall when the vehicle is in motion clearly illuminate the road for a distance of at least one hundred and fifty (150) feet in front of such motor vehicle and for five (5) feet to the side of such vehicle at a point ten (10) feet ahead of the lamps

On no motor vehicle shall there be displayed more than two lights equipped with reflectors in which electric bulbs of more than four (4) candle power are used and such lights shall be so arranged designed or deflected that no portion of the beam of reflected light when measured seventy-five (75) feet or more ahead of the lamps shall rise more than forty-two (42) inches above the level surface on which the vehicle stands

The focused rays of light from any movable search light or spot light used on any motor vehicle shall not extend to the left of the center of the highway and shall not illuminate the roadway for a greater distance than fifty (50) feet ahead of the vehicle to which it is attached

The term "beam of reflected light" as used in this section shall be construed to mean the approximately parallel focalized rays gathered and projected by a reflector lens or other device

Every operator of a motor vehicle shall sound his horn bell or signal device giving reasonable warning of his approach whenever necessary to insure the safety of other users of the highways and also when approaching any street or road crossing or dangerous curve where the proper authorities shall have erected signs easily readable from the highway and at right angles thereto bearing thereon in letters at least five (5) inches in height the words "Danger Blow Horn" provided that such signs may not be erected at street or road crossings where a full view to the right and the left is unobstructed

The unnecessary sounding of horns bells or other signal devices and the use of muffler cutouts upon any public highway is prohibited and no motor vehicle of any description shall be operated or driven on the public highway unless the engine be muffled so that the explosions of the engine shall not constitute a nuisance to the public

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 15, page 16, line 27, by adding after the word "device" the words "also with a signal device whereby at night when a motor vehicle is approaching and is within one hundred feet of a street or road intersection, the intention to turn to the right or left shall be indicated by changing color of the lights on the motor vehicle to such colors as the State Highway Commissioner shall prescribe."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I regret very much that I am obliged to oppose the amendment of my friend from Allegheny County to this bill, but we have made a careful study of this proposition. In drafting this piece of legislation, we were approached by various men, from various manufacturing concerns, various light manufacturing concerns, requesting us to put in some device to suit their particular appliances. I do not mean to state that that is the exact purpose of this amendment, but it can be used for that purpose.

We also avoided or tried to avoid making this piece of legislation top-heavy, that is, by incorporating into the bill so many various suggestions and amendments that were offered to us by our friends that it would make the bill altogether inoperative and so cumbersome and burdensome that the officials, the city officials, could not and would not enforce it. The particular amendment applies to the attaching of some lighting device—it may not be a lighting device, but some kind of a device for the purpose of indicating when you are about to turn to the right. In many cases it would not be in working order, and even if it were it would not be enforced by the authorities, so, we thought, what was the use of incorporating into a bill a provision that could not be enforced. Therefore I strongly object to this particular amendment.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to waste much time in arguing this point. Its purpose is simply for the protection of life. If this device should be out of order, in case of accident, they will have to pay damages. But if this be incorporated into the bill I believe that it will decrease the death rate and the accident rate tremendously. The amendment is offered for the purpose of protecting people on the public road and I hope that you will vote to put this amendment in the measure.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, the only reason I requested that this bill be sent back to the committee is that it covers the same ground practically as a number of other bills, now in the Public Roads Committee, cover——

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman is not talking upon the amendment suggested but upon a measure that was defeated.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order of the gentleman from Delaware is well taken.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add a few words to the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle. I have been in the automobile buisness for several years, and it would be to my interest personally, in a small way, to see it go through, because I could sell two or three thousand people this machine to put on the back of the car; but I want to tell you that all of the people that I know in the automobile business are larger than that, and would not want for themselves profit from such an addition to the equipment of a machine. I want also to take exception to his remarks about not being able to see a hand out at night. I want to say that you can see a hand out at night just the same as in the daytime. if your light are properly lighted. I also want to say that the great number of these accidents occur when persons are going at a very high rate of speed. If they were driving according to the legal rate of speed such accidents would not occur and would be unusual. I see no reason whatever why this amendment should be passed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to as follows:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor, being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 11, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: There is pending before your honorable bodies an Act to appropriate two millions of dollars ($2,000,000) as an emergency fund to be expended upon warrant of the Governor, duly audited by the Auditor General of the Commonwealth.

The reasons for the intorduction of this Act are as follows: Your Executive, impressed by the serious situation now confronting this Commonwealth and Nation, called upon above two hundred leading citizens to perform the unselfish and patriotic duty of becoming a Committee of Public Safety for Pennsylvania. These gentlemen in open conference selected an Executive Commitee of twelve, who with their president were given certain powers and duties of great moment to the safety of the people of Pennsylvania.

This Executive Commitee, together with the other officers of the General Committee, unanimously approved the act now before you and urged its prompt passage. The form in which this act is drawn corresponds with the precedents set by the Assemblies of this Commonwealth since 1861, which precedents are as follows:

The Legislature, April 12, 1861, passed "An Act for the better organization of the militia of the Commonwealth." This act appropriated five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) and provided that its expenditure should be "under the direction and by the advice and consent of the Governor, and no bill shall be paid without being endorsed by him."

The Legislature, May 15, 1861, passed "An Act to create a loan and to provide for the arming of the State." Section one authorized the Governor and State Treasurer to borrow a sum not exceeding three million dollars ($3,000,000) and section II provides that these funds shall be drawn from "the State Treasury from time to time upon the warrant of the Governor." Section 13 of the same Act further provided that twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) be appropriated for the compensation of men required by the Governor to serve the State or National Government. This sum likewise was payable upon the warrant of the Governor.

The Legislature, May 4,. 1864, passed an act to create a loan and provided for arming the State, in section 4, of which the Governor is authorized to draw on his warrant from the State Treasury a sum not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000.)

In the year 1902 when the National Guard was called out by the Governor to suppress industrial disturbances in the anthracite coal district, the Governor drew from time to time as his warrant book shows, large sums of money which were honored by the State Treasurer and the money used to suppress the disturbance. There was no appropriation for the purpose by the authority for the Governor's action was based upon Section 40 of the Act of April 28, 1899, which provides that compensation for the National Guard when in actual service shal be provided upon warrants drawn by the Governor upon the Treasurer of the Commonwealth. This was done and the accounts duly audited by the Auditor General.

The Act of May 5, 1911, appropriated a million dollars ($1,000,000) as an emergency fund, to be paid upon the warrant drawn by the Governor upon the State Treasurer.

The Act of June 13, 1907, provides that there shall be placed at the disposal of the Governor and to be expended under orders of the Governor, the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000), for which the Governor is authorized to draw his warrant diectly upon the State Teasurer.

The Act of May 11, 1909, provides substantially the same method for the expenditure of a similar sum of money.

The Act of May 5, 1911, provides that warrants shall be drawn by the Governor upon the State Treasurer for the purpose of repelling invasion, etc., in this Commonwealth.

The Act of June 13, 1911, provides substantially the same form of appropriation upon the order of the Governor, who shall draw on his warrant upon the State Treasurer the sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) for the purposes incident to the suppression of insurrection, riot, etc., in Pennsylvania.

The Act of June 25 1913, likewise provides by placing at the disposal of the Governor of the Commonwealth the sum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) a method of suppressing insurrection, repelling invasion, etc., in this Commonwealth and authorize the Governor to draw warrant directly upon the State Treasurer in the expenditure of this fund.

These precedents, continuing through the years, clearly demonstrate the fact that the Legislature has always adhered to the implied purpose of the Constitution by placing these emergency funds from time to time at the disposal of the Governor. In the Constitution, the Governor is not only given supreme executive authority but he is likewise designated and authorized to be the Commander-in-Chief of the army and the navy of the Commonwealth.

In addition to the precedents and methods above indicated, I beg to advise you that West Virginia, where the Governor is Commonder-in- Chief under the militiary code of that state, appropriations are made to the military authorties upon the warrant of the Governor and subject to his approval.

In the State of Iowa, an appropriation of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) has just been made for military defense purposes and payment in such cases is made upon the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Illinois, a million of dollars ($1,000,000) has been appropriated in the present emergency, to be expended by the Adjutant General upon the approval of the Governor, which is the customary method in that State of making similar appropriations.

In the State of Rhode Island, an appropriation of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) has been made for the common defense in the present war, to be expended by the Governor upon proper vouchers approved by him alone.

In the State of New Hampshire, an appropriation of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) is pending in the Assembly, which sum is to be expended by the Governor, upon his warrant.

In the State of Indiana, one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) has been appropriated for the use of the Adjutnat General, subject to the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Michigan, a bill is pending authorizing the Governor and State Treasurer to borrow and bond the State for the purpose of being prepared for all calls of a military nature made by the National Government, the money to be expended upon the certification of the Governor that the amount stated is needed for the purposes specified.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has set aside one million of dollars ($1,000,000) to be expended under the direction of the Governor as Commander-in-Chief, in defraying the military and other expenses in the present emergency.

The State of Maine has appropriated a million dollars ($1,000,000) for war purposes, the same to be expended under the executive directions of the Governor. In this State, as in Massachusetts, there is a council provided, whose approval the Governor receives in all matters of executive action.

In the State of Connecticut, a military and industrial census has been taken, the expense of which was provided to be paid by the Controller upon orders by the Governor.

In the State of New York, a series of legislative enactments, making appropriations, have been approved by the Governor, all of which provided that a fund of one million dollars ($1,000,000) is set aside to be expended when the Governor shall certify the necessity for its use and shall draw warrant upon the Treasurer, upon the approval of the Adjutant General and the audit of the Comptroller.

In the State of New Jersey, one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) has been set aside to be disbursed by the Quarter Master General upon the approval of the Governor.

In the State of Vermont, one million of dollars ($1,000,000) has been set aside to be expended by the Governor as Captain General and Commander-in-Chief, as provided in their constitution.

These acts of the several states and the precedents established in our own Commonwealth amply justify the action of the Executive Committee of Public Safety for this Commonwealth in asking for the approval of the emergency fund of two million dollars ($2,000,000) to be appropriated in the manner now pending before your honorable bodies.

I beg to advise you further that it is the judgment of your Executive, acting as Commander-in-Chief, in harmony with what information he has been able to receive from the National Government that it will be incumbent upon us in view of the inadequacy of current revenue to authorize the creation of a bonded indebtedness as provided by the Constitution of the Commonwealth, for the purpose of repelling invasions, suppression insurrections and defending the State in war. The amount of this bonded indebtedness I am unable at this present moment to indicate, but when that bill is presented to your Honorable bodies for consideration, as now drawn, it will provide that the monies collected from the sale of bonds or certificates of loan, which your bodies may hereafter authorize, shall be disbursed by the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer in such manner as they may jointly determine, the money to be paid by the State Treasurer upon warrant signed by the Governor.

Under these circumstances in order that there shall be no further delay in placing Pennsylvania solidly and patriotically in line with the National Government in defense of our national honor and in protection of our people and industries, I hereby express my willingness, if in your judgment you so consider it wise, to have a similar board, made up of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer, all of whom are State wide elective officers, to act as a disbursing body as provided in the proposed loan bill. The other surviving State wide elective officer, namely, the Auditor General, is not included in this list for the very important and necessary reason that it is incompatible with good public administration to have any official expend money and subsequently audit his own expenditures. The law places upon the Auditor General the important and necessary obligation of auditing all expenditures made under these or other acts of Assembly in which money is appropriated for any purpose whatever, and for that reason it is not deemed wise that he should be included in the Board which will expend the money but that he shall be left free to be the auditor of the expenditures of the other officials herein indicated.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate, being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives, April 11, 1917.

Whereas, The deepest gloom has been cast over the City of Chester and the surrounding territory by the terrible catastrophe which occurred at Eddystone and which has killed and maimed so many of the best citizens of that community; and

Whereas, Not only the City of Chester and the surrounding territory, but the entire State, feels deeply the loss in human life that it has sustained by reason of this catastrophe; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby extends its sympathy as well as that of the entire Commonwealth, to the people of Chester and the surrounding territory; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor is authorized to convey to the Mayor of the City of Chester and the Burgess of Eddystone Borough the sympathy of this General Assembly and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, assuring them that not only the sympathy but also the assistance which is in his power and at his command are available to the people of this community.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate, being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, April 11, 1917.

Whereas, Many persons committed to insane or feeble-minded institutions are being cured of their diseases and are being returned to their homes and families; and

Whereas, Many persons so discharged from such institutions are often conscious of the fact that their neighbors and friends are aware that they were inmates of such insane or feeble-minded institutions; and

Whereas, In order to remove at least in some degree this conscious feeling of such persons, and to bring this Commonwealth in line with the modern thought as well as the idea of medical science, the names of such institutions should be changed; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly that the names of all State and semi-State and private institutions for insane and feeble-minded be changed by striking from such name the words, "insane, lunatics, feeble-minded" and similar words, which will materially aid in removing the possibility of having that stigma cast upon inmates thereof; and be it further

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the trustees or directors of all insane and feeble-minded institutions be urged to take the proper steps to have the names of their respective institutions changed to conform with the ideas conveyed and objects desired to be accomplished by this resolution by naming them by amendment of the present laws or otherwise, as "Institutions or Hospitals for the Treatment of Mental Diseases," or other appropriate names.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor, being introduced, presented the following communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, viz:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 162.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 29, 1917.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 162, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the purpose of maintaining and preserving the public roads through the Cornplanter Indian Reservation in Elk Township Warren County Pennsylvania."

This Bill specifically appropriates two certain sums of money from the State Treasury to maintain and to preserve public roads and highways passing the Cornplanter Indiana Reservation in Elk Township, Warren County, Pennsylvania.

Article III, Section 7 of the Constitution expressly provides that the General Assembly "Shall not pass any local or special law; Authorizing the laying out, opening, altering of maintaining roads, highways, streets or alleys." Manifestly this Bill is in direct opposition to the Constitution. Moreover, if the roads are part of the State highway system they will be cared for by the department in charge. If they are not state highways, their upkeep is properly a charge upon the local authorities in precisely the same way as are almost eighty thousand miles of roads of like character in the Commonwealth. The Bill is both unconstitutional and contrary to sound public policy.

For these reasons this Bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the veto of the Governor to the contrary not to stand?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the question, together with the bill, be laid upon the table.

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Mr. RAMSEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to proceed to the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 312, File Folio 2185.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 312, entitled

An Act to amend sections one, two, three, four, five, six and seven, of Article VII, of an act approved the second day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, entitled "An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania, and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith," by providing for motor ambulances and requiring them to be furnished, free of charge, with registration certificates and number tags.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the first second third fourth fifth sixth and seventh sections of Article seven of an act approved the second day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and seventy-six) entitled "An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith" which reads as follows

"Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine or colliery except as hereinafter provided shall provide and keep at such mine or colliery an ambulance and also at least two (2) stretchers for the purpose of conveying to their places of abode any person or persons who may be injured while in the discharge of his or their work at such mine or colliery

"Section 2 The said ambulance shall be constructed upon good substantial and easy springs It shall be covered and closed and shall have windows on the sides or ends It shall be of sufficient size to convey at least two (2) injured persons with two (2) attendants at one time and shall be provided with spring mattresses or other comfortable bedding to beplaced on roller frames together with sufficient covering and protection and convenient movement of the injured It shall also be provided with seats for the attendants The stretchers shall be constructed of such material and in such manner as to afford the greatest ease and comfort in the carriage of the injured person"

"Section 3 Whenever any person or persons employed in or about a mine or colliery shall receive such injury by accident or otherwise while so employed as would render him or them unable to walk to his or their place of abode the owner operator or superintendent of such mine or colliery shall immediately cause such person or persons to be removed to his or their place of abode or to an hospital as the case may require"

"Section 4 It is provided however that the owner operator or superintendent of any mine or colliery shall be excepted from the requirement of an ambulance as aforesaid if the places of abode of all the workmen at such mine or colliery be within a radius of a half mile from the principal entrance to such mine"

"Section 5 It is provided further that when two or more mines or collieries are located within one mile of each other or the ambulance is located within one mile of each colliery but one ambulance as aforesaid shall be required if the said mines or collieries have ready and quick means of communication one with the other by telegraph or telephone"

"Section 6 An ambulance as aforesaid shall not be required at any mine or colliery at which less than twenty (20) persons are employed"

"Section 7 In case the distance from any mine or colliery to the place of abode of the person injured is such as to permit his conveyance to his home or to an hospital more quickly and conveniently by railway such mode of conveyance shall be permitted but in such case the conveyance must be under cover and the comfort of the injured person must be provided for" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine or colliery except as hereinafter provided shall provide and keep at such mine or colliery a motor ambulance and also at least two (2) stretchers for the purpose of conveying to their places of abode any person or persons who may be injured while in the discharge of his or their work at such mine or colliery

Section 2 The said motor ambulance shall be constructed upon good substantial and easy springs It shall be covered and closed and shall have windows on the sides or ends It shall be of sufficient size to convey at least two (2) injured persons with two (2) attendants at one time and shall be provided with spring mattresses or other comfortable bedding to be placed on roller frames together with sufficient covering and protection and convenient movement of the injured It shall also be provided with seats for the attendants The stretchers shall be constructed of such material and in such manner as to afford the greatest ease and comfort in the carriage of the injured persons

Section 3 Whenever any person or persons employed in or about a mine or colliery shall receive such injury by accident or otherwise while so employed as would render him or them unable to walk to his or their place of abode the owner operator or superintendent of such mine or colliery shall immediately cause such person or persons to be removed in said motor ambulance to his or their place of abode or to an hospital as the case may require

Section 4 It is provided however that the owner operator or superintendent of any mine or colliery shall be excepted from the requirement of a motor ambulance as aforesaid if the places of abode of all the workmen at such mine or colliery be within a radius of half mile from the principal entrance to such mine

Section 5 It is provided further that where two or more mines or collieries are located within two miles of each other or motor ambulance is located within two miles of each colliery but one motor ambulance as aforesaid shall be required if the said mines or collieries have ready and quick means of communication one with the other by telegraph or telephone

Section 6 A motor ambulance as aforesaid shall not be required at any mine or colliery at which less than twenty (20) persons are employed

Section 7 In case the distance from any mine or colliery to the place of abode of the person injured is such as to permit his conveyance to his home or to an hospital more quickly and conveniently by railway such mode of conveyance shall be permitted but in such case the conveyance must be under cover and the comfort of the injured person must be provided for

There shall be furnished free of charge by the State Highway Department a registration certificate and two number tags for every such motor ambulance

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?

BILLS RE-COMMITTED.
